WHITE HOUSE SAYS REDS HAVE MADE NUCLEAR TEST OVER CENTRAL ASIA

ANNOUNCEMENT BY U.S. GIVES NO DETAILS ON SIZE OF DEVICE USED

Explosion of Substantial Yield in Intermediate Range Is Detonated Off in the Atmosphere.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (UPI)—The Soviet Union has conducted a nuclear test in the atmosphere above central Asia, the White House reported today.

The announcement said the test took place in the general area of Semipalatinski.

"The device tested had a substantial yield in the intermediate range," it said.

The White House gave no further details as to the size of the device tested.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said today that Russia's plan to resume nuclear tests shows clearly the Soviet Union intends to "rest its future policy on the terrorization of humanity."

Dean, who returned to this country last night from the stalemated test-ban negotiations at Geneva, said the 100-megaton bomb which Russia threatens to use "is not a military weapon." He classed such destructive power as "a weapon of mass terror" and charged the Russians would be testing it as such.

Dean read his statement after his second meeting of the morning with President Kennedy.

Referring to the Soviet announcement about the resumption of tests, Dean said:

"These events at this time when the world could have had a workable treaty show a determined Soviet purpose to rest its future policy on the terrorization of humanity. Soviet policy is a policy of overkill, but the Soviet government underestimates the people of the world if it thinks they will capitulate to a strategy of blackmail and terror."

Drafted in Meeting.

Dean told reporters his statement had been drafted while he conferred with Mr. Kennedy.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and John J. McCloy, Mr. Kennedy's disarmament adviser, also met with the President in another of the series of conferences Mr. Kennedy has been holding with top-rank officials since Moscow announced Wednesday that it would resume testing nuclear weapons.

Dean said the next meeting at Geneva is scheduled for Monday and the United States would be represented by his deputy, Charles C. Steele, who would continue to attend future meetings "until further announcement."

Dean clearly implied that there

GOULART NEARS BRAZIL, RIVAL TROOPS ON MOVE

Vice President Bides Time in Montevideo — Forces Land at Several Points in Effort to Subdue His Stronghold.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Sept. 1 (AP)—Vice President Joao Goulart reached the vicinity of the Brazilian border today for a dramatic return to claim the presidency that could plunge South America's biggest nation into civil war.

Beaming with confidence, the 42-year-old Vice President bided his time in Montevideo as rival military forces jockeyed cautiously for position.

Brazil's three military chiefs, headed by War Minister Marshal Odilio Denys, announced yesterday a "combined operation had been launched to subdue the pro-Goulart Third Army in the southern state of Rio Grande do Sul, the Vice President's home.

There were reports of small-scale landings at several points but no fighting was reported.

The aircraft carrier Minas Gerais and three destroyers sailed out of Guanabara bay at Rio de Janeiro and steamed southward this morning. Their destination was not known.

Barges have been sunk at the entrance to the 140-mile-long Lagoa dos Patos (Ducks Lagoon), the sea approach to Porto Alegre, to block a direct naval attack on the pro-Goulart state capital.

Goulart, opposed for the presidency by the military chiefs as being pro-Communist, told reporters in the Uruguayan capital that his position is "shaping up good" as the week-long crisis created by the sudden resignation of President Janio Quadros seemed to near a showdown.

Goulart did not say when, where or how he would make his return entry into the country. He has proclaimed at every stop on his journey back from a Far Eastern tour that took him to Peiping: "I am returning to Brazil to assume the presidency."

The leftist Labor party leader emphasized he favors a constitutional government founded on Christian principles and de-

WARRANTS TO BE SOUGHT AGAINST MAN, GIRL, 13, IN KIDNAPING CASE

FBI Requests Action in Search for Missing East Side Woman — Photographs of Pair Are Identified.

Issuance of kidnaping warrants against a 32-year-old man and a 13-year-old girl in connection with the abduction of a St. Clair county woman was authorized today by the United States Attorney Carl W. Feickert at East St. Louis at the request of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Named in the request for the warrant were John Edwin Meyer, whose last known address was in Chicago, and a Chicago girl who was said to have been visiting relatives in Edwardsville this summer. She disappeared Aug. 22.

The FBI said that Meyer is also known as John Meyers, Charles (Chuck) Carter and Charles E. Carter. Meyer was described by the FBI as being five feet, 9 inches tall and weighing 125 pounds. The girl was described as being five feet, 4 inches tall and weighing 140 pounds.

Abducted Wednesday.

The kidnap victim is Miss Margaret Wernicker, 1801 South Seventy-fourth street, in the eastern part of St. Clair county. She was abducted Wednesday night from her home by an armed man accompanied by an overweight young woman.

The South Seventy-fourth street address is a few blocks from the scene of the murder of George Ballard and his daughter, Carol, 10. Authorities believe the kidnapers killed Ballard and the child.

Miss Wernicker has not been heard from since shortly after 9 p.m. Wednesday, some time after the man and young woman invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Graham, with whom Miss Wernicker lived.

Photographs Identified.

The FBI said Mr. and Mrs. Graham have identified photographs of Meyer and the girl as being Miss Wernicker's abductors.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock that Miss Wernicker telephoned the Grahams from a pay booth in the 800 block of Market street in St. Louis, saying she was still being held by the armed man.

The kidnapers had fled in Graham's car.

Miss Wernicker, 39 years old, told the Grahams that the man said he had to drive 50 or 60 miles into Missouri to his father's home. He said he was in trouble in Illinois and wanted to go to his father and surrender to authorities.

As a result, the search for Miss Wernicker and her abductors has been concentrated in Missouri, but not even the green-painted 1954 Chevrolet which the kidnapers took from the Grahams has been spotted.

Illinois authorities believe that if the kidnapers are still using the car, they have been staying off the highways. The Illinois State Police said they would ask the Missouri Highway Patrol to throw its airplanes into the search for the car in the hope of spotting it on a back road.

Threatens to Kill Her.

The man, who was carrying a revolver, told Graham he was taking Miss Wernicker as a hostage to make sure Graham did not telephone police before he had ample time to make his escape. He said he would kill Miss Wernicker if Graham called police immediately.

Graham waited two hours before alerting authorities to the abduction and car theft.

The kidnapers apparently drove from the Graham home to the pay telephone booth on Market street in St. Louis. Then they disappeared.

The Missouri Highway Patrol yesterday afternoon arrested a man at Dumar, Mo., and a woman near Pacific. They were brought to St. Louis police headquarters, where the Grahams looked at them. The Grahams said the two were not Miss Wernicker's abductors. The man was freed and the woman was held for questioning by Illinois authorities about recent burglaries there.

Ballard and his daughter, who was a fifth grade pupil at Harmony School in Belleville, went

FBI CHECKING POSSIBILITY OF BOMB BLAST ON TWA AIRLINER

Craft Going From Boston to Los Angeles Crashes in Field — Several Family Groups Lose Lives.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP) — A Trans World Airlines tourist-class airliner with several family groups aboard crashed and burned in a muddy cornfield today, minutes after taking off for Los Angeles, killing all 78 persons aboard.

The four-engined Constellation exploded and caught fire as it plowed into the rain-soaked ground 10 miles west of Chicago's Midway airport.

It was the third worst United States commercial plane accident, but both of those with greater loss of life were double crashes after collisions in the air.

Witnesses said the plane apparently crashed in an emergency landing attempt. They said there was no explosion in the air.

In Washington the FBI said it had started an investigation of the possibility that a bomb may have caused the crash. However, several witnesses said they doubted that a bomb had been involved.

7 in One Family.

Most of the 73 passengers were embarking on Labor Day visits. Seven were members of one Los Angeles family.

(There was no indication any of the dead came from the St. Louis area.)

The crash came shortly after a heavy thunderstorm had swept the area.

The plane, TWA flight 529, left Boston at 7:45 p.m. yesterday. It was en route to Los Angeles and had made stops at New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago. It was to stop later at Las Vegas. It left Chicago at 2 a.m. and crashed about 10 minutes later.

Wreckage of the plane burned more than four hours after the crash.

Witness Tells of Turn.

Farmer Jerry Broz, whose house south of Hinsdale is only 150 yards from the wreckage, said he heard the big plane roar overhead, then apparently start a turn.

The plane was heading almost due north when it struck.

"I think he was trying to land," Broz said. "It might have been done successfully—with all the space here—but something went wrong."

The explosion caused residents of the area to look first southwest, toward Argonne National Laboratories. The big Atomic Energy Commission installation is five miles southwest of the crash scene.

The blast threw burning oil and scorched the side of Broz's house, melting the nylon screens on windows. A big wheel assembly went through the side of a corrugated steel machinery shed. Inside the shed later, parts of three bodies were found.

Bodies and Debris.

The dead were scattered with debris over an area of one-quarter by three-quarters of a mile. Articles seen included a tiny baby bonnet, a bathrobe, shower clogs, a partly burned dress. There were burst traveling bags and suitcases. Mail littered the ground.

As morning came, a hundred or more officials and workers prepared to collect the bodies. A Red Cross emergency disaster unit crisscrossed the field many times, driving stakes with numbers on them into the mud beside each body.

All the dead were taken to the Cook county morgue in Chicago. Hearses lined Clarendon Hills road, near the crash scene.

All five crew members were based in Los Angeles. They were:

Capt. James H. Sanders, Manhattan Beach, Calif.

First Officer Dale Terrant, Redondo Beach, Calif.

Flight Engineer James C. Newlin, Balboa Beach, Calif.

Hostess Nanette Fidger, Hermosa Beach, Calif.

EERO SAARINEN DIES; DESIGNED MEMORIAL ARCH

Architect, 51, Succumbs at Ann Arbor, Mich., Following a Brain Operation.

Eero Saarinen, noted architect who designed the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, died today in Ann Arbor, Mich.

He underwent a two-hour operation yesterday for removal of a brain tumor at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Mr. Sarrinen was 51 years old. His father, the late Eliel Saarinen, likewise was a famous architect, having won distinction in Finland before coming to the United States.

Engineers on Mr. Saarinen's 75-member staff are putting finishing touches on working drawings for the 630-foot Gateway Arch which will be the dominant feature of the memorial park on the St. Louis riverfront. His death is not expected to cause any delay in construction of the arch, associates stated.

Plans for the arch should be ready for preliminary review about Sept. 15, it was reported. The National Park Service expects to advertise for bids in six weeks and to let a construction contract in December. The towering span, an underground visitor center at its base and other salient features of the memorial are scheduled for completion by January 1964, in time for the St. Louis bicentennial observance.

Mr. Saarinen maintained, his

NASSER ATTACKS RED DECISION TO RESUME TESTING

Tells Neutral Nations Conference Kennedy, Khrushchev Should Meet at Once.

BELGRADE, Sept. 1 (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic told the opening session of the conference of non-aligned nations today that the Soviet decision to resume nuclear tests would cause the international situation to deteriorate further.

The other two sponsors of the 24-nation conference, presidents Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia and Sukarno of Indonesia, made no mention of the Soviet action in their speeches at the conference's first plenary session.

Nasser expressed "deep regret" at the Russian announcement and said it was "a shock to me and to world public opinion."

"Whatever the reasons were for the Soviet government decision," Nasser said, "its most important and clear significance is grave deterioration in the international situation."

Nasser called Berlin and Germany the "problem of problems" and said a meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev is "imperative . . . at the earliest."

The Arab leader said "saber rattling" must end and an "opportunity be left open for calm negotiations on the highest level."

SCHOOL BOARD VOTES HICKEY FULL AUTHORITY

Places Superintendent Over All Four Departments — Bruns Fears Move Is Illegal.

The St. Louis Board of Education yesterday unanimously approved a plan for centralized administration which places effective supervision of its four departments in the hands of Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey.

The board, sitting as a committee-of-the-whole, adopted the plan after a lengthy discussion in which board member H. Lee Bruns challenged the legality of the plan and offered unsuccessful motions seeking a court judgment of it.

Under the plan, the superintendent of instruction, acting as chairman of the existing committee of executive officers, is given full powers to direct and supervise all departments, including the school building department, the auditor's office and secretary-treasurer's office, in addition to his own instruction department.

Under Board's Control.

These supervisory powers will be exercised "subject to the consent of the other executive officers and to the control of the school board."

Board member James S. McClellan, sponsor of the plan, said its effect will be to weld the committee of executive officers into a "closely-knit management team with the superintendent of instruction acting as captain."

He noted that the plan puts into effect many of the changes sought in the school board's administrative reorganization bill which was defeated earlier this year by the Missouri Legislature.

He also said the plan differs from the one now in effect by "spelling out the authority and responsibilities in which the school board invests the superintendent." A resolution giving Hickey undefined "general supervision" over the other departments was adopted by the school board last year.

Although voting for the rules change, Bruns told the board he believed the plan was illegal because it stripped three of the

GIVES $100 TIPS 'TO MAKE LITTLE PEOPLE HAPPY'

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP)—The most popular man with waitresses in San Diego told police yesterday he tipped them with $100 bills—"because I wanted to make the little people happy."

Edwin Axel Carlson, 59 years old, said he inherited $4275 from his mother, Amanda Carlson, and a sister, Fanny, who died in 1958 in New Britain, Conn. He said he came to San Diego from there.

"I gave away 15 bills—$1500," Carlson said. "You should have seen each one when they received a $100 bill. They didn't believe it was true."

Carlson was questioned by police about the money and was released.

Waitresses reported a sad, unshaven man ordered coffee, drank it and then tipped them with $100 bills. They said he mentioned, "I've lost my family."

"I was miserable," he said. "But really I don't think making people happy makes me a fool."

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO LET CAPITAL'S DRINKERS STAND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The House passed a bill yesterday which would permit stand-up drinking at Washington bars, but only for those planning to sit down soon for a meal.

For years, liquor has been served only at tables in Washington restaurants. Bars are reserved for beer and wine drinkers and even these customers have to be seated.

The bill passed yesterday would allow customers to down a quick one while standing, but only if the bar is screened from the restaurant's eating area. The stand-up tippler would not be able to do any sustained drinking, because, a sponsor said, "This bill permits service without prior seating only to waiting customers who are to be seated within a short period of time."

The measure still must be acted on by the Senate.

Power From Ocean Tides.

MOSCOW, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Soviet Union disclosed yesterday it has drawn up plans for an electric power station to be operated by ocean tides near Murmansk in the Barents sea. It is to be finished by 1964.

$896,000,000 MORE CUT FROM FOREIGN AID BILL

House Committee Reduces Funds to $3,357,500,000—All Programs Scaled Down.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—President Kennedy's foreign aid program was cut another $896,000,000 today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The committee recommended $3,357,500,000 in new funds to financ for the present year the program of helping friendly nations brace themselves against the tide of Communism.

This is $1,418,000,000 less than Mr. Kennedy originally requested. A separate enabling act sent to the President yesterday held the ceiling on new money to $4,253,500,000, or more than $500,000,000 less than the White House wanted.

Today's financing bill cut every category of the aid program below the amounts Congress approved only yesterday. It is subject to House action starting next Tuesday, but in past years the House had adhered closely to its committee's recommendations.

Biggest cuts by the committee were $400,000,000 in direct military assistance, $175,000,000 in development loans, $125,000,000 in the President's flexible contingency fund, and $121,000,000 in development grants.

Loan Money Scaled Down.

The committee scaled down development loan money to $1,025,000,000 because it found the Administration "very optimistic" in assuming that all of the tentatively selected receiving countries will qualify for such aid.

The loan ceiling in the authorization bill is $1,200,000,000 for this year. That measure calls for $1,500,000,000 in each of the four following years, or a total of $7,200,000,000, down $1,600,000,000 from what Mr. Kennedy proposed.

Development grants were cut to $259,000,000, precisely the amount the Administration said is required to continue programs started in previous years.

The committee rejected the additional $121,000,000 authorized

This Takes the Cake: Missile Secret Leaks Out in Bakery

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1 (UPI)—Another security leak was disclosed yesterday in the form of a white three-layer cake.

A reporter ambling through Farmer's Market spotted the cake, which had seven small missiles on the side. It was topped by a four-inch-high missile and carried the inscription—in red icing—"Good luck, Titan."

It has been known that the Air Force was planning to launch a Titan from a new kind of 140-foot-deep silo at Vandenberg Air Force Base, but the brass has been hinting darkly that all sorts of things might happen if the launching date got out.

The reporter, figuring that even the best of cakes go stale within a week, tried to get information from the bakery, but a potential informant there clammed up.

Then he called the Air Force in Los Angeles. An officer muttered, "I wonder why they sent almost 200 miles for that cake?" but finally conceded begrudgingly, "I can't tell the date of the launching," but sometime next week "would be a pretty good guess."

Now the Air Force has a new problem: How to classify a cake. Perhaps top secret—to be eaten only by authorized personnel.

U.S. MAY GAIN MUCH SUPPORT AT U.N. BECAUSE OF TEST DECISION

Soviet Resumption of Nuclear Experiments Viewed as Blow to Hopes for Progress Toward Disarmament.

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 1 (AP)—The Soviet Union's decision to resume testing of nuclear weapons has dealt a crippling blow to hopes in the United Nations for East-West progress on disarmament.

But it has given the United States an opportunity to win great support among the Asian-African nations—the so-called neutralist group—provided the Americans play it cool. And President Kennedy is giving every indication of doing just that.

That is the consensus among many veteran observers here assessing the impact of the Soviet announcement.

The Asian-African diplomats in general shared the shock and dismay of other diplomats outside the Soviet bloc at the Soviet decision.

Proposed for Agenda.

The United States and Britain have already proposed that the General Assembly opening Sept. 19 take up the urgent need for a treaty to ban nuclear weapon tests under effective international control.

Last year the Assembly approved without a dissent a resolution calling for a test ban treaty and continued suspension of tests. The United States abstained because the resolution did not spell out the significance of effective controls.

The United States now will undoubtedly try to get the Assembly to adopt the strongest kind of resolution — one that would criticize the Soviet Union harshly for resuming tests.

President Kennedy's statement that the United States has sufficient nuclear weapons in its arsenal for defense of the free world was interpreted here as showing determination not to be stampeded into following the Soviets in resuming tests.

Praised by Neutrals.

Mr. Kennedy's carefully worded message to the Belgrade conference of non-aligned nations drew praise among the neutrals.

The United States chief delegate to the U.N., Adlai E. Stevenson, said in a statement late yesterday the Soviet decision "crushed the hopes of peace-loving peoples."

"The sorry record of Soviet obstruction and duplicity in the Geneva test ban negotiations has come to an end," he said.

U.N. delegates from around the non-Communist world were dismayed by the Soviet decision.

"It's very bad news," said an Arab neutralist.

"It's a disturbing thing," declared Indian Ambassador Chandra Shekhar Jha. "In our view, nuclear tests are wrong by any power, anywhere, whatever may be the political justification in their eyes."

A Step Toward Peace.

But Soviet delegate Platon D. Murozov told other diplomats and reporters the Kremlin decision was really a step toward peace, contending it was aimed to deter the West from starting an atomic war. He spent hours in the delegates' lounge explaining it to colleagues from Africa and Asia.

When a reporter asked about the harm of radioactive fallout from the tests, Morozov said the harm of an atomic war would be much worse.

He said the Soviet Union still favors general and complete disarmament under international control, and that this would eliminate nuclear weapons.

Other world reaction to Moscow's announcement follows:

The Japanese government said today it would protest to Moscow that Soviet resumption of nuclear testing will shower the Japanese people "with the fallout from the 'ashes of death'."

Asahi, a daily with mass circulation, called the latest Russian decision "a diplomatic victory for the United States."

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak said the Kremlin announcement was "one more piece of bad news which adds to the worsening of the international situation, but it is also an invitation to Western powers to decide on a positive policy to solve problems peacefully."

In neutral Sweden, the press was unanimous in condemning the Soviet decision.

Plane Crash

Press International that one crew took the plane from Boston to Chicago and then turned the ship over to the crew which died in the crash.)

First reports indicating that the plane had exploded in the air and crashed in a fiery mass were emphatically challenged by several residents of the area.

The cause of today's crash was not certain. The FBI began a methodical search for possible evidence of a bomb blast.

A FBI spokesman said, "We're not in any position to say anything, one way or the other. We're looking into the matter to determine whether there was any federal law violation."

(A Federal Aviation Agency official in Washington told U.P.I. a recording of the last communications between the Midway traffic controller and the TWA pilot showed "apparently nothing but routine conversation." A Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman in Chicago agreed that the tape carried nothing but ordinary take-off instructions and acknowledgements.

(The FAA and CAB reports indicated the disaster came without warning to the pilot. There were other indications, however, that he may have circled in an attempt to get back to Midway.)

Mrs. William Mouche, whose home is 150 feet from the wrecked plane, said, "It was a roar, louder than a windstorm and it went right over our heads. Then there was a crash and a muffled boom. When I looked out the window, all I could see was fire."

Dan Heidenreich, who lives about three blocks from the crash scene, said, "I saw a big ball of flames and right away started dressing. When I got to the crash scene all I could see was a big fire and blackened bodies. They were all over."

Some Dead Identified.

The dead included Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Maloney and their five children from Covina Park, a suburb of Los Angeles. The family was returning home after visiting in New York.

There were six members of the Edward N. Chamberlain family of Palo Alto, Calif.—the parents and four children. Chamberlain was a well-known architect.

Another family group of five was Mrs. Neil L. Gillian of Eureka, Calif., and her four children, returning from a visit with Mrs. Gillian's parents in New Bedford, Mass.

Four 20-year-old Concord (N.H.) girls were aboard, off together on a new adventure, intending to find jobs in a Los Angeles area hospital.

In aviation's worst disaster, 134 lives were lost in a collision over New York City between a TWA Super-Constellation and a United Air Lines DC-8 jet on Dec. 16, 1960.

Another collision in the air, over the Grand Canyon, June 30, 1956, took 128 lives. The planes which crashed were a United DC-7 and a TWA Super-Constellation.

main without representation on the U.N. Security Council and urged seating of Communist China.

Denounces Cold War Blocs.

Tito opened the conference with a denunciation of cold war blocs. He told the 23 other leaders that the meeting would assert their right to participate with the big powers in solving world problems.

He said "There still prevails, as in the past, the practice that only the biggest, the most advanced and militarily the most powerful countries attempt to make decisions involving the fate of the world."

Smaller countries, Tito said, were considered "a kind of reserve and voting machine in international forums such as the United Nations."

This meeting, he said, "illustrates, however, that such outdated practices must be discarded, that nonaligned countries can no longer reconcile themselves with the status of observers and voters and that in their opinion, they have the right to participate in the solving of world problems, particularly those which endanger peace."

He said the smaller powers do not pretend to be able to solve problems alone, but "they can contribute much both toward this end and toward easing dangerous international tensions."

Sukarno Urges Coexistence.

Sukarno called for recognition of both West and East Germany and talks between the two to solve the Berlin problem, reorganization of the United Nations, peaceful coexistence between the Western and Soviet blocs and a new effort to achieve disarmament.

"If the Soviet Union chooses to conclude a peace treaty with East Germany, let it be so," Sukarno said.

Sukarno said the conference "must demand the immediate cessation of the colonial wars now raging in Angola, Algeria and Tunisia . . . We must demand that a time limit be imposed for the complete removal of all forms of colonial subjugation of one nation by the other." He suggested a two-year time limit.

A charter of statements should be drawn up at the meeting here, Sukarno said, and presented to the United Nations General Assembly.

Sukarno said the old colonial powers warn that if they leave, new colonialism from other countries waits "behind the door to suffocate you in their embrace." This is not true, Sukarno said.

"Have no fear, gentlemen," he said. "We know a colonialist when we see one. We shall deal as effectively with new colonialism as we have dealt with and are dealing with the old one."

A warning against global war from Soviet Premier Khrushchev was conveyed to the conference by President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana yesterday.

Nkrumah had lengthy talks with Khrushchev in Russia before he flew to Belgrade.

Nkumah stressed that a major war would throw back the uncommitted nations, most of which badly need foreign aid, for decades in their development.

U.S. SAYS RUSSIA CONCEDED WEST CIVIL AIR RIGHTS

State Dept. Makes Public 1947 Soviet Note on Berlin Traffic Lanes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (UPI)—The State Department made public for the first time today a 1947 Soviet document in which it said Russia formally conceded Allied rights for civilian air travel to Berlin.

The document, dated Feb. 5, 1947, was a Soviet government report to the United States, British, French and Russian foreign ministers who were meeting in Moscow at that time.

Russia charged two weeks ago in a note to the Western Allies that the Berlin air corridors originally were meant only for Allied military traffic. The note said the corridors were being abused by civilian planes bringing in "provocative" persons.

East German Charges.

East German officials also have charged in the last two weeks that Allied civilian air flights to Berlin are "illegal" and would be stopped after Russia signs a peace treaty with East Germany.

The 1947 Soviet document described 1945 meetings of the Allied Control Council for Germany which set up the air corridors and in which Russia participated.

The document said: "A decision was taken after quadripartite agreement had been reached, to allot three air corridors for unrestricted flights by Allied aircraft over the Soviet zone of occupation in Germany."

United States officials said that while this did not specifically say "civilian aircraft" is it was clear that the whole document concerned civilian air travel.

Allied Civilian Flights.

At that time, the three Allies all were operating civilian flights to Berlin, and were quarreling with Russia over adding civilian flights of other countries. Russia said no.

The Soviet report to the foreign ministers said:

"The proposals of the United States, British, and French delegations . . . for the establishment and direction of the civil aviation of other nations in Germany is inexpedient and premature at this stage of the occupational regime in Germany."

Russia's recent note, sent on Aug. 23, said the air corridors "were set aside for the three Western powers on a temporary basis to insure the needs of their military garrisons."

"This document shows that in 1947 Russia thought otherwise," a United States official said.

West Closes Berlin Air Lanes to Dutch and Belgians.

BONN, Sept. 1 (AP) — The Western Allies have barred the Dutch and Belgian airlines from using Berlin air corridors for special flights to the Leipzig trade fair in East Germany.

Although a British embassy spokesman said the ban was in retaliation for the Communist closure of the West Berlin border, another Allied source called it a "necessary decision" to show Moscow that the air corridors are in fact reserved for the United States, British and French allies in Berlin and "are not to be challenged."

The flights to Leipzig had been scheduled to start today and run until Sept. 10. The two airlines, Dutch K.L.M. and Belgian Sabena, would have used the corridors about halfway, then turned south to Leipzig.

Alert Radio Monitor Gave U.S. Advance Word on Soviet Tests

Washington Prepared When Confirmation Came—Some Slip-Ups by Russian Propaganda Machine.

By MAX FRANKEL
© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—An alert but anonymous United States monitor at a remote Middle East listening post fished a significant paragraph out of reams of insignificant Soviet news analysis Wednesday to give Washington its first warning that Moscow had decided to resume nuclear testing.

Washington took his alert seriously and was prepared when confirmation came.

Oddly, the usually efficient Soviet propaganda machine seems to have slipped gears at least three times Wednesday afternoon.

Officials in Washington put the Middle East monitor report together with another intercepted warning of an important announcement at 7 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, and with a premature correction for a Soviet news agency dispatch that had not yet been distributed.

Thus by the time the announcement came, President Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and their top aids had planned their counter-strategy and ordered a reaction statement which was issued by 10 p.m.

The intercepted paragraph which disclosed the Soviet government's decision, was editorial comment approving it. It was part of a long and boring broadcast of praise for Soviet foreign policy sent out by Tass, the Soviet press agency, to semi-weekly newspapers in central Asia. It was broadcast from Moscow at 1:15 p.m. Washington time and was to be held for release until 7 p.m.

There was a three-hour delay before the paragraph was relayed to Washington, presumably because the Soviet broadcast first had to be transcribed from tapes and translated to officials capable of evaluating it. The message reached the State Department during the president's press conference, but he was not interrupted.

Washington had been alerted earlier by another Tass interception indicating that there would be an important announcement that evening. The pieces began to fit together when, after receipt of the Middle East report, a British reporter inquired about another Tass transmission.

His London office, the reporter said, had received a correction from Tass for a story it had not yet received. Apparently it indicated some kind of decision about nuclear testing—did the department know what was up?

The department did not know, but it could guess by then.

At 5:25, Secretary Rusk and Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, went to the White House to alert the President. They decided, as in other recent developments, not to let Moscow capture the headlines with its version of events and planned for the statement condemning the Soviet decision.

GIZENGA ARMING MOB AFTER SHOW OF FORCE BY U.N.

Shots Fired Over Heads of Congolese Troops Converging on Stanleyville Airport.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, Sept. 1 (AP)—United Nations informants said Antoine Gizenga began handing out arms to the Stanleyville mob today after U.N. troops fired warning shots over the heads of his Congolese soldiers converging on the city airport.

The U.N. sources said shooting first broke out near U.N. military headquarters in the Lumumbist stronghold last night. A Congolese soldier later was taken prisoner. Then the Congolese sent a strong detachment to reinforce their airport garrison. They withdrew only when U.N. troops fired a volley above their heads.

The United Nations continued to fly Malayan troops to Stanleyville to reinforce 2000 Ethiopians already in the city.

A joint U.N.-Congolese delegation also flew to Stanleyville today in a new bid to persuade eftist Gizenga to co-operate with the central Congolese government of Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula.

Gizenga's answer was to hand out weapons and ammunition to mobs of Lumubist youth whipped up by days of anti-Western speeches and propaganda.

Meanwhile, the U.N. command at Elizabethville announced that it was breaking off all relations with the Katanga government.

U.N. representative Conor Cruise O'Brien said in a letter to President Moise Tshombe, "The United Nations cannot maintain relations with a government which includes a minister against whom the most serious charges are pending."

The U.N. command yesterday asked Tshombe to fire Godefroid Munongo, Minister of the Interior, on the grounds he was under "grave suspicion" of plotting the murder of U.N. personnel and atrocities against Baluba tribesmen. Munongo denied the charges and won the President's support.

CHARGE NAMING OAS ENVOY IN GAMING INQUIRY MAY BE DROPPED

Delesseps Morrison Denies Accepting $65,000 From New Orleans Racketeers in Mayoral Race.

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 — Unsubstantiated charges that Delesseps Morrison, now resident Kennedy's ambassador to the Organiatiozn of American States, knowingly accepted $65,000 in political contributions in 1946 from a racketeer and a bawdy house operator will be pursued no further by Senate crime investigators, it was indicated here today.

Morrison, for nearly 16 years mayor of New Orleans before being chosen by Mr. Kennedy for the diplomatic post, issued a statement last night vigorously denying the charges, which were made yesterday at a public hearing of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

The allegations were made by Aaron Kohn, director of New Orleans Crime Commission, Inc., in the course of testimony relating to rackets operations in New Orleans and purported links between the underworld and politicians and law enforcement officials.

Morrison, in a statement issued shortly after he was informed of Kohn's charges, denounced the accusations as completely false.

Admits Having No Proof.

In the hearing, Senator Edmund S. Muskie (Dem.), Maine, drew a concession from Kohn that he had no proof of the contributions or that there were any tie-ins between Morrison and hoodlum elements in New Orleans. Muskie also induced Kohn to admit that the hoodlums involved in the purported deals refused to state under oath they had aided Morrison financially.

Morrison's denial of the charges, Kohn's lack of substantiation and the obvious difficulty of trying to track down the truth in a situation that allegedly took place 15 years ago and involved law-breakers not too prone to testify candidly, have prompted Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, chairman of the investigating committee, to drop the whole matter, it was indicated here.

Kohn's charges against Morrison boiled down to this:

1. Morrison knowingly accepted $40,000 from an operator of houses of prostitution with the understanding the contributor would be the city's vice overlord under the Morrison administration.

2. Associates of Carlos Marcello, an ex-convict alien and reputed rackets king of Louisiana, contributed $25,000 to Morrison's first campaign for mayor allegedly for permission to operate a racing news wire service.

No Gambling Permits.

In his statement last night Morrison said:

"I would like to have it made very clear that I have never given anyone a permit to operate a wire service or any type of gambling or vice during the 15½ years that I served the people of New Orleans.

"When I entered office, the city was wide open with some 6000 slot machines, some 30 public gambling houses operating openly and wide-open vice. Today, New Orleans is a model of law enforcement.

"I think these actions speak louder than the ridiculous words of a professional muckraker such as Aaron Kohn."

Kohn told the committee that in 1953 Morrison's father-in-law, John Waterman, said that he had collected $25,000 from two Marcello associates for Morrison's first mayoralty campaign and had to scurry around desperately to raise the money to pay the hoodlums back when they failed to get the gambling concessions from Morrison that they wanted. Kohn quoted Waterman as having said he was afraid the disappointed gamblers would kill him.

Kohn testified also that after Morrison took office in 1946, police raided two big race news wire services which had been exposed a few days earlier, he said, by a New Orleans newspaper.

Thereafter, he continued, the attorney for one of the enterprises asserted publicly the wire service had been opened with Morrison's permission.

Senator Karl Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, asked the witness if Morrison had sued the lawyer for libel.

Kohn said the mayor had not sued, but had denied the lawyer's statement.

TAVERN OWNER IS STABBED IN FIGHT WITH CUSTOMER

John R. Eaton, proprietor of the Knotty-Pine Cafe, 7931 South Broadway, was in serious condition today at City Hospital from bayonet stab wounds of the lower abdomen and both thighs received early today in a fight with a customer.

Edward J. Suarez, 26 years old, was arrested by police at his home, 4709 Alaska avenue, shortly after the fight and charged with assault with intent to kill.

Police reported that Suarez, a chemist at the International Shoe Co., said the fight started when he was leaving the tavern at 2:30 a.m. He said Eaton, 59, stopped him on the sidewalk and a dispute started. He said he pulled a rifle bayonet from his nearby automobile when he thought he saw another man coming to help Eaton and then "just slashed away." A railroad watchman noted the license number on Suarez's car. Police traced him through the license.

TEAMSTER AFFILIATE INVITED TO REJOIN BUILDING COUNCIL

Local 682, Building Material and Construction Drivers' Union, a Teamster affiliate, has been invited to rejoin the St. Louis Building and Construction Trades Council, Joseph Cousin, executive secretary of the council, said today.

Cousin acknowledged that the action, taken July 1, was without consultation with the national policy of his organization and the AFL-CIO, which expelled all Teamster affiliates in 1957 because they had refused to repudiate James R. Hoffa, Teamster president.

The council is opposed to dual unionism in St. Louis, Cousin said, and is friendly with the teamster leadership here. A majority of the council's members asked that the invitation be extended to Local 682, he added.

FINED $1000 FOR FALSELY REPORTING LOSS OF LICENSE

Walter R. Nash, a laborer, of the 3800 block of Page boulevard, was fined $1000 today when he pleaded guilty of falsely reporting the loss of his state driver's license, which had been revoked.

Jasper R. Vettori, associate prosecuting attorney, stated in the court of criminal correction that the license was revoked when Nash failed to pass a driving test in March 1960. Nash continued to drive, Vettori said, by appearing each month at a state license office and telling clerks he had mislaid the license.

Each time a clerk gave Nash a receipt stating that the license was lost. The receipt was good for only 30 days. He was arrested when he appeared July 12 at the Revenue Department office, 921 Washington avenue, for his thirteenth receipt. Judge David FitzGibbon imposed the fine.

EASTON BOOT AND SHOE CO. CLOSED, AFFECTING 300

The Easton Boot and Shoe Co., 2107 Lucas avenue, a subsidiary of Hamilton Shoe Co., was closed yesterday and its assets and liabilities will be absorbed by the parent company, C. D. P. Hamilton III, president, announced today.

Hamilton said the company opened a factory at DeSoto, Mo., two years ago in anticipation of a higher volume that failed to materialize. The production at Easton Boot and Shoe will be absorbed by the DeSoto plant and another subsidiary in St. Louis, he said.

About 300 persons were affected by the closing. Hamilton said that if spring business is good, some of these workers will be hired by the parent company. He said the closing of the Easton plant was not a result of any labor difficulties.

STRIKE BY 240 HALTS WORK AT STEEL ROLLING MILL

Operations of the Missouri Rolling Mill Corp., 6800 Manchester avenue, were halted today by a strike of about 240 employes over a new contract to replace one that expired last night.

The strikers are represented by Local 1023, United Steelworkers of America. A company spokesman said the chief stumbling block in reaching an agreement involved contract provisions on seniority rights.

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is assisting in the negotiations. The company manufactures a variety of steel products, including angles and bars.

URGES SPEEDY DISPOSITION OF SMALL ARMS PLANT

The Joint Labor-Management Council of St. Louis, consisting of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the AFL-CIO Labor Council, has asked the Federal Government to expedite disposition of the Small Arms Plant, North Goodfellow boulevard, to private industry, it was announced today.

A council statement, which asserts that "each day of delay means a delay in putting people to work in productive enterprise and a loss of tax revenue," was also sent to state legislators, Chamber of Commerce president, Aloys P. Kaufmann, said.

"In view of the fact that the Department of Defense has no further use for the property, we believe every effort should be made to see if it can be returned to the tax rolls and put to use," he said. Most of the 250-acre property, containing more than 250 buildings, is classified by the chamber as "prime industrial property" and could provide employment for almost 20,000 persons and considerable tax revenue, Kaufmann said.

NEGRO GUEST AT THE CHASE USES POOL AFTER DISPUTE

An incident of racial discrimination at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel, in which a Negro delegate to the American Sociological Association convention was denied admittance to the hotel swimming pool, has been resolved, it was reported yesterday.

Chester Stovall, director of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations, said hotel officials have posted signs in the lobby indicating all guests may use the swimming facilities. The action followed a conference with council officials.

Prof. Charles V. Willie of Syracuse University, Syracuse, N.Y., complained to the council that he was refused access to the pool Tuesday, although he was a guest at the hotel. He said he was told the pool was "private." Following the conference on the incident, Willie said he swam in the pool without incident. The hotel is the headquarters for the sociologists during their five-day meeting, which will end tomorrow.

FRANCIS SMITH QUITS MENTAL HEALTH POST

J. H. Meredith Named to State Commission — Russell Sexton Is New Chairman.

By RONALD WILLNOW
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1 — Former State Senator Francis Smith of St. Joseph resigned today as chairman of the State Mental Health Commission.

Gov. John M. Dalton immediately named James H. Meredith, St. Louis attorney, to fill the vacancy on the commission and appointed Russell Sexton of Jefferson City, a present member of the board, as chairman.

Smith, in a letter to Dalton, said he was submitting his resignation so "there will be no uncertainty concerning your appointing someone to succeed me."

Smith's four-year term expired last Tuesday. Dalton said Smith had indicated several weeks ago that he did not wish to be reappointed. The Governor said today he called Smith last Tuesday and asked him if he would reconsider. He said Smith declined and sent his resignation.

In accepting the resignation Dalton praised Smith for his "effective and dedicated services" to the state.

Critical of Cuts.

Smith, under whose chairmanship the commission and Dr. Addison M. Duval, state mental health director, devised a broad 10-year mental health program a year ago, had been critical of cuts made by the Governor in the mental health budget early this year.

The commission sought a $17,000,000 increase in its operating budget for the current biennium, but Dalton recommended only a $7,000,000 increase.

Smith warned that unless the cuts were restored the 10-year program would become, "at best, a 40-year program."

The Legislature restored part of the cut after pleas by Smith, Duval and others.

Smith was one of the original members of the commission, which was established in 1957 as part of a reorganization intended to modernize the state's mental health program.

Smith's Letter.

In his letter Smith said, "The last four years of service on the State Mental Health Commission have been extremely rewarding and it is my hope that in this period we have substantially advanced the cause of mental health in Missouri."

He added that he did not believe he should serve another term because "perhaps new blood on the commission will provide additional impetus for the future."

Smith has also served on the State Board of Training Schools and Little Hoover Commission in addition to being in the State Senate.

Meredith, who lives at 10 Plaza square, St. Louis, has been active in Democratic politics for many years. He was legal secretary to former Gov. Forrest Smith and campaign manager for United States Senator Stuart Symington. His father was at one time Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives.

Sexton is a stock broker and a Republican.

Medical Deans Ready for Talks On Improving City Hospital Pay

They Stress, However, That Schools Are Unlikely to Supplement Key Physicians' Salaries Extensively.

Deans of the Washington University and St. Louis University schools of medicine said today they are willing to negotiate with city officials on helping to improve salaries of key physicians in the St. Louis hospital system.

They emphasized, however, that the city has the responsibility for providing higher salaries, and that the universities would be unlikely to go along with requests for extensive supplementary payments by the medical schools.

Dr. Kenneth Nelson, city hospital commissioner, and R. Elliott Scearce, personnel director, said yesterday they hoped to meet soon with Dr. Edward W. Dempsey, dean of the Washington University School of Medicine, and Dr. James W. Colbert Jr., dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, to discuss salary improvements for city doctors.

The deans, along with Dr. J. Earl Smith, director of health and hospitals, have said that salary levels are too low to permit most doctors to devote full time to hospital duties. Training programs at City Hospital and Homer G. Phillips Hospital consequently have deteriorated to the point where both hospitals are having difficulty attracting interns, they said.

Dr. Dempsey, Dr. Colbert and Dr. Smith have asserted that the trend can be reversed if the city offers sufficient money to attract a hard core of physician-teachers in key positions who will work full time at the hospitals without having to supplement their incomes through private practice.

Dr. Smith's Suggestion.

Dr. Smith has suggested that an arrangement might be worked out whereby the city pays most of the salary and the universities supplement the amount. He said that practice is followed in other large cities.

Dr. Dempsey and Dr. Colbert pointed out that the universities already supplement the salaries of a few city doctors. In at least one case, that of Dr. Leo Mulligan, medical director of City Hospital, St. Louis University pays him more than does the city, Dr. Colbert said. In his present civil service classification, Dr. Mulligan, a surgeon, has a maximum salary potential of $11,576 a year.

Dr. Dempsy said Washington University is supplementing city salaries at present "as a public service and not because we get anything out of it."

"We have our own teaching facilities at Barnes Hospital," he said. "It is adequate to our purposes. But by supporting a few full-time doctors, we hope to demonstrate to the city that having people working on a full-time basis is a good thing to do, that the quality of medical care is so good that the practice is worth following.

"We have succeeded in demonstrating that point in the internal medicine program at City Hospital. We are supporting a full-time man to head the program, and it is the only one at the hospital that has attracted a full quota of interns."

Dr. Dempsey's View.

Dr. Dempsey, who is convalescing from a heart attack, said he would be "delighted to sit down and negotiate the matter with the city" although "I do take a dim view of the universities subsidizing the city." He said he is able to discuss the situation on the telephone now and ought to be able to talk in person in another week or so.

Dr. Colbert said he is in touch with Dr. Nelson frequently, although the matter of salary supplementation has not been raised. He said he would have to know more details about the proposal before he could say whether St. Louis University might become committed.

"I'd be happy to meet with city officials," he said. "I'm very interested in seeing the city hospital system established on a proper basis. We could not supplement salaries in an extensive manner, however. I personally feel the city should pick up the costs of improved salaries."

MASKED MEN ROB SUPERMARKET ON NATURAL BRIDGE

Three Escape in Auto With Undetermined Sum From Rapp's Safe—Car Found.

An undetermined sum was taken by three men today in the holdup of a crowded Rapp's Supermarket at 6700 Natural Bridge road, Beverly Hills, police reported.

Witnesses said three men, armed and wearing straw hats and masks, entered the store about 1:30 p.m. While one stood at the door, another took up a position near the cashier's cage in the front of the store.

The third man leaped over a barrier into the cashier's cage and shoved aside a woman employe. The safe door contained the key in the lock and was readily opened. The robber scooped up the money and and dropped it into an airline flight bag.

In leaping back over the barrier, the robber landed with a crash among some soda bottles, breaking several and attracting the attention of shoppers. The three then fled in a car which thhey had left on the parking lot. They drove east in Natural Bridge.

The car, its motor running, was found abandoned on the parking lot of the Katz Drug Store at 6150 Natural Bridge in Pine Lawn. It contained two pairs of canvas gloves worn by two of the robbers.

The men dropped some of their loot. Found near the outside door of the market were $10 worth of quarters. St. Louis county police also found one of the straw hats and a mask, the latter apparently a diaper, a short distance from the market. A cylinder of a revolver also was found on the Rapp parking lot.

ANHEUSER-BUSCH INC. GIVES UNITED FUND NEON BILLBOARD

A large, neon billboard was presented to United Fund last night by Anheuser-Busch Inc. The sign, 18 by 60 feet, has the fund's campaign slogan on it: "Your Finest Hour Is the Hour You Give."

Campaign chairman Ethan A. H. Shepley Jr., threw a switch to light the sign at 3562 Market street. About 100 persons attended the ceremony. Goal for the campaign is $9,050,000.

ST. LOUIS CRIME RATE REDUCED NEARLY 9 PCT.

A reduction of nearly 9 per cent in the St. Louis crime rate for the first half of this year, as compared with the first half of last year, was reported by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington yesterday.

The national rate showed an increase of 7 per cent for the same period.

In the various categories of major crime, reductions here were in forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, larceny and auto theft. There were increases in murder and manslaughter, and in burglary.

The downward trend in St. Louis, which had been reflected in previous statistics of the St. Louis Police Department, was credited by Chief of Police Curtis Brostron to several factors. They included the assignment of more men to duty after dark, placing of mobile reserves in areas of higher crime incidence, and use of one-man cars, decoys and dogs.

The six-month total this year was 10,111, as compared with 11,085 through June of last year.

The breakdown was as follows (first figure for 1961 and second for 1960); murder and non-negligent manslaughter, 35 and 28; forcible rape, 84 and 121; robbery, 916 and 1112; aggravated assault, 447 and 1057; burglary, 5194 and 4926; larceny of $50 or more, 1651 and 1913, and auto theft, 1784 and 1928.

For the country as a whole there were increases of 8 per cent in burglary and larceny, 6 per cent in auto theft, and 3 per cent in robbery. The first national reduction for any class of crime since 1959 was in rape—a decline of 1 per cent.

STRECKFUS FILES AMENDED PETITION IN BIAS ACT SUIT

An amended petition attacking the city's public accommodations law as unconstitutional was filed today in circuit court by Streckfus Streamers, Inc., operator of the excursion steamer Admiral.

The company alleged the law violates the charter of the City of St. Louis by attempting to invest the Council of Human Relations with Judicial powers. The charter prescribes that city courts shall have jurisdiction over all violations of ordinances, it stated.

The company also said that one section of the law, which became effective July 1, fails to clearly define places of public accommodation. The original suit filed by the Streckfus company has been pending since June 29. The law provides fines of $25 to $500 for operators of public places who discriminate against persons by reason of race, color, religion or ancestry.

BENSON'S ORDER REVERSED, WATER IN HAMS BANNED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—With a bow to the consumer, the Government squeezed the water out of smoked hams today.

An order by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman applying to smoked pork products marketed under federal inspection reverses one by Freeman's predecessor, Ezra Taft Benson.

Last December, Benson, Secretary of Agriculture in the Eisenhower administration, permitted the addition of up to 10 per cent moisture in smoked hams.

Consumer groups protested and Freeman ordered a series of public hearings. The hearings, Freeman said, showed preponderant consumer opposition to the Benson regulation.

MRS. THOMAS KUTIS DIES; FUNERAL WILL BE MONDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Genevieve Kutis, the wife of Thomas Kutis, president of the Kutis undertaking establishment, 2906 Gravois avenue, will be at 9:15 a.m. Monday at the St. Gabriel the Archangel Church, 6303 Nottingham avenue. Burial will be in Resurrection Cemetery.

Mrs. Kutis, who was 50 years old, died today at her home, 6777 Eichelberger street. She had been ill for four months.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, Thomas Kutis III; a daughter, Mary Margaret Kutis; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanna, 3900 McDonald avenue; and a brother, Frank Hanna, 9615 Durham drive, Bellefontaine Neighbors.

SENATOR LONG OF MISSOURI FILES FOR RENOMINATION

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 1—United States Senator Edward V. Long (Dem.), who is serving out the remaining two years of the term of the late Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr., filed yesterday for nomination for a full six-year term in next year's election.

Long, 53 years old, made his candidacy official with a telephone call to Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes here. He had mailed his filing fee to Jefferson City several weeks ago.

He was serving as lieutenant governor of Missouri when he was appointed to succeed Hennings on the latter's death last Sept. 16. He subsequently received the Democratic nomination for the remaining two years of Hennings's term and defeated his Republican rival, Lon Hocker, in the November election.

Ships Collide in Channel.

LONDON, Sept. 1 (UPI)—The 10,746-ton Dutch tanker Papendrecht and the 7216-ton Greek ship Nicolaos Pateras collided in fog early today in the English channel. Damage was said to be minor.

Saarinen Dies

headquarters in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., near Detroit. He had planned to move his offices this month to Hamden, Conn.

Mr. Saarinen was a native of Finland, and came to the United States in 1923. He became an American citizen in 1940.

Won St. Louis Competition.

Winning the 1948 competition for design of the St. Louis memorial marked a turning point in his life. Prior to that he had been regarded as the son of a world figure, quite promising for a young architect but altogether overshadowed by the father's talents and fame.

The elder Saarinen and his son both submitted entries in the $125,000 prize contest sponsored by the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Association. From a field of 172 designs, the jury selected five for the finals. This meant a $10,000 award for each finalist, and a chance at the $40,000 grand prize.

The telegram notifying Mr. Saarinen that he had been chosen as one of the finalists went to the father by mistake. The natural assumption was that a prize-winning Saarinen meant the father.

Designed Washington Airport.

Eliel Saarinen came to this country to take part in a competition for design of the Herald Tribune Building in New York. He did not win, but remained to work and teach in the United States, heading the famous Cranbrook school of design in Michigan.

The father was proud of his son's success, The St. Louis project stamped the younger Saarinen as a master in his own right, and many commissions followed. His work in recent years included design of American embassies in London and Oslo, the General Motors Technical Center outside Detroit and a new airport for Washington.

As architectural consultant to the National Park Service in development of the riverfront memorial, Mr. Saarinen made many trips to St. Louis. He was last here a month ago.

has been no decision on when he might return. Neither did he say that he would go back to Geneva.

Will Meet Zorin.

McCloy told reporters he still has an engagement next Wednesday to confer once more with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin in New York on the possibility of renewing international disarmament negotiations.

One possibility being discussed here and at the United Nations was that the United States now would try to get the U.N. General Assembly to adopt a strong resolution condemning the Soviet Union for resuming tests.

The United States and Britain have already proposed that the General Assembly opening Sept. 19 take up the urgent need for a treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests under effective international control.

Called for Atom Treaty.

Last year the Assembly approved without a dissent a resolution calling for a test-ban treaty and continued suspension of tests. The United States abstained because the resolution did not spell out the significance of effective controls.

In reply to questions, Dean said Great Britain and the United States had "incorporated every reasonable provision that any reasonable person could seek" in a test-ban treaty.

"The Soviet announcement clearly shows they have no interest in a treaty," Dean said.

As for the Kremlin boast of a 100-megaton bomb, Dean said it would be impossible to direct a weapon of such magnitude with the precision required to classify it as a military weapon.

A 20-megaton bomb could destroy an area of 100 square miles, Dean said.

Suspicion on Testing.

He said "a number of events" have aroused suspicion that Russia already has started testing nuclear explosives but that his understanding was that "up to 10 seconds ago, there was no information which could genuinely be classified as evidence."

He added that the Soviets could undertake tests below ground or in outer space without being detected.

KENNEDY TO HOLD OFF ON A-TESTS

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—President Kennedy has decided to delay any resumption of United States nuclear tests for the present, in order to take full advantage of the propaganda impact of the Soviet announcement that it will resume testing.

Persons present at White House conferences yesterday with top administration aids and congressional leaders gave this summary of the President's views.

They said he coupled the decision to delay action with detailed assurances of massive United States nuclear strength capable of meeting any military threat.

White House strategy, it was apparent, was directed at offsetting strong demands in the House and Senate for immediate resumption of tests as a prompt reply to the Soviet announcement.

Revelations about the nation's nuclear arsenal seemed intended to allay fears that the Russians have achieved some technical advantages in the course of the moratorium of nearly three years on nuclear tests.

There remained a sharp difference of opinion as to whether the Russians have been testing secretly in the moratorium, while talks on a test-ban treaty have been in progress at Geneva.

President Kennedy has said that his scientific advisers have convinced him that no one can tell whether the Soviet Union has been testing or not. Such a determination would require a detection and inspection network such as the one proposed in the Geneva talks, he has said.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, (Dem.), Minnesota, said this country should go before the U.N. and "let the world know that the Soviet Union is the assassin of peace."

Humphrey said Russia's decision "has dealt a cruel and vicious blow to the cause of peace" and "given the go-ahead to other nations to develop nuclear weapons.".

The government has no authentic information that the Soviet Union has been testing, the Post-Dispatch has been told by an official informed as to the information of the State Department, the Defense Department, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Propaganda Move.

The propaganda impact sought by the Administration began showing itself immediately at the conference of unaligned nations which opened today in Belgrade. Delegates have been outspoken in condemnation of the Soviet move.

Holding up any new United States tests until the neutralist conference and the General Assembly meetings have absorbed the impact of the Soviet announcement would mean a delay of no more than a few weeks.

Mr. Kennedy has won important support on Capitol Hill for his apparent decision to go slowly on testing. Representative Chet Holifield (Dem.), California, chairman of the Senate-House Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, now says he is willing to leave the timing of a test resumption up to the President.

Holifield, one of the group summoned to the White House for conferences on the subject yesterday, told the Post-Dispatch he considered it imperative that the United States resume testing, in order to maintain our technical position in nuclear weapons.

As to the timing, however, he added, "In view of the constitutional responsibility of the President as commander in chief, I am willing to abide by his judgment as to a decision on the timing of a resumption of tests."

Two leading experts on the atom disagree about whether the United States should resume testing.

John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission 2½ years under the Eisenhower Administration, said "resumption of weapon testing is essential to the safety of our country and the free world."

Dr. Linus Pauling, the California Institute of Technology's Nobel prize-winning biochemist: "I advocate that the United States refrain from testing."

Urges Tests Be Resumed.

Dr. Edward Teller, called the "father of the hydrogen bomb," said the United States is doomed to being a second-rate power unless it resumes nuclear weapons testing. He said a second-rate power cannot survive against Russia.

(United Press International quoted Lewis L. Strauss, former Atomic Energy Commission chairman, as saying "America should resume nuclear testing "without any more indecision." He said Russia has been testing clandestinely.)

Former President Truman said in New York the Soviet announcement is "a very bad thing" but that "from a propaganda standpoint, it is helpful to us."

Foreign Aid

for grants because the Administration failed to specify what projects or programs it might be used for.

The recommended cut of $65,000,000 in support assistance left $400,000,000 for economic aid to relatively weak nations whose stability is deemed essential to free world security.

Military Assistance.

The committee cut left $1,300,000,000 in new appropriations for direct military assistance, compared to the authorized $1,700,000,000. It approved also the use of $50,000,000 unused for the purpose last year.

It noted also the President's new authority to draw military equipment worth $300,000,000 from American stocks to meet military assistance emergencies.

The authorization figure for the presidential fund to meet emergency situations is $300,000,000. The committee voted only $175,000,000.

In addition to the $3,357,500,000 in new funds, the committee recommended that $50,000,000 in unobligated carryover funds be made available in the fiscal year that started July 1.

It said the aid program will have available in the year a total of about $10,600,000,000, including the new appropriations, obligated but unexpended carryovers of previous allotments, and foreign currencies owned by the United States.

Other Items in Bill.

Other items in the bill not directly related to the foreign aid program proper swelled its total to $3,555,245,000. These included $110,000,000 for investment in the Inter-American Development Bank, $61,656,000 for subscriptions to the International Development Association, $20,000,000 for the Peace Corps (half of what the President requested), and $6,089,000, to finance administration of the Ryukyu islands.

In explanation of the 50 per cent cut in Peace Corps funds, the committee said testimony indicated that $40,000,000 "was far more than would be needed" in the present year.

On the basis of past House action, leaders see little prospect for major changes in the chamber itself from the Appropriations Committee allotments.

Past performances indicate that if the House does not vote some increases over amounts recommended by its appropriation committee, the Senate will approve larger totals with the result that a compromise more or less splitting the difference will be arranged and approved for actual spending by the Administration.

On other congressional fronts, the House Democratic leadership agreed to two-year extensions of the National Defense Education Act and the federal aid program for impacted school districts.

Education Committee chairman Adam Clayton Powell (Dem.), New York, introduced the bills and they will come before the House next Wednesday.

This would appear to be a final surrender to the conservative forces in the House that defeated the Administration's school and compromise Wednesday.

Both programs agreed on yesterday are popular with liberals and conservatives alike. They were included in President Kennedy's federal aid-to-education package in an effort to win votes for the other controversial proposals, such as aid for construction of public schools.

Extending them two years means they cannot be used as cures next year if the Administration tries again to put through a far-reaching direct aid program.

Wednesday to Hooker lake to fish. When they had not returned home by 6:30 p.m., Mrs. Ballard went to the lake looking for them. She came across the family car, but found no trace of her husband and daughter.

She notified the St. Clair county sheriff's office shortly before 10 p.m. Deputies found Ballard's body in a clump of weeds. About 5 a.m. yesterday they came across the child's body on the Illinois Central Railroad embankment, about 60 yards from the point where her father's body was found.

Both Ballard and his daughter had been shot through the head. Their hands had been tied behind their backs with a plastic clothes line. In addition, the girl had been gagged with a handkerchief.

The Ballard home is at 121 Bethesda street, near Belleville. He was a machine operator for a valve manufacturing firm in East St. Louis.

Investigators came across a campsite at Hooker lake which they believed was used for several days by the Ballards' killers. Fingerprints were taken from jars found at the campsite and will be sent to Federal Bureau of Investigation offices at Washington, D.C., for processing.

FARLEY (MO.) BANK HELD UP SECOND TIME IN FIVE MONTHS

FARLEY, Mo., Sept. 1 (UPI) — A second holdup in five months occurred today at the Farley State Bank. Three robbers escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

Farley is a village of 120 population in Platte county about 20 miles north of Kansas City.

The first holdup was March 31. The loot was $20,000 but more than $19,000 has been recovered. Two men, James Arthur Dolan and Allen Ballew, have been charged with armed robbery in that holdup and are in the Jackson county jail in Kansas City after an escape from the Clay county jail.

16 BELLEVILLE POLICEMEN PAY DELINQUENT TAXES

Sixteen Belleville policemen cleared up their deliquent personal property and sewer use taxes yesterday by paying $1070 into the city treasury, thereby complying with a deadline set by Mayor Charles Nichols who has been withholding their paychecks.

However, only six of the city's 41 police officers have signed affidavits that their personal property and sewer taxes are fully paid up. This requirement was established by the City Council and Mayor Nichols has refused to issue paychecks to those not meeting it.

Mayor Nichols and several city officials have been served with a notice that a writ of mandamus will be sought in circuit court to compel the issuance of the paychecks, which were due yesterday. The Mayor said he would continue to hold up the checks until the court ruled on the point or the men signed the affidavits.

All other city employes have complied with the affidavit requirement, it was reported.

WARRANT CHARGES DRUGGIST WITH MONEY ORDER DEFICIT

A warrant was issued today charging Emanuel Paul, operator of Paul's Pharmacy, 2301 North Kingshighway, with larceny by deceit in connection with the sale of money orders.

Police said Paul has admitted selling about 40 money orders totaling $1233 in the period between April 28 and Aug. 9 without remitting the proceeds to the Nation-Wide Check Corp., for which he acted as agent.

Paul, who lives in the 6500 block of Whitney avenue, Pagedale, has declined to reveal what he did with the proceeds of the money order sales, police said.

clared: "I am not a Communist."

Marshal Denys, the army strongman masterminding the interim government, reportedly ordered the air force to patrol the Brazilian-Uruguayan border and intercept the Vice President's plane should he try to fly back. There was some speculation that Goulart would travel overland.

It was assumed Goulart would go to Rio Grande do Sul, across the frontier from Uruguay, where state Gov. Leonel Brizzola, Goulart's brother-in-law, and Gen. Jose Machado Lopes, commander of the 60,000-man Third Army, both defied Denys and sided with the Vice President.

Welcome Prepared.

Preparations were made to welcome Goulart at Porto Alegre. Brizzola met with state officials last night and reportedly discussed plans for Goulart to set up a national government at the state university in Porto Alegre. Later the Governor conferred with Goulart by telephone.

Brizzola in a broadcast last night appealed to interim President Ranieri Mazzilli in "the name of legality and the constitution" to go to Porto Alegre and hand over to Goulart the presidency from which Quadros resigned a week ago. The Governor said his forces were not rebels but were committed to maintain the principles of legality.

The newspaper Folha de Sao Paulo said Third Army forces had occupied Paranagua, a port and rail terminal less than 200 miles south of Sao Paulo, and were advancing north on this industrial center. There was no confirmation of the report.

The newspaper said 2000 pro-Goulart troops were manning a barricade at the port town of Atuba, and that 1500 Third Army men were marching to reinforce them, apparently fearing a navy landing attempt.

Small marine units loyal to Denys were reported last night to have made two landings south of Paranagua on the coast of Santa Catarina state, Rio Grande do Sul's northern neighbor. Their aim apparently was to cut the lines of the rebellious Third Army stretched along the coast from Porto Alegre.

Gen. Machado Lopes said a small force went ashore at the port of Laguna, about 330 miles north of Porto Alegre, and another at the small port of Imbatuba, farther north. A communique said there were indications of a larger landing in the region of Florianopolis 330 miles northeast of Porto Alegre.

The three military ministers had ordered the Second Army and navy and air force units to "attack and dominate by force" the Third Army. Gen. Osvaldo Araujo Motta, commander of the Second Army with headquarters in Sao Paulo, appeared to be hesitating, hopeful of a parliamentary solution to the crisis.

department heads of powers granted them by state statute.

He proposed several motions designed to seek a court decision on the matter, but later withdrew all expect one, which died for want of a second. He said he will reintroduce his motion at the Sept. 12 meeting of the board, when the committee-of-the whole's actions come up for final approval.

In reply to Bruns challenge, McClellan stated that the rules changes specify the superintendent's powers will be exercised "wtih the consent of the other executive officers," thus keeping the plan within the boundaries of the existing law.

"This plan stands as a full and clear expression of the school board on its desire to have a smooth, efficient and economically operated school system," he declared.

"I believe that if there is any doubt about the legality of the plan, it should be resolved in favor of the school children and the taxpayers of this city."

McClellan's Opinion.

In answer to a question following the meeting, McClellan, an attorney, told the Post-Dispatch he believed the plan to be fully within the law, and that any court test would be resolved in favor of it.

He said he was not in favor of the board, on its own initiative, seeking a declaratory judgment in circuit court on the rules changes.

In a related matter, Board Member Alex Aboussie, chairman of the board's legislative committee, said his committee has recommended that Hickey appoint an "associate superintendent of instruction" to take some of the administrative load from that department off his hands, leaving him free to exercise greater general supervision over all departments.

Tests for Job Applicants.

In other business, Hickey gave board members copies of proposed rules changes designed to implement the new non-teaching employe's tenure law, which will become effective in October.

The rules, which provide for examination of job applicants and the method of selection for hiring, will be voted on at the September or October meetings.

Hickey told the board that the school system is "in the best position regarding teachers that it has been in a long time."

There are about 3800 teachers under contract for the coming year, almost 100 more than last year, he said. This will provide for a certificated teacher in every classroom. In addition, the instruction department has compiled a list of about 500 persons who will act as substitute teachers as the need arises, he said.

PHYSICISTS FIND IMPORTANT NEW PARTICLE OF ATOM

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP)—An important new particle of the atom has been discovered by four University of California physicists.

They never saw it, nor did the highly specialized instrument with which they work. Its life span is too fleeting.

It was named years ago when theoretical physicists first postulated its existence as a result of Stanford University experiments. It is the omega meson.

It has no electrical charge. The researchers inferred its existence. They proved it to their satisfaction from 90 photographs out of a mass of 30,000 photographs taken in the giant 72-inch liquid hydrogen bubble chamber at Berkeley.

Existence of the omega, sought previously by six other research teams that never found it, helps explain the electrical properties of the structure of the neutron and proton.

RUSSIANS WARN GREECE TO QUIT NATO EXERCISE

© New York Times News Service

ATHENS, Sept. 1—The Soviet Union has warned Greece to withdraw from the forthcoming NATO logistics exercise, Medship Convoy, or suffer retaliatory measures.

The threat was disclosed yesterday in a statement issued by the Soviet embassy here. It gave the text of a Soviet protest made Wednesday. The threatened retaliatory measures were not specified.

The Greek government said Russia had demanded explanations concerning this exercise which will begin Sept. 14 and is to include landing operations by the United States Sixth Fleet. The Russian statement said United States atomic submarines equipped with nuclear missiles would be used. Greek officials said there was no evidence that United States missile submarines were in the Mediterranean.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 1 (UPI) Premier Khrushchev has sent Denmark a note concerning West German-Danish naval co-operation in the Baltic, it was announced today. The contents were not made public immediately, but sources said the note probably was a protest against the formation of a proposed German-Danish naval command, A plan which was abandoned yesterday by the government.

WAY PAVED FOR 60-DAY DELAY IN PULLMAN STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (UPI)—The National Mediation Board has paved the way for President Kennedy to appoint an emergency fact-finding board in the dispute between sleeping car conductors and the Pullman Co.

Appointment of the board would force a 60-day postponement of a strike now scheduled by the conductors for Monday.

Mediation Board Chairman Everett Edwards certified to the White House yesterday that the strike could deprive the country of essential transportation. Edwards had in mind the possibility of a major rail tieup if railroad employes refused to cross picket lines the conductors might post at major terminals.

EARTH SHOCKS RECORDED; THEIR CAUSE IN DOUBT

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—Seismograph readings yesterday caused speculation that the Soviet Union had already carried out its threat to resume nuclear weapon tests. Most scientists agreed that their instruments had actually registered an earthquake near Peru.

The shocks were registered about 9 o'clock Wednesday night. Prof. Max Bieder of Basel University's Astronomical Institute in Switzerland, and Dr. Raffacle Bendani of the Geophysical Observatory in Faenza, Italy, placed the shocks somewhere in China's Gobi desert.

Bieder said the shocks were unusual in that the second was stronger than the first and the center was relatively near the surface. Bendandi said they could have been caused by a subterranean explosion. Exploding nuclear bombs underground decreases radioactive fallout.

Shocks were registered at about the same time on seismographs at Columbia University, California Institute of Technology, the Japan Meteorological Agency, the Riverview College Observatory in Australia and Sweden's Uppsala University.

None of these plotted the shock as having occurred in Asia, and most put in near Peru. A spokesman at Riverview said the earthquakes were about 125 miles below the surface of the earth and not likely to cause any damage.

A spokesman at Caltech said Basel University "must be mistaken about the direction" of the shocks.

Prof Bieder said later it was possible his instruments gave a faulty reading.

At Strasbourg, France, the Geophysical Institute of the Globe said it recorded an earth tremor in the region of the Russian-Chinese border at 1:24 a.m. today (7:24 p.m. St. Louis time Thursday.

Officiers at the institute did not venture to say whether the earth shocks were from natural causes or from possible nuclear blasts.

Motives Behind Soviet Decision To Resume Nuclear Testing Are Puzzling Policy-Makers in U.S.

Several Theories Advanced for Untimely Step That Shocks World, Offends Neutrals — Many Recent About-Face Moves by Russians.

By MAX FRANKEL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.

THE MOTIVES that prompted the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing preoccupied and, in large measure, puzzled Washington today.

In a certain narrow sense, policy-makers here were happy to accept what they considered an enormous propaganda advantage over the Communists. With the proper restraint in Washington, they felt, world opinion could be turned against Moscow, not only on the issue of disarmament but also in the developing struggle over Berlin.

But there was sadness, too, at the confirmation that the Soviet Union was not ready to co-operate in a well-policed effort to control one part of the arms race.

The basic questions were: Why did Moscow feel compelled to resume testing? Why was it willing to accept the onus for testing first? Why, in any case, did it time the announcement to coincide with a meeting of neutral leaders in Belgrade and the gathering of delegates to the United Nations General Assembly on Sept. 19?

OFFICIALS FELT the Soviet decision was especially puzzling because of the obvious pressure building up here for the United States to take the initiative in a resumption of testing.

Military, scientific and congressional spokesmen had urged President Kennedy to order a resumption. The President was felt to be fighting only a delaying action by ordering new studies of the consequences of an unpoliced test ban. But each study produced greater fear that a closed society like the Soviet Union might be able to conceal certain nuclear tests.

In notes to Moscow, the United States had warned that it could not indefinitely postpone testing. Mr. Kennedy had said this week's session of test ban negotiators was "most critical" and probably "decisive" to future United States action.

Why, it was asked, did Moscow feel it could not wait another few weeks or even months?

The predominant, but by no means unanimous, view was that the military necessity of catching up with the United States in nuclear development coincided with an opportunity to terrorize the world at the height of the Berlin crisis.

THIS VIEW HELD that Moscow's main purpose was to impress the world with its might, to lend credence to Soviet claims that the balance of power had shifted to the Communist world, and, thus, to bring pressure on the West to yield to Soviet formulas for stabilizing central Europe.

According to this theory, Moscow is thought to be willing to absorb the first shock of unfavorable reaction from uncommitted nations in the hope that these nations will eventually help persuade the West to appease the Soviet Union.

But there were other officials here who dissented vigorously. They saw the Soviet decision as the culmination of an extensive shift in Moscow's military thinking essentially unrelated to events in Berlin. They felt the decision had really been made six months ago and that its announcement now betrayed Moscow's realization that the United States would not be goaded into being the first to resume nuclear testing.

These officials pointed out that with the Soviet-created crisis in Berlin, Moscow had made some remarkable turnabouts in recent months.

PREMIER KHRUSHCHEV'S strategic claims that long-range bombers were obsolete, they said, had been followed with a new bomber program. The Soviet leader's decision that larger standing armies were no longer necessary and that manpower could be better used in factories and farms, they said, has been reversed. And his promise that consumer goods could now be developed at the same rate as Soviet heavy industry, they said, has been quietly ignored.

Washington's confidence that the United States has a much larger and more sophisticated arsenal of nuclear weapons, it is felt, must have been deeply disturbing to Soviet strategists during the three-year moratorium on testing. Thus, officials reason that while Moscow will now make a great show of its strength, a fundamental feeling of weakness may lie behind the decision.

THERE WERE COROLLARY theories here, some of which ran like this:

Premier Khrushchev has committed Soviet prestige to a campaign to force the West out of Berlin. Retreat from that position in negotiation with the allies would be impossible unless it can be covered up with a demonstration of force.

A decision to test nuclear weapons, if made primarily for scientific and military reasons, had to be announced before the neutral leaders in Belgrade reiterate their demand for a test ban, before the United Nations voted to prolong the moratorium on testing and before East-West negotiations took some of the heat out of the Berlin crisis.

The Soviet leaders have been disillusioned by their whole campaign of "peaceful coexistence," feeling that attempts to trade with the West have brought no returns, that favor-seeking among "neutrals" has only encouraged their independence, and that co-operation in international organizations results in defeats like that of the Communists in The Congo; hence a policy of brute force best serves national interests.

Moscow has come to appreciate that it has a determined opponent in the Kennedy administration, committed to the strengthening of the West's military posture and capable of easily committing new funds to this purpose. In this context it was noted that Moscow referred several times in its announcement yesterday to the low state of Soviet preparedness on the eve of World War II.

PLANNERS at the State Department who have been dealing with the Berlin and German problems saw no immediate change in the situation. They felt the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing would reinforce the West's claim that only the Communists are stirring up trouble.

They also recognized, however, that the psychological effect of huge Soviet explosions might lead many to ask, "Why burn for Berlin?" as others had asked, "Why die for Danzig?" in 1939.

Russia Breaks Repeated Pledges Not to Resume Nuclear Tests

By RONALD NESSEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (UPI).

ON AUG. 28, 1959, the Soviet Council of Ministers approved a resolution pledging that Russia would not resume nuclear tests unless the United States or Britain tested first.

On Wednesday night—two years and two days later—Moscow announced that the Soviet Union would resume tests to develop a super bomb even though the United States and Britain are still abiding by a self-imposed, 34-month-old nuclear test moratorium. It blamed Western aggression and war threats for the move.

Time after time in the last three years, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said Russia would not resume nuclear tests unless the United States or Britain set off an atomic explosion first.

AS LONG AGO as April 1958—six months before the moratorium began—Khrushchev wrote President Eisenhower that Russia never would explode another nuclear weapon "unless the United States or Britain compels it to."

Both Russia and the United States conducted a series of atomic tests before the moratorium went into effect and the Geneva test ban talks began Oct. 31, 1958.

In January 1960 Khrushchev told the 1400-member Soviet Parliament that Russia would not resume nuclear tests unless the West did.

A month later he wrote in a published letter to a scientific official that the Soviet Union would live up to this commitment.

On a visit to France in March 1960 Khrushchev told reporters, "We have said it already. It would be a good thing if nobody exploded any more bombs, be it the United States, Britain, the U.S.S.R., or France. It would be better for the whole of humanity."

While in Paris, he expressed regret that France had set off its second nuclear explosion.

Even in the aftermath of the U-2 incident, Khrushchev told a group of Soviet workers at the Kremlin in May 1960 that Russia wanted to ban nuclear weapons. He repeated that Russia would conduct atomic tests only if the United States did.

IN A JUNE 1960 letter to President Eisenhower, Khrushchev referred to atomic and hydrogen bombs as "terrible weapons of mass extermination" which should be prohibited and destroyed.

That was a year before he announced that Soviet scientists had discovered how to build and deliver a super bomb with the explosive power of 100,000,000 tons of TNT.

As recently as June 21, Khrushchev said in a speech that Russia would resume tests if the United States did so first. He charged that this country was planning such a move.

U.N.'s Cold War Activities Have Wide Approval

Results of Polls in U.S., Britain, France and West Germany.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N.J., Sept. 1.

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE in the United Nation's ability to handle cold war problems remains high in most major Western nations. As attempts are made to take the Berlin crisis to the U.N., Gallup Polls in the United States, Great Britain, Western Germany, and France show the following facts:

In the United States eight out of ten persons hold a favorable opinion of the U.N.'s ability to handle the problems it has to face.

This is the question asked of representative samples of persons in each nation:

"In general, do you think the United Nations organization is doing a good job, or a poor job in trying to solve the problems it has to face?"

The United States vote:

Good or fair job	79%
Poor job	11
No opinion	10

In Great Britain, the U.N. gets a confidence rating not far below that given by Americans.

The vote in Great Britain:

Good or fair job	70%
Poor job	16
No opinion	14

In West Germany—where the Berlin crisis could have its most direct repercussions — the favorable rating of the U.N. falls somewhat. A substantial minority of West Germans, however, indicate uncertainty about the kind of job they think the world body is doing.

The West German vote:

Good or fair job	63%
Poor job	9
No opinion	28

In France opinion is more evenly divided.

The vote in France:

Good or fair job	39%
No opinion	28
Poor job	33

The identical question was put

Note of Strain in Soviet Attempt To Explain Test Issue at Home

People Appear Jolted by Resumption Plans — Apprehension Over Danger of War Increases in Russia.

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

MOSCOW, Sept. 1.

THE SOVIET CAPITAL appeared jolted by the Kremlin announcement that the testing of nuclear weapons would be resumed. The communique covered the front page of Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

Apprehension was felt by both Soviet citizens and Western diplomats that the danger of war over Berlin had increased significantly.

The Soviet people, who have been assured repeatedly by Premier Khrushchev that this country would not renew nuclear testing before the United States, now were told that the western threat of war had become so acute as to justify this unilateral step.

None of the earlier military measures taken by Moscow struck home more trenchantly than the government decision to renew testing for the stated aim of perfecting a thermonuclear bomb with the explosive force of 100,000,000 tons of TNT.

The initial Soviet nuclear test in the new series was expected within the next few days.

IT WAS TOO early to ascertain whether the Soviet people would respond as Moscow hoped with an upsurge of patriotism or manifest uneasiness as they have in the past when war fears have gripped them.

The Soviet propaganda apparatus was utilizing all its resources to persuade public opinion both at home and abroad that the renewal of testing was morally justified. A note of strain was detectable in propaganda as evidence of unfavorable reaction both in the West and the uncommitted countries accumulated.

The White House condemnation of the Soviet decision was rejected by the Moscow radio and Izvestia, the government newspaper, as hypocritical. Details of the statement itself, which described the Kremlin move as a threat to all mankind, were not disclosed.

Accusing the United States of "war psychosis" and secretly preparing to resume nuclear testing, Izvestia said in support of Soviet testing:

"So as to teach the aggressor never to play with fire, it is necessary for him to know and see that there is a force in the world ready in full arms to rebuff any encroachment of the independence and security of peace-loving states."

The White House statement that the United States does not plan to recommence nuclear testing immediately was not published or broadcast here.

SENIOR WESTERN diplomats in Moscow expressed the view that Khrushchev had increased the danger of an East-West military collision over Berlin by his decision to undertake testing again.

The Russian leader was pictured as wary of war but also hopeful that he could weaken Western resolve in the forthcoming Berlin negotiations by publicly proceeding with the development of the 100 megaton bomb.

It was not yet clear what the immediate effect of the latest Soviet move would be on the prospects of negotiating a Berlin settlement. Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., the United States ambassador, is scheduled to return to Moscow tomorrow from leave and is expected to make some soundings in advance of the Western foreign minister's conference in Washington Sept. 14.

Khrushchev, who is in Yalta on the Black sea, is to return to Moscow in the next few days before the visit of Prime Minister Nehru of India Wednesday.

It had been known here by Western observers for some time that Soviet military men and scientists were urging Khrushchev's government to resume tests.

KHRUSHCHEV was understood recently to have confided to a foreign diplomat that he had been told by his scientists that the 100 megaton bomb was an inexpensive weapon both in terms

Letters from the People

The Unwed Mother

It seems to me that those who speak loudest in their condemnation of unmarried mothers and children born out of wedlock feel that shame and poverty will solve this problem; where no embarrassment and guilt exist, they will create it. What a stupid and naive thought.

I worked for three years as a trained social worker, and the number of unwed mothers who were without guilt or shame was very few. In fact, the average unwed mother, most often in her middle teens, was usually so overcome by her guilt and anxiety that she was unable to tell her parents of her problem, and the necessity of planning for the birth and care of the forthcoming child was an insurmountable one.

The problem of the unwed mother exists in all cultural, racial and economic groups. The trouble is, we hear about this problem only in connection with the very low economic group.

In some cultural groups, a child born out of wedlock is absorbed by a distant relative, friend or even the immediate family. In the economically stable family, no funds are solicited, so no clamor is made.

Guilt, shame, public embarrassment and forced destitution will not solve this problem. The unwed mother feels enough of these emotions without our moral indignation to instill them in her.

Proper cultural, educational and economic advantages for the citizens of the low economic groups will help.

But let us face it. With the number of people in the country, we will always have the unwed mother and the child born out of wedlock. Both of them deserve the opportunity to develop their lives in the best way possible, and not be made to feel "third class" citizens.

Catching Communists

I am not a member of the John Birch Society. So far as I know there is no John Birch Society anywhere in my area. I never owned a pair of tennis shoes, but I am a "little old lady" who is honestly concerned about the way Communism is getting control in so many parts of the world.

I do not have to go "sleuthing after imaginary Reds." All I have to do is write a letter criticizing Communism, and get it printed in the Post-Dispatch. Within a day or two I get a real nasty letter through the mail condemning me and blaming the United States for everything wrong between our country and Russia. If there are no native Communists, how come?

'Americanism' Exercised

I heartily concur with your editorial on the action of a Miami draft board in regard Charles Kamen, a candidate for the Peace Corps.

It is not the business of any draft board to determine what is "Americanism" and what is not, nor is it the business of the United States armed forces to teach "Americanism." Since when is exercising one's freedom of speech not "Americanism"?

At the Magazine Counter

Druggists may be interested in this little account:

The other day I went into a drug store and asked for a copy of a certain national magazine.

"We do not sell that magazine," the clerk informed me.

"Why?" I asked.

"Our instructions are to screen everything that comes from the news dealers," she explained, "and to keep that magazine and others off the rack—not to sell them."

I forthwith opened an account.

Actually I would not have bought the magazine had it been available. I would have walked out. I was looking for a drug store that does not carry such trash.

The previous day I had learned that the druggist with whom I had dealt for a dozen years had sold a copy of the magazine I had asked for to my 15-year-old boy.

We burned it. Disgusted

Turn Around . . .

Take It to the U.N.

Soviet Russia's shocking decision to resume nuclear tests frees the United States to end its own moratorium on testing at whatever time the national interest requires it. But President Kennedy is wise in declining to shoot from the hip. The present state of our nuclear arsenal, he said after his strategy conferences Thursday, is "wholly adequate for the defense needs of the United States and of the free world." This means that he has time in which to turn around.

It can be taken for granted that if the Soviets carry out extensive tests the United States will be forced to do the same. But the elaborate preparations required cannot be completed overnight, and there is no need for a noisy declaration of intent in the meantime. The prudent course would be to order the preparations to go forward at once—an order we assume has already been given—but to delay the actual decision to resume tests until the most propitious date. That would be the date at which a cruel necessity could be undertaken with the least damage, and perhaps with positive advantage, to our world leadership.

A worldwide revulsion of opinion against the Soviets, for being the first to break the three-year moratorium on tests, evidently has already begun. A hasty decision by the United States to follow suit would bring us no military advantage but would permit us to be bracketed with the Soviets as sharing almost equal guilt for this renewal of the arms race. It is much better to let the whole world see for itself that Moscow is exclusively responsible for dashing hopes for a treaty that would ban tests permanently.

President Kennedy ought to use the interim period, we think, to bring an indictment of the Soviet Union before the United Nations. It would not be amiss if he went personally to the General Assembly opening Sept. 19 and laid his case before the bar of world opinion.

He should recount the long and patient efforts our negotiators have made to arrive at a test-ban agreement. He should cite the series of concessions made in the vain hope of reaching a meeting of minds with Moscow. He should renew, in the most specific terms, this nation's readiness to sign a properly safeguarded test-ban treaty at once, and to proceed to general disarmament. He should make clear that only one barrier stands in the way, and that is the Soviet Union's blind and cynical refusal to participate in the shaping of a structure of international law to take the place of nationalist anarchy.

The President confronts a rare opportunity here to strengthen our standing with the uncommitted nations, especially in Asia, which have tended to equate the Soviet Union and the United States as perhaps equally to blame for the nuclear arms race. Nothing offered a better chance to check that race than the moratorium which the Soviets have now broken and the test-ban treaty which they have so brutally destroyed.

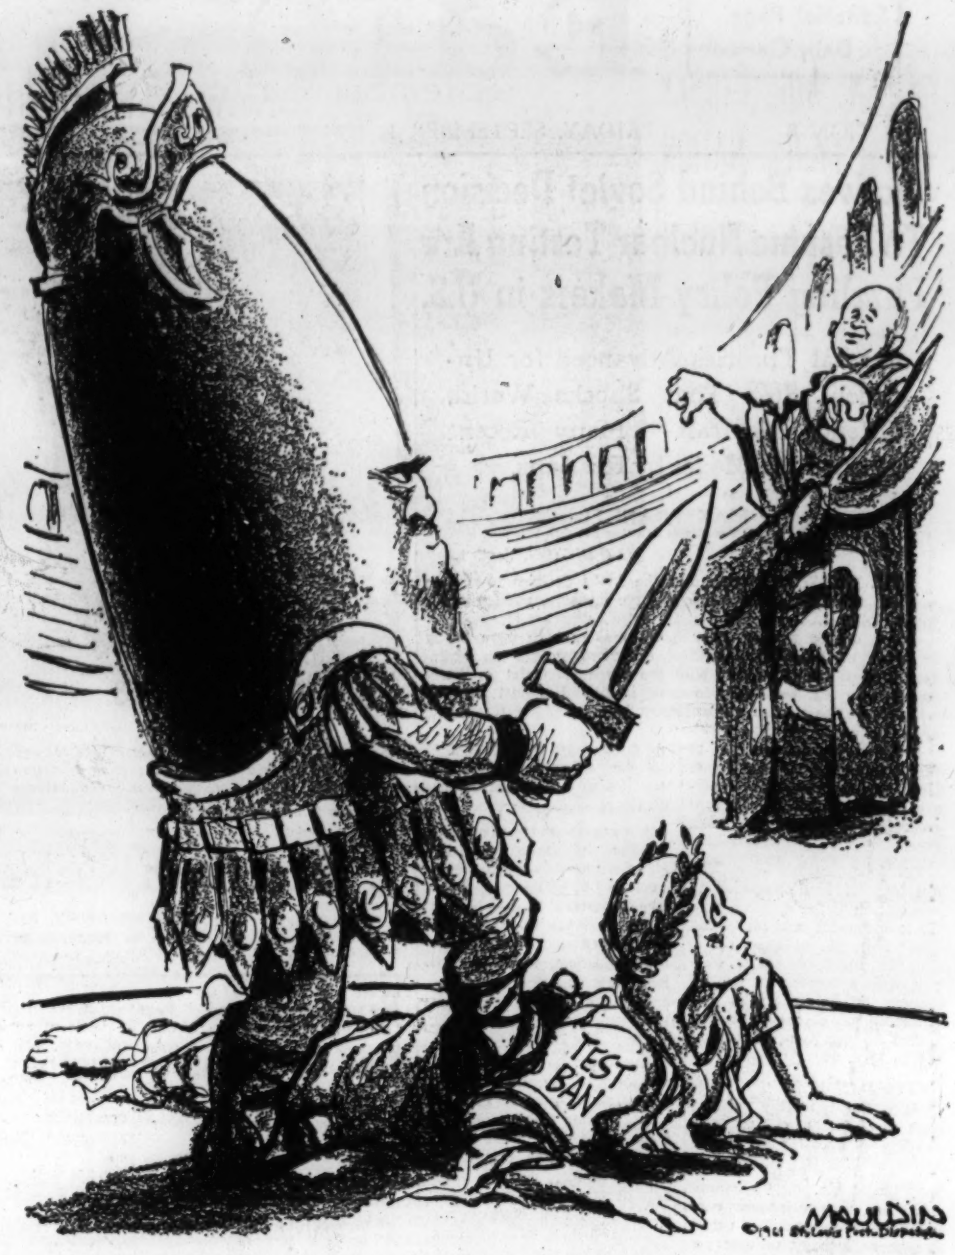
This is the case that should be made before the U.N. Yet more than propaganda for our side is at stake. There are positive values in mobilizing world opinion and stating it clearly. The U.N. should speak because it is right to speak. The U.N. should condemn the Soviet Union for breaking the moratorium, and call upon it in the name of humanity to reconsider.

One need have no illusions about the effectiveness of such an appeal. The Soviets defied world opinion in ending the moratorium and are not likely to soften before a U.N. resolution. But no country, not even an undemocratic one, is totally immune from world opinion.

The Kremlin decision on testing is undoubtedly the result of a long struggle between two schools of Communist doctrine, with Premier Khrushchev, probably, on the losing side. A clear and unequivocal condemnation of this decision by the world community will strengthen the hands of those in the Soviet Union—and they exist—who know that the interests of humanity override the interests of any particular nation. This may not undo the tragic decision on tests, but it could pave the way for greater success in other efforts to end the arms race.

That other efforts must be made, despite the bitter disappointment of today, goes without saying. No nation can in clear conscience permit the drift toward cataclysm to continue; and the United States should make itself the undisputed leader of all forces everywhere that would save mankind from a war that might be its last.



The President and the Schools

The Administration went about as far as it could go to appease Congress on behalf of school legislation—and it lost. President Kennedy's prime objective was a $2,484,000,000 program for teachers' pay and public school construction. This finally was reduced to a $324,000,000, one-year emergency building program which Representative Adam Clayton Powell Jr., chairman of the Education Committee, called up under the Calendar Wednesday procedure. The bipartisan coalition killed it, 162 Republicans and 82 Democrats combining to cast 242 votes against it. There were only 169 in favor.

It is appalling that 242 Representatives should be so blind to the necessities of the schools, and to the future of the nation which depends on its schools.

The President says "we will be back next year." He should indeed renew the fight, and we hope his Administration has learned a lesson from this one. Mr. Kennedy never really took the issue to the country. He relied on "inside work" with members of Congress. The tactics did not succeed because many members felt more pressure from the opponents of Federal aid to schools—including the pressure from Catholics who insisted on aid to parochial schools or aid to none—more than they felt pressure from the White House.

We hope the President next year will devote at least one major television address to the issue, explaining in clear detail why Federal aid is needed, why the Constitution and sound social policy forbids its extension to religious schools, why the bipartisan coalition which beat him this time must be beaten next time. Unless Mr. Kennedy engages himself personally and deeply in the contest he cannot expect to win.

Pleasures of the Orient

News from the Far East is that the new military regime in South Korea is meddling with one of the oldest customs of the Orient, the practice of haggling over prices. It is encouraging managers of Seoul department stores to put price tags on merchandise to end bargaining between shoppers and salespersons. Formerly it was the custom for a shopper to ask the merchant for his price, and when that was announced act as though the enormous amount had thrown him into a fit. Recovering slowly from the seizure, he would gasp out an offer of, say, 15 per cent of the price asked. That would throw the merchant into a fit. Then in the course of a series of fits of descending magnitude the two would reach a decent compromise. The sheer joy of haggling is a strong business stimulant in Asia, and we doubt whether a silly little price tag will end it.

One Way to Get Youth to Fly

The six-month experiment of flying passengers 12 years old through 21 at half fare may not do much to pull the airlines out of their financial difficulties but it certainly is worth trying. Civil Aeronautics Board approval clears the way for 13 airlines, including all trunk lines except Eastern, to make the test.

The plight of the airlines is so bad financially that almost any scheme which has the slightest chance of success merits a try. Net losses of domestic trunk lines for the first four months of 1961 totaled $16,000,000. Contributing largely to this was the growing public preference for coach service over first-class. As more of the new jetliners on order were delivered, the prospect was that the carriers' overcapacity in seating would grow. Yet theoretically the new jets, with more speed, more seats and quicker turn-around, should have enabled the airlines to carry more passengers than ever before.

There simply are too many empty seats and they can't be put back on the shelf for later sale. It may be that these empty seats will be filled by the 12-to-22s attracted by bargain rates and parents who may accompany them. According to the University of Michigan Research Center, only 29 per cent of the adult population of this country has flown in commercial aircraft.

If young Americans can be sold on air travel through the half-fare plan, it will afford some relief now and in time could raise this 9 per cent figure sufficiently to reduce markedly the overcapacity now afflicting the carriers.

Atlanta's Fine Example

Atlanta's smoothly skillful handling of the desegregation of four of its public schools was a demonstration to the rest of the Deep South that the transition can be carried out painlessly by any community that will make the necessary preparations for it. President Kennedy in his press conference spoke with admiration of the months-long "vigorous efforts" by Atlanta officials and citizens to lay the groundwork for the change. He congratulated by name Gov. Vandiver, Mayor Hartsfield, Chief of Police Jenkins and Superintendent of Schools Letson.

This list of officialdom, running all the way from the statehouse to the schoolhouse, is an indication of the scope of co-operation that is essential to orderly integration. If any one of these officials had failed to do less than his duty, violence might have resulted. It is particularly worthy of note that, in marked contrast with the performance of the police of Birmingham on the occasion of the Freedom Riders' appearance there, the Atlanta police fulfilled their function with quiet efficiency.

The President's admonition to other communities to profit by the example of Atlanta calls for particular attention in New Orleans, where the public schools are scheduled to open next week. Louisiana, still lagging behind Georgia, continues the unrealistic course of trying to avoid integration instead of preparing for it. The state's local-option school-closing law has been struck down by a three-judge United States court, as was of course predestined. In anticipation that there may be trouble, the Department of Justice is sending 60 United States marshals to New Orleans at the request of the federal district court. Though time is growing short, and much of it has been wasted in fruitless maneuvers of evasion, the people of New Orleans and Louisiana may still spare themselves trouble by taking such measures of preparation as may yet be carried out.

Since long-range planning and readying of public forces is, as was to have been expected, proving so vital to orderly desegregation, it is good to see that the United States Civil Service Commission apparently will receive a two-year extension of its four-year term ending in November. The commission has shown itself to be a valuable instrument in support of civil rights for oppressed minorities, and there is much more work for it to do.

Space Center for St. Louis

The Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce has been making a vigorous effort to get the proposed $60,000,000 manned space flight research center for St. Louis, and it deserves to succeed. If the National Aeronautics and Space Administration thinks it necessary to move the project away from Langley Field, near Hampton, Va., then it ought not to overlook the special advantages of a location in the St. Louis area. The Chamber has suggested four sites, two in nearby Illinois and two in Missouri.

The St. Louis-area sites meet all the requirements set out by the Federal space agency. These include the availability of a large, diversified industrial complex capable of substantial expansion; of first-rate university scientific and other resources; of a trained labor force; superior rail, water and air transportation, and well-rounded cultural facilities, among other things.

Locating the space center in this area would produce a tremendous boost to the local economy. The vast sums that will have to be spent on research would help nourish the area's educational institutions. These are the attractions and St. Louis's metropolitan competitors are well aware of them; but whether they have as much to offer in return is a question.

As the Chamber says, national resources are most carefully conserved by drawing on them where they are. The St. Louis area seems to have all it takes to handle the space center project. That being the case the Chamber serves the national as well as the local interest by pressing St. Louis's case in Washington.

The Role of the Military

Involvement in Politics Will Damage Its Prestige, Impair Civil Control

From an Address by Senator J. W. Fulbright

The military profession is now involved intimately in national policy processes. This involvement is not the result of any conscious quest for political power on the part of the military but rather the inevitable product of the new world-wide commitments of the United States and of the revolution in military technology. Power in a democracy is inseparable from responsibility. Accordingly, the Military Establishment is under the most compelling obligation to exercise the power which has been thrust upon it with wisdom and restraint.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

There has been considerable public and rather vitriolic discussion and controversy in recent weeks regarding a memorandum which I submitted to the President and to the Secretary of Defense concerning the sponsorship by military personnel of public meetings primarily devoted to highly controversial political issues. I have been more than a little surprised that this private memorandum has aroused such animated arguments about the involvement of the military in politics and above all has brought into question the principle of civilian control of the Military Establishment.

This latter principle, rooted in our Constitution and in many centuries of Anglo-Saxon tradition, has served the Republic well. It is indispensable to the preservation of democratic government, and it is indispensable to the preservation of the professional integrity and effectiveness of the military.

The memorandum which I submitted to the Secretary of Defense was based upon my strong belief in these principles. Its purpose was certainly not to silence military officers who choose to express their own views in public and who are subject to the discipline of their superiors and their own sense of duty and propriety.

Nor was the memorandum prepared for the purpose of criticizing private individuals or organizations for holding or promulgating any opinions whatsoever. There is no question of the right of groups of private citizens, such as chambers of commerce, to organize programs of any character, to select speakers freely, and to discuss any topics they choose.

—Post-Dispatch, April 12, 1951.

We Are Still Under Civilian Rule

The memorandum was directed solely at the impropriety of officers of the armed services permitting their prestige and official status to be exploited by persons with extreme views on highly controversial political issues.

Nor does it matter whether the extremist views expressed were those of the Left or of the Right. The instances cited in the memorandum happened to be cases which reflect the extremism of the Right. I would have been equally concerned had I know of military participation in attacks from the extreme Left.

There are powerful barriers in the United States to the rise of a political military establishment—the country's long history of anti-militarism; the recruitment system which creates a corps of officers nurtured in this history; the officer rotation system; the strong bonds of our professional soldiers to the political and social values of the democratic society from which they are drawn; and, finally, the long-standing tradition, which is tightly woven into the whole fabric of American military custom, that the officer corp should be non-political.

In the most democratic of societies, however, there are differences in spirit and mood between the professional soldier and the politician or statesman. The politician must move tentatively in an atmosphere in which goals and means often become mixed. Only in the most general terms does he have predefined objectives, and excessive precision will only make movement difficult.

The soldier works differently. His objectives are defined clearly in advance; he will then state his requirements and dispose his forces so as to gain the object. As one student of military affairs recently expressed it: "In military arrangements flexibility is a necessary evil and ambiguity may easily cost lives; in politics flexibility is the first rule and ambiguity an essential instrument."

In considerations such as these lie the wisdom and justification for civilian supremacy and military professionalism. As long as democratic government is honest and efficient and as long as the military adhere to non-political professionalism there can be no impairment either of democratic institutions or of the integrity of the military establishment.

It can readily be understood that dedicated and patriotic soldiers are subjected at times to a great temptation to descend into the arena of political conflict. Few of our military leaders have done so—a fact which evidences their wisdom as well as their restraint. The few who have raised their voices in public partisan controversy have inadvertently done a disservice both to the American people and to the Military Establishment itself.

The effectiveness of our armed services depends upon the maintenance of their unique prestige and integrity. These will remain intact only so long as the services adhere to their tradition of non-political professionalism. It is my hope that the armed services will never yield to misguided temptations which can only shatter the high esteem in which they are held. The preservation of that esteem is essential to the success of the Armed Forces in fulfilling their assigned mission and essential also, therefore to the defense of the Republic.

Salaries of Labor Leaders From The Milwaukee Journal

Despite the attention it draws, the financial appetite of James R. Hoffa, president of the teamsters' union, is a rare thing in the labor movement. In fact, Hoffa's $75,000 a year salary makes him one of just three of 219 national union presidents who get salaries of $50,000 a year or more. A current Labor Department report shows that nearly half of the national unions studied paid their presidents less than $10,000 a year. Nearly 80 per cent fell in the bracket under $20,000. And 95 per cent were under $30,000. About 19 per cent of the unions paid their presidents no salary at all, but the figures did not include salaries from local or intermediate bodies and some got pay from those units. Among the 58 unions that granted one, the average allowance for the president was $5419 a year. Some 155 unions made provisions for expense accounts and those averaged $4203 a year.

Between Book Ends Rebels to Walden

THE DOUBLE AXE, by Lauren R. Stevens. (Scribner's, 248 pgs., $3.95.)

In his award-winning first novel, Lauren Stevens has written a far from simple story about the simple life. The book's complexity lies in its telling two stories simultaneously. The experiences of an older generation of Americans are made meaningful and vivid as they are seen against the experiences of a younger generation.

As Henry Sawyer watches his four children, two boys and two girls, turn against him and what he thinks is the ideal life in the Maine woods to seek the life of asphalt pavements and rent receipts, he recalls with mixed feelings of bitterness and joy his own search for freedom at their age. His was a flight from the city with his new bride, Pasiphy, to "work down through the sludge" of modern life "to good old New England granite."

Emulating Henry David Thoreau, his hero and the man after whom he was named, young Henry and his bride found "a Walden Pond for two" and settled down in the wilderness to create a productive farm and raise a large, happy family. To his dismay, he finds that life is much like the double-bitted ax he used to clear his land. It gave him the strength and determination to win the battle against the forest, against the paper company, and even the battle against his own pride when he found his wife had been unfaithful to him with a "Canuck" timber cruiser. But life has also given his children their sturdy rebelliousness, their will to find their own destinies. Therefore Henry, now on the way to old age and its uncertainties, must learn his last and most difficult lesson—to let go of his loved ones before they are completely lost to him.

Stevens's book merits the distinction of being a "Maxwell Perkins Commemorative Novel" (honoring Scribner's former head editor) neither for the newness of the story, nor for its profundity. Rather it deserves the award for the skill and control in its telling. No small distinction for an author who has just passed his twenty-third birthday.

LIKENS WORLD TODAY TO 2-PARTY NATION

Sociologist Says Sharing of Values May Break Circle of Partisanship.

Since all industrial societies have fundamental features in common, the Communist bloc and the West eventually may share enough similar values to break the "vicious circle of partisanship," a Harvard University sociologist said yesterday.

Speaking before an international sociology session of the American Sociological Association, Talcott Parsons said that focus on standard of living, some features of social organization and common cultural elements distinguish today's great industrial powers from all previous types of economic and social organization.

Parsons' discussion of "Polarization and the Problem of International Order" was one of 234 papers to be delivered before some 1500 sociologists at their five-day convention, which ends tomorrow at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel.

Cautioning that his views present only a theoretical framework for more fruitful studies in world order, Parsons observed that through expanded communications and the growing interdependence of nations there is now a world political community "for better or worse."

He said that polarization itself implies a kind of order, and order is characteristic of a community. He said that while "East" and "West" are geographical symbols, they also are symbols of emerged patterns of organization rather than inevitable conflict of interest.

Parsons compared the polarization of the world community to that of a two-party system of national politics. Although such an international two-party system may not yet exist, he said, the presence of some necessary elements does not seem "altogether fantastic."

The "crucial historic fact," he noted, is that the mature industrial societies of the West have become the almost universal models for the rest of the world with the core of this pattern, from the standpoint of values, being valuation of economic productivity.

Parsons said there is evidence to suggest that the appeal of the radical left decreases with the rise of industrialization, and that successful industrial societies have integrated their working classes into society, although with varying degrees of success.

That so much of working class voting in the United States is split between the major parties is a case in point, he stated, adding that what can be expected in an industrially "mature" Soviet Union is of special interest because Russia is no exception.

The most important single point about underdeveloped nations, Parsons said, is that interest in economic development can be directly linked to the powerful force of nationalism.

He said the question then becomes whether the cleavage between "have and have-not" nations in an emerging world community must inevitably cause permanent polarization or whether these nations can be integrated like the classes within a successfully industrialized society.

Since the older Marxist assumption of the need for violent revolution has proved to be untenable, he said, it may be that current Soviet views of inevitable economic or military war between "imperialist" and "people's democratic" nations also is vulnerable.

Parsons then suggested that "carefully considered statements of value-commitments" be issued to determine what consensus now exists between East and West. He said the appearance of strong neutral nations, which may be more interested in world order than either committed side, might act as the important "independent vote" does in two-party politics.

FATHER MUNTSCH OBSERVING 70TH ANNIVERSARY AS JESUIT

The Rev. Albert Muntsch, S. J., anthropologist, author and linguist at St. Louis University, will observe the seventieth anniversary of his entrance into the Society of Jesus at 5:15 p.m. today with services at St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, Grand and Lindell boulevard.

Father Muntsch joined the university faculty in 1907 as a professor of modern languages. Ten years later he became professor of sociology. He served as director of the sociology department from 1917 to 1929, when he relinquished the post to study anthropology at the University of California.

His books include "Cultural Anthropology," "Evolution and Culture," "The Church and Civilization" and "Social Thought and Action." He was born in St. Louis in 1873 and entered the St. Stanislaus Seminary, Florissant in 1891. He was ordained in 1906.

15,000 SCHOOL SAFETY SIGNS TO BE POSTED

Motorists must assume the responsibility for safeguarding schoolbound children who are too young to be aware of the hazards of crossing streets and highways, Stanley M. Keesling, safety director of the Automobile Club of Missouri, said today.

To remind motorists of the reopening of schools, the club began posting 15,000 school safety signs and distributing 25,000 bumper strips. Each sign states, "School's Open — Drive Carefully."

"The greatest amount of traffic is often on our streets at the time when children are en route to and from school," Keesling said.

Police, city officials and school authorities are co-operating in the campaign.

HOSPITAL GIVEN EQUIPMENT

The Women's Auxiliary of the Christian Hospital, 4411 North Newstead avenue, has given the hospital an operating room light, five medicine carts and a special bath chair with heater assembly, it was announced today.

The auxiliary has donated about $8500 worth of equipment to the hospital since the group was organized four years ago.

'RIGOLETTO' TO END 1961 OPERA FESTIVAL

Performances to Be Given in English Tonight and Tomorrow Night.

The 1961 August Opera Festival will conclude this weekend with performances of Giuseppe Verdi's "Rigoletto" at 8:30 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night in the Washington University Quadrangle, Edward Corn of the St. Louis Festival Society said today.

Starring in the production will be Metropolitan Opera baritone, Clifford Harvuot, as Rigoletto; New York City Opera tenor, John Alexander, as the Duke of Mantua, and Detroit Opera Theater soprano, Marjorie Gordon, as Gilda, Rigoletto's daughter.

Edward Murphy, artistic director of the festival, will conduct both performances, which will be sung in English. The production has been staged by John Richards McCrae and settings have been designated by Lee C. Fischer.

Others in the cast include Val Patacchi, as the assassin, Sparafucile; Lillian Patacchi, as Sparafucile's sister, Madalena; John Peck, as Count Monterone; Mary Ann Medford, as Countess Ceprano and Charles Armbruster, as Count Ceprano.

The principals will be supported by the August Opera Festival chorus and a 28-piece orchestra comprised of musicians from the St. Louis Symphony and Little Symphony.

HOLIDAY LIKELY TO START WITH THUNDERSHOWERS

Scattered thundershowers at least through Sunday were in prospect as St. Louisans prepared to celebrate the three-day Labor day weekend starting tomorrow. Above-normal temperatures were forecast, with some cooling by Monday.

Public offices and business generally will be closed Monday, a legal holiday. Post offices will be closed and only special delivery mail will be delivered Monday. There will be one mail collection.

Parades, picnics, concerts and out-of-town trips were planned for the final weekend of the vacation season. Public and parochial schools will reopen on varying days next Tuesday through Friday.

With the usual overloading of highways expected throughout the period, the Missouri Highway Patrol asked motorists cooperation in driving with headlights turned on in daytime hours as a reminder of the danger of excessive speed.

FUNERAL SERVICES SUNDAY FOR MRS. ARCHIE H. BERGER

Funeral services for Mrs. Rose Berger, wife of Archie H. Berger, will be 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Rindskoph unertaking establishment, 5216 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Chesed Shel Emeth Cemetery.

SURVEY OF SHELTERS TO BEGIN TUESDAY

First Step by U.S. to Provide Fallout Protection for 50,000,000 Persons.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1 (AP)— A survey of major buildings in all 50 states, the first step in a government program designed to provide fallout protection for 50,000,000 persons, will start Tuesday, defense officials said yesterday.

Completion of the survey, for which $93,000,000 has been appropriated, is expected by Dec. 31, 1962.

Representatives of the Defense Department outlined the program in a meeting of Army engineers from the Baltimore area and civil defense officials from seven states.

The survey will be limited to structures capable of accommodating more than 50 persons. Some buildings probably will not need modifications and will be marked with signs.

Where alterations may be needed, the survey teams will estimate the cost. There have been no federal appropriations to finance modifications.

The survey, to be administered by the Department of Defense, will begin here Tuesday. Techniques learned in Baltimore will be used in other cities.

Similar training surveys are to start Tuesday in Washington, for a rural area, and at White Plains, N. Y., for a suburban area.

The project will not replace the home shelter program, civil defense spokesmen said, but is intended to designate shelters for persons who might be at work or shopping at the time of a nuclear attack.

Federal, state, local and privately owned buildings, and unclassified military installations will be included. The Army Corps of Engineers and the Navy Bureau of Yards and Docks will collect the information.

101st Encephalitis Death.

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 1 (AP)—The 101st death from encephalitis (sleeping sickness) in Formosa since June 1 was reported yesterday from Hualien, main port on Formosa's east coast. The victim was a 6-year-old boy.

POPE JOHN PLANS TO OFFER PUBLIC MASS FOR PEACE

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 1 (UPI) —Pope John XXIII, concerned with the deteriorating international situation, will celebrate a public Mass to call for peace, it was reported today.

Vatican sources said the Mass will be held in St. Peter's Basilica in a few days.

"The Pontiff is extremely preoccupied with the situation and has been following with interest the latest developments, both in Berlin and in other key points," these sources said.

The action that apparently caused Pope John to arrange for the Mass was Russia's announcement that it will resume nuclear tests.

The Pontiff is at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, about 17 miles from Rome. He has been there since mid-July and is expected to return to the Vatican shortly.

The Mass will be held after he returns.

WILLIAM I. SELTZER ESTATE INVENTORIED AT $300,061

William I. Seltzer, founder and general manager of Cunningham's Inc., a dress shop at 419 North Sixth street, left an estate which was valued at $300,061 in an inventory filed in probate court at Clayton yesterday.

The estate consisted of $225,044 in stocks, $43,516 in cash, $1500 in bonds and the home at 8044 Davis drive, Clayton, valued at $30,000.

In a will executed in 1957, Seltzer left the home and its furnishings in trust to a 15-year-old grandniece, Susan Patricia Kahn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence I. Kahn, 8 Robin Hill road, Ladue. Other personal effects will go to a sister, Mrs. Ida Mae Sherman of Atlanta, Ga., and the remainder of the estate will be shared equally by two nieces and a nephew. They are Mrs. Lawrence Kahn, Mrs. Dorothy Cummins and Louis G. Sherman Jr., all of Atlanta. Seltzer died last July 30.

Cards Oppose Pirates Here Tonight After Beating Phils

Gibson Is 2-1 Victor On Triple By Musial

Hopeful of maintaining their winning pace of the month of August (20 victories and only 9 losses) the Cardinals open a six-day stand at Busch Stadium tonight, opposing the National League champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

At Philadelphia last night the Redbirds defeated the strangely tough Phillies, 2-1, for their twentieth triumph of the best month they have had this season.

They will rest their hopes of victory tonight on Larry Jackson who has won seven and lost only one since Johnny Keane took over as the Redbirds' manager. Larry (10-9) will be opposed by Joe Gibbon (10-8).

Key figures in the ninth-inning victory at Philadelphia were Bob Gibson, Cardinal hurler who allowed only six hits and a first-inning run, Alex Grammas, Curt Flood and Stan Musial.

Grammas and Flood provided the hits that brought in the first St. Louis run, in the sixth; Musial drove home the decisive last-inning run with a triple.

Mahaffey a Tough Foe.

Musial, figuring it is better to give than to receive, gave hard-luck Art Mahaffey something to remember him by before leaving Philadelphia.

The writers had given Stan a silver champagne bucket, and Polish-American Clubs of New Jersey chipped in with an oil painting and the Phillies' pitchers gave him a bad time.

"I figured I had to give the fans at least one base hit," Musial grinned. "Mahaffey was really pitching. But, so was Bob Gibson. It was a tough one."

Gibson gave up a run in the first inning, then pitched magnificently. The Phils got four singles the rest of the way as Bob evened his record at 10-10.

"He's a good athlete," Manager Johnny Keane said happily. "He can power that ball for nine innings."

"He was throwing bee-bees," some of the Phils moaned. Mahaffey had pitched two straight shutouts and the lean right-hander extended his string to 25 scoreless innings before the Cards pried a run loose in the sixth.

Two Out in Ninth.

Alex Grammas singled, and went to second as an injured John Callison bobbled the ball. He moved up on Gibson's sacrifice and scored on a bloop single by Flood.

With two out in the ninth, Mahaffey walked Ken Boyer. Musial then got his first hit of the tensely-played series, a triple high off the rightfield fence.

"It was a curve ball, down," Mahaffey moaned, "the kind of pitch you can get him out on."

Callison, who was bombing Cardinal pitching at a .425 clip, came out of the game after his error. He had been hit just above the right elbow by a Gibson pitch in the third inning.

White's RBI Streak Broken.

"I figured they'd knock me down," Callison said glumly. "I don't think he tried to hit me, though. The pitch just jumped in."

Bill White kept his hitting streak alive at 12 games, but his consecutive runs-batted-in skein ended at 10, one short of becoming a National League record.

The Pirates are here for four games in four days, then the Cincinnati Reds come in for games on Tuesday and Wednesday, before the Cards again hit the road.

Members of the pro basketball Hawks will demonstrate their talents as baseball players in a 7:15 preliminary game tonight. The Hawks' opponents will be the Press-Radio-TV team.

It's Called 'Taking Out' the Pivot Man

JOHN ORSINO (right) of the San Francisco Giants loses his cap but wins his point as he breaks up a possible double play by siding hard into Chicago Cubs' second baseman DON ZIMMER. Orsino was forced out but his teammate, ED BRESSOUD, was safe at first as Zimmer's throw went astray. The Cubs won the game, 6-1.

Braves Gain Ground On Double Steal and Hendley's Six-Hitter

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, scoring the winning run on a double steal, last night climbed back into third place with a 2-1 victory over Los Angeles that dropped the second-place Dodgers three games behind idle Cincinnati in the National League pennant race.

The Braves edged past San Francisco into third place when the Giants lost, 6-1, to the Chicago Cubs for their sixth defeat in seven games. St. Louis beat Philadelphia 2-1.

Milwaukee's southpaw Bob Hendley delayed a dental appointment to keep a date with Los Angeles—and the Dodgers wish he hadn't been so obliging. The 22-year-old rookie fired a six-hitter in outduelling Don Drysdale in the opener of a three-game series between the pennant hopefuls.

The choice of Hendley to start against the Dodger sluggers appeared a big gamble by manager Charlie Dressen. Actually, a couple of aching teeth led to the decision.

"When we learned a couple of days ago he had to have two teeth taken out, we had to make up our minds whether to send him against the Dodgers or put off an appointment with the dentist and use him in a doubleheader at Chicago Sunday," Dressen said. "I finally decided to use him against the Dodgers. Now he'll see the dentist in the morning."

Given a 2-0 lead on Frank Thomas's twenty-seventh homer in the second and a run-producing double seal by Lee Maye and Hank Aaron in the third, Hendley went the distance last night for the second time in his brief major league career. He struck out five and walked only two in earning his fifth victory against three losses.

The Dodgers managed to break through the young left-hander only in the seventh when a double down the left field line by Frank Howard and a single by Charlie Neal scored their run.

Maye, who scored the winning run, opened the second inning with his second of three singles, moved to second on a sacrifice and took third on an infield out. Drysdale got behind on Aaron and the Dodgers elected to pass the Milwaukee slugger. Aaron broke for second and catcher Norm Sherry threw to second baseman Neal, whose return throw to the plate was wild as Maye slid across safely.

The Cubs chased Juan Marichal (13-9) while collecting all of their 10 hits in the first three innings. Three runs in the first did it, with Billy Williams's two-out single breaking a 1-1 tie. Southpaw Jack Curtis (9-10) was the winner, blanking the Giants on six hits after giving up a first-inning run on Joe Amalfitano's leadoff triple and a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey.

America Has Big Day At Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV, Isreal, Sept. 1 (UPI) — The Maccabiah Games are turning into a romp for United States athletes.

The Yanks won nine gold medals and smashed five meet records in the first two days of these "Jewish Olympic" games.

Gary Gubner of N.Y.U. scored his second conquest of the meet when he treated Israel track and field fans to their first 60-foot shot put. The 250-pound New Yorker, who set another record while winning the discus Wednesday, put the shot 60 feet, 1¼ inches to lead an American sweep in the event.

The other record-breakers yesterday were Mike Herman of New York with a mark of 24 feet, 6 inches in the broad jump, and Navy lieutenant Lew Stieglitz of West Hartford, Conn., who won the 1500 meters in 3 minutes and 55 seconds.

The other United States gold medal winners yesterday were Paul Zemachson of N.Y.U. in the 1500 meters and Elliott Denman of New York in the 3000-meter walk. Zemachson was clocked in 15.5 seconds in his event while Denman, a former N.Y.U. track and field captain, completed his walk in 15 minutes, 3 seconds.

Art Heyman of Duke University paced the United States basketball team to its second victory with 27 points as the Yanks walloped Argentina, 85-36.

Luman Harris To Pilot Orioles Rest of Season

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 1 (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles today named pitching coach Luman Harris to replace Paul Richards as manager of the team for the remainder of the 1961 season.

Richards, who has managed the Orioles since 1955, announced his resignation last Tuesday and indicated he will accept a post as general manager of the new Houston club of the National League as soon as a few minor points in a contract with Houston are ironed out.

Harris, a former big league pitcher with the old Philadelphia A's and Washington Senators, has been a pitching coach under Richards since 1951 — serving four years under him with the Chicago White Sox and then shifting with him to the Orioles in 1955.

Finley Hanged in Effigy

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 1 (UPI)—Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, was hanged in effigy today. A dummy, dressed in a baseball uniform, was found hanging from the overpass on the Southwest trafficway. A sign on the dummy read: "What next, Mr. Finley?"

A dispatcher for the police department said other effigies of Finley were also found today.

McKinley, Miss Hard Win Easily

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 1 (UPI) — Second-seeded Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, surprise runner-up at Wimbledon this year, and defending women's champion Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., scored straight-set victories today in the first round of the United States Tennis singles championship.

McKinley, 20-year-old Davis Cupper and co-holder of the national doubles crown, whipped George Stosser of Tucson, Ariz., 7-5, 6-2, 6-2 in a result strikingly similar to their first-round tussle a year ago.

Miss Hard, on a comeback after a long illness, required only 30 minutes to down Christine Safford of Lansdowne, Pa., 6-1, 6-2.

Stosser, University of Arizona star and No. 2 player in the Southwest, gave McKinley a fight on the first set with a booming service that Chuck had trouble taking on his backhand. Games followed service until the eleventh game but then McKinley broke through for a 6-5 lead.

From that point, McKinley, a bounding five-foot, eight-inch aggressor, had things his own way. He scored a service break at the start of the second set for a 1-0 lead and won going away.

Miss Hard's easy victory put her into the second round against Carole Ann Loop of Arcadia, Calif., who defeated Carmen Lampe of Forest Hills, N.Y., 2-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Eighth-seeded Yola Ramirez of Mexico and Edda Buding of Germany both advanced in the women's division and will meet in the second round. Miss Ramirez downed Carol Hanks of St. Louis, 6-3, 6-2, and Miss Buding defeated Linda Vall of Oakland, Calif., 6-2, 6-2.

Cincy Wins Again In Legion Tourney

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 1 (AP) —Cincinnati, a pre-tournament favorite, held the whip hand in the American Legion baseball Little World Series today after beating Brooklawn, N.J., last night, 7-3, for a third tourney victory against no defeats.

Brooklawn will play Phoenix, Ariz., tonight with the loser eliminated. Phoenix made its record 2-1 yesterday with a 5-4 win over Billings, Mont., in 11 innings. The loss eliminated Billings.

Kansas City Boy Wins in Tennis

Danny Oram, seeded first in the boys 13-and-under division, won his first-round match, 10-7, over Mike Tillay in the Tower Grove tennis tournament yesterday.

No. 2 seeded Leo Estopare won from John Perotti, 10-1. Bill Simpson, third seeded, defeated Mike Brewen, 10-3, and Bob McKinley, ranked No. 4, won from Rich Reilly, Kansas City, 6-1, 6-2.

BOYS 11 AND UNDER

FIRST ROUND — Fred Hentschke defeated John Gelner, 10-5; John Connors defeated Jack Frank, 10-0.

SECOND ROUND—Bob McKinley defeated Bill Morrison, 10-1; Jim Connors defeated Earl Foxworth, 10-2; Tom Frank defeated Bob Rosenbaum, 10-2.

FIRST ROUND — Barbara Weinstock defeated Vicki Maney, 10-2; Holly Holtz defeated Anna Freund, 11-9.

SECOND ROUND — Linda Lehmkuhl defeated Nancy Morrison, 10-1; Weinstock defeated Kathy Kyan, 10-3; Holtz defeated Roxanne Irons, 10-2; Pamela Crow defeated Alice Lowenhaupt, 10-2.

BOYS 13 AND UNDER

FIRST ROUND—Leo Estopare defeated John Perotti, 10-1; Tom Frank defeated Terry Skinner, 11-9; Terry Neudecker defeated Pete Barker, 10-0; Bill Simpson defeated Mike Brewen, 10-3; Bob McKinley defeated Rich Reilly, 6-1, 6-2; Larry Parker defeated Bill Tobin, 10-1; Mike Wilson defeated Bruce Oetter, 10-2; Danny Oram defeated Mike Tillay, 10-7.

GIRLS 13 AND UNDER

FIRST ROUND—Pamela Crow defeated Anna Freund, 10-2.

SECOND ROUND — Nancy Gelner defeated Peggy Southworth, 10-1; Crow defeated Kathy Schaefer, 10-0; Andrea Western defeated Susan Maxie, 10-0; Pamela Foxworth defeated Kathy Eisele, 10-0.

C.Y.C. Softball

St. Ambrose will play St. Anthony at 9 o'clock tonight at Fox Park in a winner's bracket game in the C.Y.C. senior first division softball playoffs. In a losers' bracket contest at 7:30, St. Andrew will play St. Engelbert, with the loser being eliminated.

A Good Scout

Neither Daniel Boone, Buffalo Bill Cody, Kit Carson nor any other trail-blazer or frontier scout ever traveled farther, looking for richer land or poorer Indians, than the territory Abe Stuber will cover this fall seeking bigger and better football players.

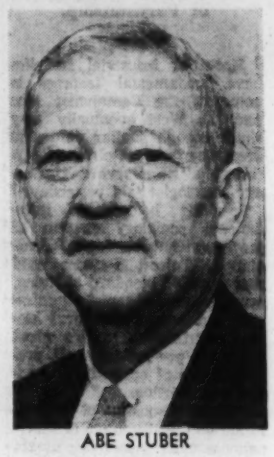
Even before the football Cardinals begin head-banging for keeps, two weeks from Sunday at Yankee Stadium, their chief scout will be long gone.

Fact is, Labor Day, just about the time the summer vacationers head back to town, Stuber will leave on a 71-day, 17-state trip to the campuses of some 100 colleges and universities. First stop will be Monday afternoon at Carbondale, Ill., to watch Southern Illinois University work out.

Close to 15,000 miles later, the 57-year-old former head coach at Southeast Missouri and Iowa State will have double-checked on approximately 300 players the Big Red coaching and scouting staffs have graded as possible professional prospects.

"You only draft 20 and, in fact, this year we took seven 'futures,'" Stuber said, referring to college players whose classes hadn't graduated, "but you've got to know about the best 300 because 14 teams in this league take turns selecting and you never can be sure which players you'll get."

Besides, the American Football League and the Canadian League tap the same source of talent.



ABE STUBER

Modus Operandi

Until classes assemble in mid-September, Stuber will watch two practices a day, motoring from town to town to meet the terms of a self-imposed mimeographed itinerary. Abe is a neat, medium-sized man who is orderly in his preparation, too. In football, they call that characteristic "organization."

He will, of course, concentrate on watching players on whom the Cardinals have had card files since they were sophomores. The Big Red has everything except the kids' fingerprints.

Once colleges get down to the regular-season one-a-day drills, Stuber will spend mornings visiting campus athletic departments, quietly studying films through the courtesy of cooperative coaches, carefully avoiding interfering with their jobs.

Game films, often enabling the scout to watch players he won't have time to see play, are especially helpful in evaluating individual effort in the close quarters of intricate line play, Abe said, but he said it with caution:

"Because films show so much and because you can rerun them, they tend to make you over-critical. You begin to see too many mistakes made by even the best prospects."

Needed: More Eyes

Although he'll watch one practice every afternoon during the college season, then take in two to three games each weekend, Stuber said he preferred to observe spring practice.

"Because," he explained, then coaches aren't faced with the grim task of getting ready for a ball game and they'll let you get right behind a boy in whom you're interested, an exceptional angle to study his

Tigers Slice A.L. Lead, Then Head for Key Series With Yankees

Contenders Will Meet 3 Times

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP) — As the Detroit Tigers put it, "This is just another series," but as far as the New York Yankees are concerned the three-game showdown starting tonight, between the top two teams in the American League, may be the key to the outcome of the 1961 pennant race.

"Nobody else seems to be beating them much, so I guess it's up to us," Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, said last night after his team completed a 13-game western trip on a losing note, dropping a 5-4 decision to the Minnesota Twins. The Yankees set an American League home run record in that game.

Despite their apparent nonchalance, the Tigers, who moved to within 1½ games of the lead by taking an 8-2 verdict from the Chicago White Sox, need everything going for them if this is to be another one of those rare years when the Yankees lose the pennant.

Detroit Needs Sweep.

Detroit must sweep the series to be on top coming out. However, even if they win the three games, which figure to draw 180,000 fans or so to the ballyard in the Bronx, the Tigers still face a four-game series with the Yankees in Detroit in two weeks.

The Tigers, who haven't won a pennant since 1945, are newcomers to title showdowns, but it's almost old hat to the Yankees, who trail Detroit 5-6 in season play.

With Yank ace Whitey Ford (22-3) facing Don Mossi (14-3), and New York's M & M pair—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle—pursuing a home run record as well as World Series cash, the series opening crowd should be somewhere around 65,000.

Rocky Colavito, leading the Tigers with 39 home runs, summed up the general Detroit attitude when he said, "It's just another series. I feel we've got to win every series we play from now on. Sure it's big, but so are all the others."

The Yankees's loss at Minnesota yesterday came despite Mickey Mantle's forty-eighth home run. The Mick's shot, leaving him one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace in 1927, was one of three by the Yankees as they bettered their league record with 195 for the season.

Meanwhile, Cleveland sent Washington to a thirteenth straight defeat, 2-1, and Kansas City took two from Los Angeles, 17-3 and 6-5. Boston and Baltimore were idle.

The Twins finished their season series with New York with their fourth victory in the 18 games, and they did it with a five-run third inning. Rookie Roland Sheldon (9-4) was the loser, but it was reliever Jim Coates who gave up the deciding hit, a two-run homer by Jim Lemon. Bill Skowron and Hector Lopez socked the other Yank homers, beating the A.L. record of 193 set by New York last season.

Mantle Goes 3-for-4.

Mantle, with his second home run in two games after failing to hit any in eight games, was 3-for-4 against Kralick. But Maris, whose 51 homers put him six games ahead of Ruth, was 0-for-4 and now has had just two hits, a home run and a single, in his last 25 times at bats.

Billy Bruton and Norm Cash, the A.L.'s batting leader (.365) who had missed a game because of illness, cracked two-run homers as the Tigers ended Chicago's winning streak at six. It was the eleventh victory in 14 games for the Tigers, who scored the winning run off Frank Baumann (9-11) in the second inning on Mike Roarke's single, a sacrifice by winning righthander Paul Foytack (10-8) and a double by Jake Wood.

Willie Kirkland's double won it in the third inning for the Indians, who counted their first two runs in the second on Woodie Held's homer off loser Bennie Daniels (8-9). Jim (Mudcat) Grant (13-8) was the winner.

The A's took the opener behind Jerry Walker (6-11) with 19 hits, four of them homers and one a grand slam by Wayne Causey, off loser Ken McBride (11-11) and two relievers. They won the second with a double and Causey the deciding tally with a single.

Blue Devils Talk It Over

Coach DON HANNERS (left) talks with returning Maplewood-Richmond Heights High veteran football players and assistant coach CHARLES SENG (right) before the Blue Devils, undefeated Suburban Middle Seven Conference champions last season, start afternoon practice. The players are co-captain DALE FENNELL (28) and JIM COUNTS (58), BILL FENNELL (46) and co-captain RUSS KANEVSKY (51). Seng will take over the head coaching duties in October when Hanners goes on active duty with the National Guard.

Only One Maplewood Starter Returning; Ladue 'A Bit Green'

By Bob Ruhl

The intended joke was directed at Seng, who will take over the head coaching duties in October when Hanners leaves for active duty with the National Guard at Fort Riley, Kan.

But the full impact of the good-natured jibe may be on the other teams in the Suburban Middle Seven Conference before Thanksgiving. Only one starter is returning—tackle Russ Kanevsky—to the champion Blue Devils, who were undefeated (8-0) last season. But none of the Maplewood coaches appeared ready to panic.

The Devils had only one frontliner back last year, back Bob Early, and look what happened. And this fall's team will be bolstered by a junior varsity of last season that scored 111 points to the opposition's six in just three games.

Counting on Guards.

Guards Jim Counts and Dale Fennell and tackle Bill Fennell will form the core of the Devils along with Kanevsky, a 196-pounder. Top prospects, all highly rated, are fullbacks Roger Bullock, Jim Musiol and Steve Hickman, quarterback Jeff Coates, end Bob Durban and speedy halfback Bob Mills.

Seng, former head coach at Berkeley and the Maplewood line coach, noted that the Blue and White will have more beef on the line than in previous years and more agility. Hanners pointed out that the Devils should be fairly deep in reserves.

In Hanners's three seasons as head coach, Maplewood won 21 and lost five, including 16 victories in their last 17 games.

"We'll be a bit green," said Coach Ed Velten of Ladue, "but we have kids who really want to play. If our young backs jell, we'll be okay." Tackle Neil Lazaroff, a 205-pounder, fullback Bert Francis and guard Al Pepper are three of the Rams' top players.

Other starters back are guard Dick Gulick, end Don Sexton, and backs Jim Bottom and Dick Kolbrenner. Clay Hyland and Larry Levy, both ends, also played extensively.

Ladue, annually a power, played a curtailed schedule last season and posted a 5-1 record. The Rams will play eight games this fall but only three against Middle Seven opponents.

Lindbergh Has Weight.

Lindbergh, with end Dave Braswell, tackles Bob Abmeyer and John Hottle, guard Bill Breeding, and back Bob Coffey returning from the Flyers' starting team, could be tough. But Coach Tony Lema points to lack of experience behind these five as a possible trouble spot. Hottle, Abmeyer and Braswell, all weighing near 200 pounds, are outstanding veterans.

Wayne Hermen, Affton swifty, will forego football to stay in training for track, but Coach Bob Brunette does have 16 players who have seen action. "We're awfully young though," Brunette said, "and sophomores will form our reserves."

Ends Dave Powell and Dennis Mueller, tackles Bob Stoessel and Bob Rogers, guards Jim Carner, Keith Monton, center Bob Jauer and backs Bill Thompson, Lew Pickles, Phil Colwell and Dave Whalen are returning first-stringers on offense or defense.

Hazelwood lost 22 lettermen, but tackle Bill Brendle, guard Chester Dickey, and backs Tim Wehmer, John Lively, Hobart Miller, Jim Cadell and Howard Gamble are starters returning to Coach Dale Henners. "It's a young team," Henners said, "and it's hard to say just what it will do."

St. Charles lost its entire line because of graduation, but speedster backs LeRoy Abbington and Mike Boyd are back. Dan Robinson, a starting end last season, has been switched to tackle by Coach Jim Rash.

Coach Bill Houston at Pattonville has seven veterans returning, tackle Tom Best, guards Charlie Miller and Jay Ruvin, end Jeff Boock, and backs Charles Noble, Paul Burson and Mike Busenhart, the lone junior in the group. The Pirates will rely on sophomores to fill in behind the veterans.

Electronic Brain And Maris-Mantle

The following table, supplied by the St. Louis office of Statistical Tabulating Corp. is an electronic brain (IBM 1400 digital computer) prediction on the challenge by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle to Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs.

These predictions take into account the last game played by the New York Yankees. (All refer to 154 games.)

Chance that Ruth's record will be broken—38 out of 100.

Chance that Maris will break Ruth's record—35 out of 100.

Chance that Mantle will break Ruth's record—5 out of 100.

Predicted home runs, Mantle—56. Predicted home runs, Maris—60.

Game number in which Mantle will hit 61st homer—168.

Game number in which Maris will hit 61st homer—158.

S.T.C. also predicted that Mantle will hit 59 home runs in full 162 game season and Maris will hit 63 home runs in full 162 game season.

Upland Game Season Opening in Illinois Set for Nov. 18

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 1 (AP)—Illinois upland game season will start Nov. 18, it was announced yesterday. There will be a three-day interruption—Dec. 1, 2 and 3—in those counties where the shotgun deer season will be open.

Rabbits, with limits of five and 10, are fair game until Jan. 31. Other limits and seasons: Cock pheasants, three daily six in possession, until Dec. 12; quail, eight and 16, until Dec. 27; Hungarian partridge, two and four, until Dec. 12; wood cock, four and eight, until Dec. 27.

As an exception to the Nov. 18 opening date, the season on jacksnipe starts Oct. 28 and ends Nov. 26. The limits are eight and eight.

Shooting hours start at noon opening day for the upland seasons. Otherwise shooting is from sunrise to sunset.

Etcheverry to Test Arm as Second-Half Q.B. Against Lions

By Robert Morrison

Sam Etcheverry is to be the quarterback for the football Cardinals in the second half of their pre-season game tomorrow night against the Detroit Lions at Tiger Stadium in Detroit. It would be reassuring if Sam's is the better half.

This is no reflection on young Charley Johnson, the rookie who is scheduled to start and be the quarterback through the first half. It's just that Sam still represents a question mark because he has played so little.

The Cards' head coach, Frank Ivy, said he planned to split the quarterback chore between Johnson and Etcheverry.

"We'll use Etcheverry in the second half," Ivy said, "and Johnson will play through the first half unless he has bad luck. Even if he does I wouldn't want to take him out too quickly."

Etcheverry has been working to build up the strength in his throwing arm. He had developed a sore arm for the first time in his nine years in pro football when he first arrived at the Cardinal camp in Lake Forest, Ill., in mid-July.

The veteran star of Canadian football now is attempting to make sure he'll be ready when the regular National Football League season opens Sept. 17 with the Cards playing the Giants at New York.

Ivy May Shift McGee.

Looking for greater efficiency in over-all offense, Coach Ivy also may return Mike McGee to the left guard position he played so well in his first pro season a year ago.

"It's still a question whether I'll start McGee or Bob DeMarco at guard," Ivy said. "The main thing we're trying to do there, in addition to picking up the offense, is to be sure we also have depth at linebacker. When McGee is at guard, Ted Bates will be at McGee's left linebacker position."

Billy Stacy will start as flanker back for the Cardinals even though he has run in this week's practice at his old left corner position on defense.

"Willie West will be at the left corner position," said Ivy. "We haven't given up on West or Pat Fischer at that spot. We've just given Stacy a little work there so that if we seem to break down at that spot, he'll be ready to take over."

A crowd of about 15,000 is expected to attend the game at Detroit. At that figure the crowd would be well under the Lions' usual pre-season attendance, but Detroit is baseball-minded at the moment. The game was changed from tonight to tomorrow night so as not to conflict with television of the Detroit-at-New York baseball game.

Little Change for Lions.

The Lions are an "old head" club, as Cardinal scout Abe Stuber puts it. The team presents about the same front as that which won six of its last seven games for a 7-5 record and a second-place tie in the western division last year.

Nick Pietrosante is the ball-carrying star, and Earl Morrall is top quarterback, well supported by Jim Ninowski. Speedy Terry Barr and Hopalong Cassady are sharing flanker back work with Olympic hurdles star Glenn Davis. Two traded-away Cards, Night Train Lane and Carl Brettschneider, are starters in a tough defense that includes middle linebacker Joe Schmidt.

In pre-season play this year Detroit lost to the Philadelphia Eagles, 23-14, after having beaten Cleveland by 35-7 and Pittsburgh by 17-14. The Cards lost to the Steelers, 24-14, and to Green Bay, 31-10, after winning from the Toronto Argonauts, 36-7.

Records Fall In Age Group Swim Meet

Proof that St. Louis A.A.U. swimming is reaching national stature was evident in the Invitational Age Group Records Meet sponsored by Lakeshore Swim Club, held yesterday at J.C.C.A. pool here.

Four national age group records were smashed; 17 individual swimmers and three relay teams bettered times listed as the five best of national record (20-yd. course).

Don Shaffer, Florissant, bettered his own (15-16 age group) 100-yd. backstroke record of 1:00.2 made last week with a 59.6 performance. Later Don came back to swim the 400-yd. individual medley in 4:52.9 bettering the national record of 4:56.4. His time of 1:59 for 200-yd. free style ranks third nationally.

Sandy Stock, Shaw Park (girls 15-16 age group) set a record of 5:30.2 for 400-yd. individual medley, taking 4.6 seconds off the old national record of 5:34.8. In the 100-yd. butterfly her time of 1:08.4 ranks fourth nationally.

Marilyn Parey, Carondelet "Y" (girls 1-12 age group) who narrowly missed a record last week, came through with a 1:17.6 for 100-yd. breaststroke bettering the old record of 1:18.5. Miss Parey also ranks second nationally in 40-yd. breaststroke with a time of :27.4.

O'Donnells Roll 3246 In All-Star League

With a high series of 3246, the O'Donnells defeated the Ferguson squad, 2-1, in the St. Louis All-Star League bowling competition last night at Arcade Lanes.

The O'Donnells had games of 1141, 958 and 1147. Other results: Ripley 2, Cove, 1; Celucoat 2, Kirchner, 1.

Only 10 Veterans At Illinois

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 1—Pete Elliott, starting his second football season as head coach at Illinois, has decided blue will be the most sought after jersey color in practice this year. Illini followers, pointing to the return of only 10 lettermen, despondently believe he couldn't have picked a more appropriate hue.

Ever since Ray Eliot installed the multi-color system of jerseys to designate the varsity and other teams in practice, white has been the color Illini vaued most. Those who wore white in practice were first stringers.

Elliott has reversed the color scale. White now will be the least desired jersey, worn only by the scrubs. Blue, orange, red and green will precede it.

Two-Platoon System.

Since Elliott plans to use offensive and defensive platoons this fall, there'll be 22 blue-clad players in the daily skirmishing, which starts today.

If Elliott's outlook wasn't bleak enough after graduation last spring, it became more so with the unexpected loss of eight players.

Mel Meyers, only experienced quarterback; Jimmy Warren, highly regarded halfback, and Norm Willis, another experienced halfback, were dropped for disciplinary reasons. Pat Lennon, one of two lettermen guards, got a coaching offer and was graduated in August instead of remaining for his last semester of eligibility. Ethan Blackaby, two-year letterman halfback, signed a professional baseball bonus contract. Ed O'Bradovich, 245-pound end who was being label a potential All-America, and Gerry Wood, the team's place-kicking specialist and punter, were declared scholastically ineligible, and Matt Baggett, 238-pound sophomore guard, decided to stay in his home town of Berkeley, Calif.

In addition, the only remaining letterman halfback, Dick McDade, suffered a severe ankle laceration in a summer mishap and will not be able to practice for at least two more weeks. And Pat Murphy, the only letterman tackle, still is a question mark because of past injuries to his knees.

That leaves Elliott with only linebacker Tony Parrilli, end Thurman Walker and center John Kruze as potential Big Ten stars.

The situation existing at the opening of practice could mean that the Illini may be facing their worst season since 1954, when they were 1-8.

Carry Back Runs Against Beau Prince

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—Beau Prince, the early favorite for the Kentucky Derby, and Carry Back, who won the big 3-year-old classic, tangle tomorrow for the first time since April 1 in the $50,000-added Jerome Handicap at Belmont Park.

The race may not settle the 3-year-old title, but it will help clarify the business.

The richest race of the Saturday program is the $100,000-added Washington Park Futurity at Arlington Park. In it, undefeated Ridan will go after his seventh straight victory as mid-west critics point up the big colt as the probable early favorite in next year's Derby.

Calumet Farm's Beau Prince ran third to Carry Back in the Florida Derby on April Fool's Day, then was hurt, missed the Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown, and didn't get back to the races until summer. After winning the Select Stakes at Monmouth, he took the American Derby at Arlington, and last time out won the Travers Aug. 12 at Saratoga.

Carry Back, who won the Flamingo, then followed with victories in the Florida Derby, Kentucky Derby and Preakness, but was hurt in the Belmont Stakes. Sherluck, a 65 to 1 shot, won that one on June 3.

Ten may start in the Jerome at one mile, with Carry Back packing top weight of 128 pounds, two more than Beau Prince. John Sellers, the nation's leading jockey, rides Carry Back with Steve Brooks on Beau Prince.

Carry Back made his first start since the Belmont last Saturday at Atlantic City and beat older horses with his usual last-minute rally.

Jacob Sher's Sherluck, with 121 pounds, also is expected for the Jerome, along with Robert Lehman's Ambiopoise, 122, Phil Godfrey's Bolinas Boy, 118, and others.

Thirteen may start in the Washington Futurity over 6½ furlongs, which would make the gross value some $220,000, with $132,500 for the winner. Ridan, who runs in the name of Mrs. Moody Jolley, has been red hot in recent workouts, and will be ridden by Bill Hartack.

Ridan will be an entry with Claiborne Farm's Ruler. Ridan has earned $155,800.

New Falstaff Bowler 'Burned Out' at 18

By John J. Archibald

A first meeting with Ronnie Gaudern is bound to start a little awkwardly. It's his name. . . . Just how is it pronounced?

"GAWD-ern," replied the handsome new member of the National Champion Falstaff bowling team. "It sounds a little less like cussing that way."

Until last November there weren't many people in bowling who even cared how his name was pronounced. Then he wangled a spot in the Professional Bowlers Association national tournament at Memphis and struck up a storm.

The 6-foot-4 San Antonio native finished second to Don Carter in the qualifying. Instead of fading in the finals, as any upstart kid is supposed to do, Ronnie finished as runner-up to champion Carter.

His reward was a check for $4000.

Ronnie, who was managing a 20-lane establishment in San Antonio at the time, was asked what he did with his first big tenpin payoff—buy a car?

"No, I already had a car," says Gaudern. Then, in words that are typical of many modern athletes, he added, "I bought a few stocks, of course."

One-Man Staff.

Gaudern has shown other evidence of being money-wise. His performance at Memphis brought him a contract with one of the major bowling equipment firms. When Ron got a chance to be the one-man advisory staff for one of the small new companies, however, he decided he'd rather be a big (and well-paid) fish in a little pond and joined up. Now he roams the country setting up franchises for the new firm when not bowling with the Falstaffs.

Ron is 25 years old. He's been bowling since he was 15.

"Within a year or two I was averaging 201 in an adult league," said Gaudern. I started working the desk in a bowling lane while completing high school and that enabled me to bowl as much as I wanted. I shot in five leagues and sometimes I bowled as many as 50 games a day.

"By the time I was 18, I was burned out. I was sick of bowling and I signed up for four years in the Navy. During that time I hardly touched a ball."

Gaudern was discharged in January, 1959, after duty that had taken him virtually to every country in the world as radarman on a seaplane tender and a destroyer. He resumed bowling in San Antonio.

Las Vegas Helped.

"Last fall I decided to give the pro tournaments a try," said Ron, "but it wasn't easy. I knew Billy Welu (the Falstaffs' captain), and he helped me get into the Professional Bowlers Association. Then it was a matter of getting a spot in one of the tournaments. Fortunately, there was Las Vegas."

Ron didn't bowl in the pro meet at Vegas, but some 150 other bowlers did. After revolving between bowling lanes and dice tables for several nights, though, a number of the pros barely had bus fare home. That provided some openings at the following P.B.A. meet in Torrence, Calif., and Gaudern was given a place.

"I finished twenty-fifth, but even that was worth $450," said Ron, who then set his sights on the big meet at Memphis, where he was to do so well.

Gaudern more than held his own in the pro tour last spring. He won $3095, placing him twenty-second among the 145 men on the list of prize winners.

The Falstaffs had been searching since last April for a bowler to replace Steve Nagy, who left the team to captain a National Bowling League entry. Gaudern was the choice.

Kuhns Rides 2 Winners At Fairmount

Apprentice Jockey Jerry Kuhns stole the spotlight at Fairmount Park last night when he brought home two winners, the only rider of the night to score a double.

Kuhns had no trouble whatever in taking the first race aboard Early April, a four-year-old filly from the barn of Clifford W. Pierce. He was off in front and won by five lengths. His winner in the fourth was Beefstake, a five-year-old gelding also representing the Pierce stable. This time Kuhns had to pick holes for his mount, finally slipping through on the rail to score by a length and a half.

strength, his reaction, his speed."

An old fire horse who gets a thrill when he smells smoke, Stuber likes the thought of seeing so many games, but he doesn't really enjoy them, he said, if they happen to bring together too many prospects to check with binoculars. A man would have to have a few more eyes to satisfy his conscience.

Where do pro football players come from? The answer is everywhere, Abe explained, and that's why the football Cardinals have 30 part-time scouts who report regularly. In addition, members of the Big Red coaching staff also scout Saturday games, home or away.

In the last draft, the National Football League selected five players from New England, 24 from the mid-East (New York, Pennsylvania and West Virginia), 33 from the Atlantic Coast area, 55 from the Southeast, 62 from Big Ten territory, 23 from the Big Eight area, 13 from the Rocky Mountains, two from the Dakotas, 23 from the Southwest, 33 from the Pacific Coast and four from the Northwest (Montana and Oregon).

Stuber won't be back at 5100 Oakland avenue until late November, just in time to help Pop Ivy and his staff prepare for the Dec. 4 draft. The only way the missus can see the eagle-eyed scout, meantime, is to go buffalo-hunting with him . . . pardon, to a football game.

Khoury Winner

Rich Kranze's homer was one of 17 hits as the Garrison Chiefs gained a 17-1 victory over defending champion Waterson in a Khoury League senior playoff baseball game. Jim Nelson of the Chiefs allowed just two hits in the four and one-half inning winners' bracket contest.

Devine Calls Team 'Fit' After First Drills

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 1 (AP) — The University of Missouri football squad opened its preseason football practice campaign yesterday with morning and afternoon workouts. Coach Dan Devine declared he believed all of his 66 candidates fit after watching them perform in a mile run at the morning drill.

In the afternoon practice, players worked on new offensive and defensive variations that Devine expects to use this season and on punting. Devine is seeking replacements for Danny La Rose and Skip Snyder, his two 1960 punters who were graduated last spring.

GENE OLIVER, Portland catcher, hit his thirty-second and thirty-third home runs of the year in the Pacific Coast League, but Spokane still managed a 9-8 victory. . . . Oliver leads the league in homers.

Oliver

First-place Tacoma reduced its magic number to four in the Pacific Coast League when it took a 3-2 decision from Hawaii on home runs by St. Louisan BILL HAIN, RAFAEL ALOMAR and BOB PERRY.

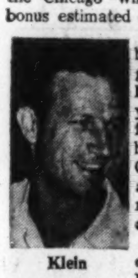
BOB UECKER'S grand slam homer and rookie DENNY LEMASTER'S 14-strikeout pitching performance led Louisville to a 5-0 victory over Indianapolis, the winner's third straight over the American Association leader, and moved the Colonels within two games of first.

BERT BARTH singled home the winning run in the seventh inning as Aberdeen defeated Eau Claire, 5-3, and moved within two games of Duluth-Superior and St. Cloud, tied for the lead, in the Northern League.

DEL E. WEBB, contractor and co-owner of the New York Yankees, has acquired the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas in a $20,000,000 stock transaction. . . . Webb said he saw no conflict in his owning a baseball team and a hotel that offered gambling.

"The slider is a very ordinary pitch and pitchers get themselves into trouble leaning too heavily on it," BILLY HERMAN, Boston Red Sox coach, said.

MIKE JOYCE, a University of Michigan pitcher, was signed by the Chicago White Sox for a bonus estimated at $35,000.



Klein

The Pittsburgh Pirates gave MIKE DERRICK, 18-year-old outfielder - first baseman from Columbia, S.C., a bonus estimated as high as $75,000.

LOU KLEIN, onetime St. Louis Cardinal infielder, took over as field boss of the Chicago Cubs in the team's system of rotating head coaches.

Halfback LARRY FERGUSON of Madison, Ill., was one of 19 lettermen who reported for football practice at Iowa, Big Ten co-champion last year and a top choice as 1961 national champion . . . Iowa's rookie head coach, JERRY BURNS said, "We hope to have at least a 7-2 record, an 8-1 record would be awfully nice and a 9-0 mark would be even better," but he picked Michigan State as the conference favorite "because they have the best schedule since they don't have to play Ohio State or Iowa this year."

CARMIN UCCI, 86-year-old resident of East Greenwich, R.I., who was making only his third visit to a dog track, received a record payoff of $15,587.40 on a $2 bet by picking the winners of the sixth through ninth races in the twin double at Taunton (Mass.) Dog Track.

The owners of Faila Tabu, the quarter-horse that died before qualifying trials for a $200,000 race at Ruidoso Downs, N.M., have offered a $3000 reward for information revealing the identity of the person who poisoned the animal.

Heavyweight JIM McCARTER of Seattle was in a Los Angeles hospital after he was knocked out in the third round by ALEX MITEFF in a bout at Olympic Stadium. . . . He was taken to the hospital for observation after it took handlers 30 seconds to revive him.

Five players counted on for the 1961 Oklahoma football squad will not be available . . . JIM McKAY, sophomore quaterback, and BILLY STONE, sophomore fullback, are scholastically ineligible; BILLY MEACHAM, junior halfback, is out because an injured knee has not healed, and JERRY GOLDSBY, a sophomore tackle, and JIM BYERLY, senior center, have quit school.

The Calgary Stampeders of the C.F.L. signed EAGLE DAY, former Mississippi and Washington Redskins quarterback.

HUGH GRANT'S O'Brien Hanover, 6-year-old trotter, lowered the world pacing record for 1¼ miles from 2:32 to 2:31 1-5 in winning the $25,000 Anzac Pace at Yonkers Raceway. . . . Wednesday, Harlan Dean, in which Grant has a part intetrest, established a world record of 1:58 2-5 for one mile in the Hambletonian at Du Quoin, Ill.

The Philadelphia Eagles traded defensive halfback BOBBY JACKSON to the Chicago Bears for a future draft choice in the National Football League. . . . The New York Giants traded linebacker JIM LEO to the Minneapolis Vikings and guard BRUCE TARBOX to the Los Angeles Rams for future draft choices.

SEWER PLANS AUTHORIZED IN 13 SUBDISTRICTS

Sewer improvements in 13 subdistricts at an estimated total cost of $882,000 were declared to be in the public interest yesterday by the board of trustees of the Metropolitan Sewer District.

The board's action authorized engineers to prepare final plans, specifications and easements for approval before contracts for the projects are let.

The subdistricts, number of homes to be served and estimated cost of projects in each are: Georgian Acres trunk, south of Clayton road and east of Geyer road, Frontenac, 39 homes, $32,000; Huntleigh Downs lateral, which is within the Georgian Acres area, 25 homes, $64,000; Country Fair, between Ladue and Olive Street roads on both sides of Lindbergh boulevard, 69 homes, $160,000.

Domerville, west of Telegraph road and north of Reavis Barracks road, 100 homes, $120,000; Lawrence drive west, north of Ladue and west of Lindbergh, 17 homes, $25,000; West Ladue subtrunk, east and west of Spoede road north of Ladue road, 24 homes, $18,000; West Ladue lateral, same area as preceding subdistrict, 27 homes, $30,000.

Baron and Chambers in the Castle Point subdivision, 300 homes, $140,000; Spoede road subtrunk, between Lindbergh and Graeser road and Olive Street and Ladue roads, 220 homes, $140,000; Spoede Hills east, within the boundry of Spoede road subtrunk, eight homes, $7000; Spoede Hills, also the same area, 20 homes, $20,000.

Olive Crest, south of Olive Street road and east and west of Spoede, 75 homes, $100,000, and Larkin and Olive Street road, near Lindbergh and Olive Street, 16 homes, $26,000.

A $727,452 joint contract was confirmed by the board with J. E. Latta Construction Co. and Latta Bridge Co. for construction of section two of the $4,-750,000 Gravois creek sewer bond issue project. The firms were the lowest of nine bidders on the project.

Final engineering plans for section three of the 12-mile Gravois project also were approved by the trustees. Estimated cost of construction in the section, which extends for about two and one-half miles from Union road to Gravois road, is $618,000.

Peter F. Mattei, MSD executive director, said contracts for the first two of the four-section Gravois creek project were let at more than $130,000 under the district's estimates.

The board also approved final engineering plans for the Kappel and Balboa subdistrict, in the vicinity of Halls Ferry and Chambers road. Cost of construction was estimated at $350,-000.

In other action, the board of trustees authorized issuance of 2535 tax bills for a total of $450,-505 in sewer improvements in four subdistricts.

The subdistricts, number of tax bills and cost of improved facilities in each are: Elbring drive, east of Dielman road in Olivette, seven tax bills, $6770; Wheaton-Bel Nor, near St. Charles and Hanley roads, 1312 bills, $89,485; Oakborough, southwest of West Florissant and Chambers roads including part of Dellwood and an unincorporated area, 651 bills, $160,000, and Heege-Valcour, near U.S. Highway 66 and Heege and Laclede Station roads, 565 tax bills, $194,250.

Mattei was directed by the MSD board to negotiate a contract to prepare boundaries for a proposed Mattese watershed and make a preliminary survey of cost of facilities in the area, outside the district's boundary and extending south and west to the Meramec river.

The action was taken after acknowledgement of petitions signed by 240 persons who represented 198 property owners. The petitions asked that the watershed be annexed to the district.

The district executive director said there are about 7600 acres in the area and only about 120 are being served presently by the Mattese Sanitary District. Residents in the Mattese district will vote Sept. 12 on bond issues totaling $400,000 for construction of a sewage lagoon and trunk sewers in the area.

About 225 of the more than 800 families in the Mattese sewer district have private sewers and are opposed to paying for services that would not benefit them, it was reported.

The MSD trustees approved appropriation of $109,000 for matching funds that would go with a $209,000 Federal Government urban planning grant for a storm water study, for which the district has applied.

Charles B. Kaiser Jr., general counsel of MSD, said under an amendment to the federal law, the Government's contribution to such a study has been increased from one-half to two-thirds the total cost.

Three subdistricts were established by the board at its meeting yesterday. They are Frost avenue with 960 homes in an area north of Frost avenue between Graham and North Florissant roads; Stafford Estates, in the vicinity of Weber and Laclede Station roads, 55 homes, and Laclede Station and Rock Hill, seven homes.

NINE INDICTED IN BURNING OF INTEGRATION BUS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (UPI)—Nine men were indicted today by a federal grand jury in Birmingham, Ala., in the burning of a Freedom Rider bus near Anniston, Ala., last May 14, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy announced.

Kennedy said the FBI has arrested seven of the men—all of whom live in the Anniston area. Another is in jail on burglary charges and the ninth is in a hospital, Kennedy said.

The bus, carrying 17 passengers including seven Freedom Riders, was met by howling mobs of whites armed with clubs and knives when it entered Anniston.

The mob stoned the bus and then followed it out of town and tossed an incendiary bomb through an open window.

Several passengers were treated for burns and smoke inhalation.

Indicted today were Kenneth L. Adams, an oil company operator; William O. Chappell, upholsterer; Jerome B. Couch, electrician; Roger D. Couch, unemployed; Jerry R. Eason, a flower shop employe; Frank B. Johnson, a maintenance worker in the Anniston housing authority; Cecil L. Lewallyn, occupation unknown; Frank J. Tobert, store keeper; and Jerry Z. Willingham, a valve company employe.

DR. E. LEE SHRADER DIES; FUNERAL WILL BE MONDAY

Funeral services for Dr. E. Lee Shrader, internist, cardiologist and until 1957 director of student health at St. Louis University for 30 years, will be at 9 a.m. Monday at the Alexander undertaking establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard. Burial will be in Oak Lawn Cemetery.

Dr. Shrader, 63 years old, died of a heart ailment today at St. Louis County Hospital. He was on the staff of the St. Mary's Group of Hospitals, an associate professor of medicine at St. Louis University and a director and past president of the Missouri Heart Association. From 1931 to 1935 he was director of City Hospital. He lived at 6651 Waterman avenue, University City.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eugenia Shrader; a daughter, Miss Genie Lee Shrader of University City; a son, Martin Shrader of Webster Groves, and his mother, Mrs. May Shrader of Moberly, Mo.

BIG STORE SALES IN ST. LOUIS AREA SHOW INCREASE

Dollar sales volume of reporting department stores in the St. Louis metropolitan area last week was 1 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis said today.

The report does not include sales of discount department stores, which have opened three new establishments here in the last year, or the volume of the River Roads branch of Stix, Baer & Fuller, which was opened last month. As a result, the Federal Reserve report understates the sales comparison because it covers a smaller percentage of total department store sales this year than it did last year.

Department store sales last week in the Eighth Federal Reserve District, which includes St. Louis and extends into seven states, were 2 per cent higher than in the comparable week of 1960. In the United States, department store sales were up 6 per cent over volume a year ago.

For the year to date, sales are below volume in the similar period last year by 2 per cent in the St. Louis area and by 1 per cent in the Eighth District. In the nation, sales are 1 per cent higher than they were a year earlier.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS, ROBBED OF $75 IN ALLEY

William Volenstine was knocked unconscious and robbed of $75 today in an alley in the rear of 610 South Sixth street.

Volenstine, 53-year-old cook, told police he had stepped into the alley to take a drink when two men approached him from the rear, grabbed his arms and struck him on the head with a blunt instrument. He was taken to City Hospital. He had lacerations of the forehead and a possible skull fracture.

He lives at the Annex Hotel, 615 Walnut street.

IDEAL COOLER CORP. SOLD

Ideal Cooler Corp., 2830 Magazine street, has been purchased by Vulcan-Hart Corp. of Louisville, Ky., for $1,080,000, it was announced yesterday. Ideal, which manufactures refrigeration equipment, employs about 45 persons here. Louis Weiss was president of Ideal.

Operation of the St. Louis plant will be continued, Charles C. Coy, executive vice president and treasurer of Vulcan-Hart, said. The Louisville firm manufactures commercial food equipment.

JOINT MILITARY BUYING UNIT SET UP BY PENTAGON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (UPI) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara set up yesterday a new Pentagon buying agency designed to reduce military stockpiles two to four billion dollars.

The new agency will seek the savings by purchasing such items as food, clothing, gasoline and medical supplies for all the military services rather than letting each service buy its own supplies. Most weapons would not be involved.

A director and headquarters location for the agency have not been selected. It will employ about 16,000 persons, including 700 to 1000 in its headquarters.

Senator Paul H. Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, said he and other members of the House-Senate defense procurement subcommittee had long recommended such action. He congratulated McNamara on his order and said it would mean additional savings of $250,000,000 a year.

McNamara told reporters that if all military purchases now contemplated were funneled through the agency, its inventory might total 21 billion dollars. A total of 1,219,000 different items would be in its stocks.

The new agency initially will take over purchases of food, clothing and textiles, traffic management materials, petroleum products and medical, industrial, automotive and construction supplies for the individual services.

Later, industrial production equipment, chemical supplies, airplane spare parts and 450,000 of the 950,000 electronic items used by the military services may be added to the agency's purchasing responsibilities.

One to three years may be required for the complete changeover.

AUSTRALIANS share the view of Americans that holding the Western position in Berlin is worth the risk of war. Six out of ten persons say that the West should fight to stay in Berlin if the Russians insist that we leave the beleaguered city.

The question asked throughout Australia:

"If Russia insists we leave, and surrounds West Berlin with armed forces, should we leave Berlin, or fight to stay?"

61% said "Fight"
15% said "Leave"
24% were undecided

Surveys in the United States have revealed overwhelming public determination to keep Western troops in Berlin even at the risk of war. A large majority of Americans also believes that if the Communists deny us access to the city, the Western powers should attempt to fight their way in.

Test Issue

of its destructive and deterrent power.

Soviet military men have wanted to catch up with the United States in the development of the more sophisticated low-yield nuclear weapons to be used on tactical missions. When the Soviet Union in March 1958 decided on a moratorium on testing, the United States was ahead in the perfection of these weapons.

Nevertheless, the timing of the Soviet announcement caught Western and neutral diplomats here by surprise.

With the conference of the leaders of the uncommitted countries opening at Belgrade and an East-West conference on Berlin taking shape, it was thought that Khrushchev would be more restrained at this time. The Russian leader apparently was subject to some kind of pressure that made him decide to risk the alienation of opinion in the uncommitted countries which he had so energetically courted in the last years.

Khrushchev evidently already had waited for months hoping that the United States goaded by the failure to make progress in the Geneva talks on a nuclear test ban treaty, would accept the onus of being the first to resume testing.

AIRCRAFT ROCKET EXPLODED BY FIRE IN BAGGAGE CAR

McLEAN, Tex., Sept. 1 (AP)—A Falcon air-to-air rocket was exploded by a fire on a Rock Island train yesterday and tore a hole in a baggage car. No one was injured and there were conflicting reports about whether the rocket carried a warhead.

In Washington, an Air Force spokesman said he understood the rocket was not armed and was without an explosive warhead. He said rockets are not armed when shipped by rail and are equiped with warheads afterward.

Two Air Force men at the scene, however, were quoted as saying they found the warhead lying under a pile of baggage after the explosion. The two, Sgts. Clem Jandel and Frank Slater, said a second rocket was being disarmed. It was in a metal container in the baggage car and was pushed out intact by firemen who were fighting the fire.

The rockets were consigned by the Hughes Aircraft Co. in Culver City, Calif., to Tindall Air Force Base in Florida.

GOODWIN-GUEVARA TALK HARMLESS, SENATORS FIND

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—A Senate subcommittee said last night it was satisfied that an encounter in Montevideo, Uruguay, between Cuba's Ernesto (Che) Guevara and a White House aid two weeks ago was indeed a casual and unimportant cocktail party incident.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin America questioned Richard N. Goodwin, President Kennedy's special assistant on Latin American affairs, for 90 minutes. The questioning was prompted by the insistence by the former Argentine Foreign Minister that the conversation between Goodwin and Guevara was politically vital and touched on a possible resumption of United States-Cuban relations.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, the subcommittee chairman, was reported to have told Goodwin that the subcommittee accepted his version of the conversation that took place at a Brazilian party after the close of the inter-American Alliance for Progress conference at Punta del Este.

Living, dining and kitchen areas are all at street level. Three bedrooms and two baths are on upper level. The Louis G. Monnig Realty Co. negotiated the sale.

Pink Brick Residence In Warson Woods Development Purchased

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Albach have purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Ogg this pink brick ranch house at 700 Jamaica Court, Warson Woods. The house has entrance hall, living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, two bedrooms, two baths, den with fireplace, a two-car attached garage and a patio. The property is six years old. Margaret Caradine Wright was the agent in the transaction.

Loan Funds Supply Still Good

The greater availability of residential mortgage funds evident during the first quarter continued during the second quarter, according to a report for the period released by the Federal National Mortgage Association this week-end.

The agency's Secondary Market Operations Second Quarter Report and Financial Statement discloses that purchases of FHA and VA mortgages by the association dropped 35 per cent from 8184 valued at $106,561,000 in the first quarter to 5315, worth $68,435,000, in the second quarter. These purchases also represented a substantial decrease from the comparable quarter a year ago—a relatively "tight money" period when 20,246 mortgages valued at $254,904,000 were acquired.

The corporation also reported that during the April-June period it sold 24,449 loans valued at $284,231,000—an increase of 34 per cent over the previous quarter when 18,251 mortgages were sold for $212,320,000 to long-term private investors. This rather sizable portfolio reduction was in sharp contrast with that effected during the same period a year ago when only 355 mortgages valued at $4,624,000 were sold.

Fluctuations Normal.

In releasing his report, FNMA President J. Stanley Baughman pointed out that the fluctuations in purchases and sales were normal, and to be expected, and reflected the condition of the mortgage market. He also said it meant that "the association is effectively discharging its responsibilities in providing a degree of liquidity to the residential mortgage market as directed by the Congress." He also explained that "our purchases always increase when mortgage money is tight while sales become practically nil—and conversely, when mortgage funds are plentiful, our buying historically tapers off accordingly while sales climb upward."

Baughman also pointed out that the agency's stepped up sales volume in the first half of this year was in itself "prima facie evidence of the wide acceptability and marketability of the association's well-seasoned and sound mortgages." He added that "proceeds of the sales not only enabled us to substantially reduce our borrowings but placed FNMA in a commensurately stronger liquid position to meet increased mortgage funds demands when they occur."

Secondary Market.

Notwithstanding the accelerated sales in the first half year, the corporation's Secondary Market Operations portfolio at the end of the second quarter consisted of 226,943 FHA and VA mortgages with unpaid principal balances amounting to $2,522,000,000.

An analysis of the quarter's purchases disclosed a ratio of approximately 3 to 1 in the number of FHA mortgages bought compared to VA, with 3939 FHA's valued at $50,200,000 acquired, contrasted with only 1376 G.I. loans valued at $18,200,000. These purchases covered properties located in 39 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

A highlight of the report shows that all major segments of the home finance industry continue to participate in the FNMA program. A breakdown of the 467 sellers that sold mortgages to the association during the quarter shows that 356 mortgage companies, (76%) led the list, followed by 83 banks and trust companies, (18%), 23 savings and loan associations, (5%), and 5 insurance companies, (1%). Cumulatively, approximately 1300 companies have made use of the program.

Private Ownership.

The report also showed a continued broadening of the base of private ownership in the corporation during the quarter, with 8070 stockholders holding 758,111 shares of FNMA common stock with a par value of $75,811,100 on June 30, compared with 8019 holding 748,839 shares at the end of the previous quarter. (The agency's common stock is issued only to sellers of mortgages to FNMA but is transferable thereafter). The corporation's preferred stock outstanding, held exclusively by the United States Treasury, amounted to $158,820,305 on June 30.

FNMA's net earnings under its Secondary Market Operations during the quarter amounted to $3,964,124 after expenses and after providing for payment of $4,294,468 to the U.S. Treasury as the equivalent of federal income taxes. Provision was made for dividends of $950,221 to be paid on Treasury-held preferred stock and $612,159 on common stock, leaving $2,401,744 for transfer to general surplus.

The association maintains regional agency offices in Philadelphia, Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas and Los Angeles in addition to a sales office and a fiscal agency office in New York City.

Ad Valorem Tax Structure Assailed

WASHINGTON — Federal action to help cities out of their financial difficulties is forecast by A. M. Woodruff, dean of the George Washington University School of Government, Business and International Affairs, writing in the current issue of Urban Land, a publication of the Urban Land Institute. The ULI of Washington, D.C. is an independent research organization specializing in urban planning and development.

"The local ad valorem tax structure needs to be overhauled to remove inequities, and funds from the federal income tax must be made available to metropolitan areas," declares Dean Woodruff. "The real estate tax was based on the dubious premise that the capital value of real estate was in some way equated with the owner's ability to pay." He charge that this tax is "clumsy" and difficult to levy. The Federal income tax is termed "efficient" in that the cost of levy and collection is low in terms of amounts realized.

Local taxes influence investment decisions in "drastic" fashion. Large investors locate their properties outside high tax areas. "compounding the situation is described as an "unwholesome combination of high taxes and rapidly rising municipal costs coupled with a need for still greater municipal expenditures to keep the older cities reasonably attractive."

Better methods of municipal accounting and comptrollership are needed and "sums should not be placed at the disposal of existing political subdivisions." The latter are termed "a crazy-quilt patchwork that inflates cost out of conscience for the dubious purpose of supporting the egos of local office holders." Dean Woodruff advises giving funds to governmental units which can solve metropolitan problems on a metropolitan basis.

Dean Woodruff's article, "How Changing Tax Laws Affect Land Development" is based on comments he made at a recent ULI tri-council meeting in Philadelphia.

PAINTING WINDOW FRAMES.

Here's a handy rule to remember when figuring out how much paint you'll need for window sash and frames. The average window has about 35 feet of paintable area. Multiply this key number by the number of windows and you'll have your paint requirements.

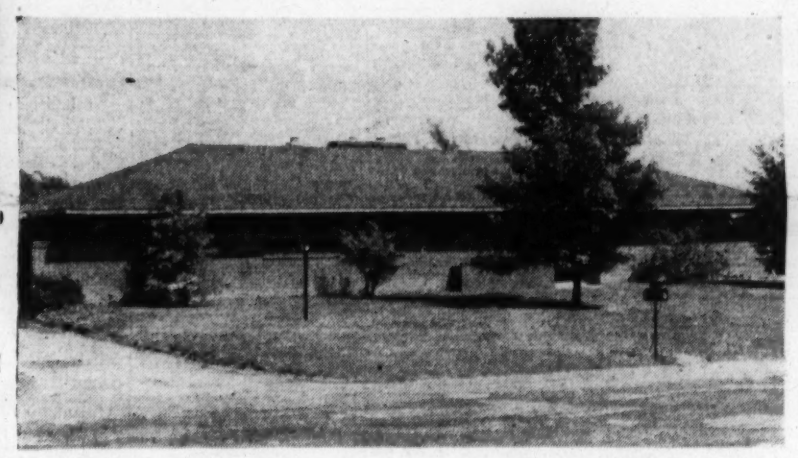
The real estate department of the Bank of St. Louis handled the transaction.



Couple Buys Residence on Heather Hill Lane

Carl and Evelyn Poslosky have purchased this residence at No. 6 Heather Hill Lane in a transaction negotiated by the James M. Lederer agency. The house has four bedrooms, three baths, a patio with a barbecue pit.

Rural Area Owners May Get Loans

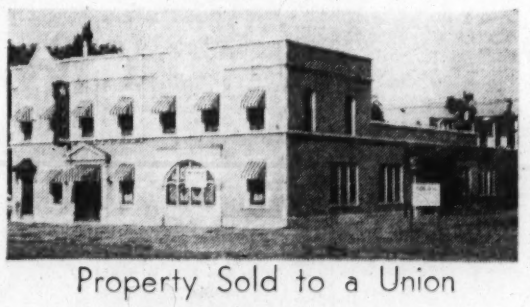
Families living in rural areas, even though not engaged in farming, may now be eligible for the housing loans made by USDA's Farmers Home Administration. Previously only farmers could qualify for this type of credit.

Housing loans are made for the construction, repair and remodeling of dwellings and essential farm buildings. The loans bear 4 per cent interest and are repayable over periods up to 33 years.

The new housing legislation makes approximately $430,000,000 available for these loans over the next four years.

Applications are made at county offices of the Farmers Home Administration. To be eligible an applicant must own a farm or a housing site in a rural area; be without decent, safe and sanitary housing; be unable to obtain the needed credit from other sources; and be without sufficient resources to provide the necessary housing on his own account. He must also have sufficient income to meet payments on existing debts, take care of his other expenses, and make the payments when due on the proposed loan.

"The new lending authorities fill a real housing credit vacuum for many families who live in rural areas and who are not served by other housing programs and who cannot qualify for credit from conventional sources," according to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. "The expanded rural housing program will help these families obtain adequate homes, and create a healthy environment for raising their children."



Property Sold to a Union

Witt Brothers, Undertakers, have sold this property at 2929 South Jefferson avenue to the Stove Mounters International Union of North America. The Heape Realty Co. was agent in the transaction.

Company Buys Big Farm Near Shelbyville

The Dennis Chicken Products Company, Inc., of Augusta, Ill., has purchased a big farm six miles northwest of Shelbyville, Mo., from McKillip Brothers. The farm consists of 865 acres, was sold for $164,700.

The transaction was negotiated by the Harry Callison Agency of Clarence, which indicated possession is to be given next March 1. The sellers were represented in legal aspects of the sale by Rolin Boulware, lawyer.

Missourian Buys Freeburg Farm

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Wilde of Jefferson City, Mo., have purchased from Welton Jay Wilson of Kirkwood a 204-acre farm about four miles southwest of Freeburg in Osage county. The sale was negotiated by Norris Fridley, Gerald, Mo., Realtor.

The farm has a six-room house, a barn, other farm outbuildings, and there is a milk parlor and drilled well.

Wilde, who is employed in Jefferson City, plans to commute, raise livestock and do part-time crop farming, the agent said.

Builder Erecting Display House On Store's Lot

Mayer-Raischer-Mayer, builder, with co-operation of Famous-Barr and Union Electric Co. has begun construction of one of the builder's display houses on the parking lot just east of the Famous-Barr Clayton store. The house, an all-electric project of the type being erected in the builder's Claymont subdivision (west on Clayton road), will face the store, near Forsyth boulevard.

The interior of the four-bedroom house is to be furnished in four different styles by the store's interior decorating department. One room is to be traditional, one provincial, one Early American, one modern. Miss Susan Brown is to direct the furnishing and decorating for Famous.

The house is to remain on the store's lot six months and a series of activities is planned for the use of it.

Counseling New Realty Service

The complexity of modern realty has brought into being a new kind of real estate practitioner whose prime function is not to act as broker, agent, or manager but simply to give advice.

During the last decade the broadening base of real estate investment, the upswing in urban renewal, and the accelerated pace of new construction have all contributed toward placing greater importance on the role of the real estate counselor.

Although in most fields the trend has been toward specialization, the broad spectrum of real estate counseling involves a wide range of diversified skills and services.

According to John R. White, vice-president of Brown Harris Stevens, Inc., one of the youngest members of the American Society of Real Estate Counselors, the job of the real estate counselor is to provide competent, disinterested and unbiased advice, professional guidance and sound judgement on all phases of real estate, such as merchandising, market and investment analysis, management, planning, land utilization, financing, appraising, urban renewal, and a host of other related services.

Range Is Wide.

"Although the basic concept of offering carefully considered judgment for a fee is relatively new to real estate," White observes, "this same practice has enjoyed great success in other areas of business and finance such as investment counseling.

"The range of clients who may have a need for real estate counseling," White states, "is almost as wide as the services offered. Real estate counselors' clients include not only individuals and corporations but also financial institutions, estates, foundations, trust companies, courts, insurance companies, educational institutions, government agencies, non-profit organizations and other types of business enterprises.

"The real estate field," White asserts, "has become far too complex to rely on hunch or instinct. Old fashioned off-the-cuff advice which sufficed 30 years ago is completely outmoded. There is an ever increasing need for the services of qualified counselors who make it a business to keep informed on all aspects of real estate and who keep abreast of legislative changes, marketing techniques, planning, zoning and other new concepts."

Acts for City.

However, despite the wide scope of services offered by the real estate counselor, White still feels the future holds promise of the counseling field taking on significant new forms. For example, he can envision the day when a counselor will represent a principal by handling involved and complex negotiations for a fee, without regard to the outcome of the transaction. At present, it is customary for a broker to receive a commission on a transaction only if it is successfully consumated.

Under White's supervision as head of the Consultation Department, Brown Harris Stevens has acted as real estate consultants to the City of New York in the pioneering West Side Urban Renewal Area, in which spot clearance re-development will be combined with rehabilitation of structurally sound buildings and conservation of standard buildings.

The company has also acted as management consultant for the City of New York in the Neighborhood Conservation Program, which landlords of properties in designated neighborhoods are given advice on how to improve the maintenance and operation of their building with the objective of improving the character of the neighborhoods. As consultants, the company has also recently completed extensive market analysis of the central business districts and made recommendations for the revitalization of Norwalk and Stanford, Connecticut.

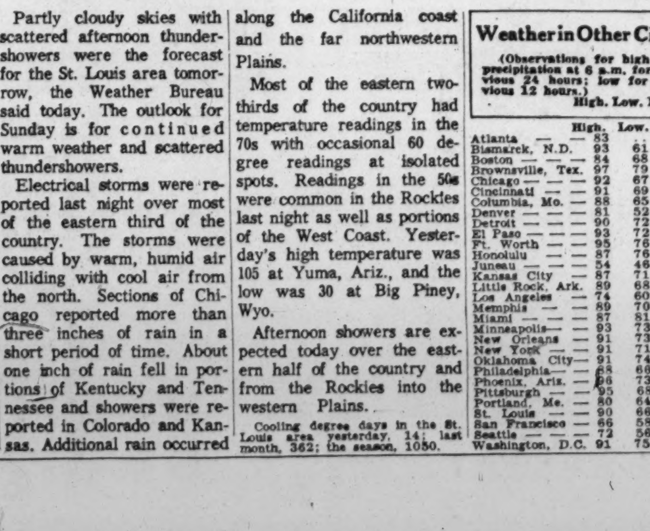
Partly Cloudy, Thundershowers



—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Partly cloudy skies with scattered afternoon thundershowers were the forecast for the St. Louis area tomorrow, the Weather Bureau said today. The outlook for Sunday is for continued warm weather and scattered thundershowers.

Electrical storms were reported last night over most of the eastern third of the country. The storms were caused by warm, humid air colliding with cool air from the north. Sections of Chicago reported more than three inches of rain in a short period of time. About one inch of rain fell in portions of Kentucky and Tennessee and showers were reported in Colorado and Kansas. Additional rain occurred along the California coast and the far northwestern Plains.

Most of the eastern two-thirds of the country had temperature readings in the 70s with occasional 60 degree readings at isolated spots. Readings in the 50s were common in the Rockies last night as well as portions of the West Coast. Yesterday's high temperature was 105 at Yuma, Ariz., and the low was 30 at Big Piney, Wyo.

Afternoon showers are expected today over the eastern half of the country and from the Rockies into the western Plains.

Cooling degree days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 14; last month, 362; the season, 1050.

MAY DEPT. STORES REPORT PEAK SALES

May Department Stores Co., earnings for the second quarter ended July 31 were $2,339,000 equal to 30 cents a common share compared with net of $2,105,000 equivalent to 26 cents a share in the 1960 second quarter.

Sales in the period just ended were a record for the quarter, amounting to $163,080,000, a gain of 7.5 per cent over the $151,738,000 reported a year ago.

Net earnings for the six months to July 31 were $4,365,000 or 55 cents a common share on record sales of $308,172,000. In the comparable period a year ago net was $4,803,000 equal to 61 cents a share on sales of $298,046,000.

Morton D. May, president said the increase in the second quarter sales was primarily the result of sales at five new stores which were not in operation in the corresponding quarter last year. The company looks for a continuation of gradual improvement in retail sales during the remainder of the year, May added.

AM. INVESTMENT CO. NETS 63C A SHARE FOR 6 MONTHS

American Investment Co. of Illinois six month unaudited net earnings were $3,393,598, equivalent to 63 cents a common share on 4,870,133 shares outstanding. In the six months of 1960 net was $3,633,857 or 70 cents a share on 4,791,030 shares.

Loan volume in the latest period increased to $206,059,583 from $194,220,018 a year ago. Receivables were $301,341,746, up from $267,188,847 in the first half of 1960.

Results for the first three months of the current year were adversely affected by poor economic conditions but the second quarter improvement approximated 10 per cent and is expected to continue during the remainder of the year, L. M. Curtiss, company president, stated.

PRE-LABOR DAY TRADE IS SLOW, MOTORS GAINERS

Day's Complete New York Stock Transactions

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—A late spurt put the stock market generally higher at the close today.

In a slow, pre-Labor Day session, the market milled inconclusively most of the session but as trading neared its end there was a spurt of activity which pushed the list of the upside.

Volume for the day was very low as many Wall Streeters had already departed for the long weekend.

Zenith produced a gain of about 7 points to feature the performance.

A number of the market wheelhorses did better late in the day.

General Electric and Kennecott were up more than a point each. The averages were dampened, however, by DuPont which lost 3 points or so.

Brunswick and Revlon were ahead close to 2 points.

Big three autos were fractionally higher all day, reflecting optimism that an auto strike could be avoided.

Volume for the day was estimated at 2,700,000 shares compared with 2,920,000 yesterday.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler were fractionally higher Monday as the street remained optimistic about prospects for avesting an auto industry strike.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange moved higher late in moderate dealings. Avis Industrial Corp. and Hazeltine rose more than 2. Cenco Instruments added about 2. Ahead around a point were Brown Co., Audio Devices and Aerojet-General. Stanrock Uranium and Russeks Fifth Avenue were active fractional gainers. Mead Johnson was off about 3 and Barnes Engineering more than a point.

LONDON STOCK INDEX

LONDON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 308.9, off 0.3.

Bank Clearings.

St. Louis bank clearings for Sept. 1 were $62,500,000 compared with $70,000,000 a year ago.

GRAIN TRADING LAGS AND CHANGES SMALL

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP)—Trade in grain futures today was limited largely to evening commitments for the long holiday weekend at prices mostly little changed.

A few firm spots developed from time to time on the short covering but setbacks generally were within small fractions of previous closes.

Brokers said a strike of some grain handlers at 13 Chicago elevators may have restricted commercial business somewhat but that it appeared to have no effect on prices. They said the strike was long expected and that most major firms had shipped considerable quantities away from the threaten facilities.

U.S. BONDS LITTLE LOWER, CORPORATE LIST MIXED

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—United States Government bonds maintained a slightly lower tone late today. Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange were thoroughly mixed.

Over-the-counter dealers in Treasury securities quoted intermediates and long bonds off 2-32 to 4-32. That was about the same range as at the opening. There was little activity. Investors were concentrating on the three-day holiday weekend that starts tomorrow.

All domestic markets will be closed Monday, Labor day.

Rails continued a bit higher among corporates while utilities trailed off. This was yesterday's final tone. Industrials held mixed. Volume was running about 25 per cent behind yesterday's pace.

Belgium 5½s gained 1½ at 101½ and Southern Italy 5½s fell a fraction at 97⅜.

Dealers in commercial paper cut rates ⅛ of 1 per cent to make the range 3⅛ to 3⅜ per cent.

N.Y. STOCK EXCHANGE, OTHER BOARDS CLOSED MONDAY, LABOR DAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP).

ALL financial and commodities markets in the United States and Canada will be closed Monday, Sept. 4, in observance of Labor day. The London market will be open.

St. Louis banks and Merchants' Exchange will be closed.

2 Rail Presidents Here Oppose Passenger Service Subsidies

Heads of Mo. Pac. and Frisco Against Federal Aid—Pevler of Wabash Sees No Alternative.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent

The Interstate Commerce Commission proposal for Federal subsidies to railroads to preserve essential passenger services brought adverse comments from the presidents of Missouri Pacific and Frisco, but reluctant acceptance from the head of the Wabash.

The commission reversed its long-time position against Federal grants in the transportation field when it recommended direct subsidies for the New York, New Haven & Hartford and other railroads to help them maintain essential passenger services. The New Haven recently went into bankruptcy. Railroads last year lost $485,000,000 carrying passengers, the commission has reported.

Downing B. Jenks, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, said yesterday that he was against the use of subsidies to help the railroads in their attempts to improve the railroads' financial condition. He pointed out that a number of Missouri Pacific passenger trains are making money, although a deficit of $14,965,000 was incurred last year in its passenger and allied service.

D. B. Jenks

Subsidies lead to perpetuation of uneconomic services, Jenks said in support of his argument. The incentive to reduce costs and operate efficiently is removed if subsidies are accepted.

If railroad passenger service is necessary for a city, let that city contract with the railroad to supply the service, he said. "I don't know why taxpayers all over the United States should subsidize a railroad in one section of the country."

Missouri Pacific passenger revenues so far this year are slightly higher than in the corresponding period last year. His company aggressively promotes use of its passenger trains, but unprofitable runs are being dropped.

A passenger train operating in Texas was discontinued earlier this year and a run between Kansas City and Omaha will be dropped if the regulatory commissions allow it.

Hungerford for Ending Tax.

Clark Hungerford, board chairman and president of the St. Louis, San Francisco Railway Co., also said he was not in favor of subsidies. He pointed out that elimination of the 10 per cent tax on passenger fares would be helpful in stimulating business. Railroads have asked for removal of this tax for many years.

C. Hungerford

Asked whether he would apply for a subsidy if Congress passed such a program, Hungerford said he would wait and see what the law provided.

Frisco's loss in its passenger operations this year is smaller than in the corresponding period last year, Hungerford said. In 1960, the Frisco lost $7,037,000 on passenger operations. Two passenger trains have been eliminated in the last year.

The position of Jenks and Hungerford against subsidies is similar to that adopted by Western railroads. Eastern railroads, however, favor the use of subsidies.

Herman H. Pevler, president of the Wabash Railroad Co., yesterday said "it is obvious that railroads cannot long continue to furnish passenger service at a severe loss which must be made up out of the meager profits of the freight operation."

H. H. Pevler

"If railroad passenger operation is necessary — and we believe it is — some means must be devised to support it financially. While we are not in favor of subsidies generally, since other forms of transportation are subsidized, we see no alternative," he concluded.

Pevler said he would apply for a Federal subsidy of passenger service, if Congress passed such a program.

The Wabash incurred a $4,131,000 deficit in its passenger operations last year.

Railroads cannot be expected to bear the heavy burden of state and local ad valorem taxes, as well as school taxes, for the support of all the territory in which they operate, while vast improvements are made at public expense for the public to travel in its own vehicles or in other common carrier forms of transportation on the highways, Pevler added.

TRUCK TONNAGE HEAVIER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—Intercity truck tonnage in 34 metropolitan areas across the country in the week ended Aug. 26 was up 4.6 per cent from the corresponding week last year, the American trucking associations reported.

Compared with the previous week this year, tonnage in the week ended Aug. 26 was up 2.6 per cent. The figures are based on tonnage handled at more than 400 truck terminals of common carriers of general frieght.

U.S. GOLD RESERVES SHOW FIRST BIG DROP SINCE FEB.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—United States gold reserves fell $150,000,000 during the week ended Aug. 30, the Federal Reserve Board said.

The drop was the largest in eight months and the first substantial decline since February.

The outflow left United States gold stocks at $17,452,000,000, down $315,000,000 for the year.

A spokesman for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York said the sale of United States gold came as the result of monetary shifts following the drawing of $1,500,000,000 from the International Monetary Fund by Great Britain early this month. He indicated that some of the money used by the British to pay debts had been converted to gold by various countries which traditionally hold their reserves in gold.

Previous to the latest week, the gold reserve had declined only twice since the end of February. The last drop was $25,000,000 during the week ended July 19. Since then there was a net gain of $76,000,000.

U. S. TREASURY POSITION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1 (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury Aug. 29, 1961: Balance: $6,113,378,348; deposits fiscal year July 1: $13,629,898,561; withdrawals fiscal year: $18,557,161,450; total debt: (x)$293,448,395,157; gold assets: $17,600,130,504.

(x)—Includes $442,712,275 debt not subject to statutory limit.

SEARS, ROEBUCK 6-MONTH NET $1, SECOND TO RECORD

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co. reported that consolidated net income for six months ended July 31 was the second highest in its 75-year history and amounted to $75,575,715, equal to $1 a share.

It was an increase of 3.8 per cent over the comparable period a year ago when earnings were $72,784,815 or 97 cents a share. The record for any comparable period was in 1959 when $76,311,128 yielded $1.02 a share.

The company also said sales climbed 1.4 per cent to $1,929,960,817.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Sept. 1 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for Aug. 31: Purchases of 301,911 shares; sales of 302,900 shares including 1449 shares sold short.

Jack Rice

Drag-Racing on The Old Toll Road

THE WEEKEND GAMBLERS were out in force on U.S. 61, playing their deadly game at 80 and 90 miles an hour. The weekend gamblers drive automobiles loaded with their expendable ones, their wives and children, and bet they can gain a half hour every 100 miles by passing on short-rise hills and performing other deeds of idiocy.

JACK RICE

Their game is out of my league. All I wanted to do was get from St. Louis to Jackson, Mo., under the car's own power and at 60 miles an hour but my rear bumper kept attracting volunteers, pushing me along with their horns.

When I reached Jackson and complained to the natives about the competition on the highway somebody said my trouble was that I came to town 60 years too late. I should have made the trip about 1900, by steamboat and toll road. Harry Ueleke, an 85-year-old merchant in the town, recommended it for economy, and comfort, and avoiding high-speed traffic.

Ueleke said he boarded the steamboat at Cape Girardeau, headed upstream to the St. Louis World's Fair in '04, on a Friday evening. He arrived in St. Louis Monday morning. Heading downstream, Ueleke boarded the steamboat Friday afternoon and was on the landing at Cape Girardeau Saturday afternoon, a downstream saving of more than a day on the upstream travel time. The current was at the steamboat's rear bumper, pushing it along better than any horn now on the highway.

The steamboat people provided a berth and meals and round-trip passage, Cape Girardeau-St. Louis, for $5. The company fed its passengers well, making them ashamed to complain about the high cost of steamboat passage.

The steamboat passengers from Jackson heaped their complaints on the commuting situation to and from the landing at Cape Girardeau. They complained about the Cape Girardeau Macadam and Plank Toll Road. The road was the best-surfaced and shortest route between the towns but a round trip on it was 90 cents for 20 miles and a man had to be in a tremendous hurry or a money-burning fool to use the toll road when he went to Cape.

Henry Morton, the Cape Girardeau county recorder, showed me a toll house that still stands, its toll-taker's three-windowed outcropping flush to the road, jutting out from the main part of the house. One window was a lookout to the west, one was a lookout to the east. The middle window is the biggest. The money changed hands through it.

Business went along smoothly at the toll-takers' middle windows from the time the road began business in 1853 until its charter expired in 1903, Morton said. The toll-takers kept demanding their money after the charter ran out but travelers gradually lost the habit of paying and in 1908 the toll gates were removed.

A farmer was the first to demonstrate how flimsy the tollgates had become. He looped a chain over one toll gate on the way into Jackson, said goodby to the toll-taker, whipped up his team and departed with half the gate. On the trip home the farmer flung his trusty chain over the remaining half of the toll gate and went home to celebrate free roads.

"We'd drive two miles out of the way to keep from paying the toll," Morton said. "Of course, when a fellow took his girl for a buggy ride he'd use the toll road, just to show what a big spender he was."

Ah, the good old days on the road, the simple days, the safe and sane days, Mr. Morton.

"Uh,huh," said Morton. "Like the days when the boys couldn't agree on which rig was the fastest. They'd line up and go at it and sometimes they'd lock wheels. There'd be buggies and horses and drivers scattered every-which-way.

"I think you call it drag-racing now."

When Losing a Nickel Was a Tragedy

Writer Recalls How at 6 He Twice Dropped His Movie Money Down Grate But Still Saw Show

By William Krasner

I WAS a desperate criminal—at 6. Or maybe I was even worse—a kind of nut—because a crime usually involves something people can understand—a motive, a hope of gain, and so on—but who could explain by such simple terms the crazy thing that I had done? . . . I had dropped my movie money, a whole nickel, on two successive Saturdays, down a cellar grate while on my way, with brother and two sisters, to the matinee.

It was our habit en route to stop and examine closely the variously colored and shaped fish spread out on the cracked ice in a Franklin avenue fish-store window; and twice I had let the nickel slip out of my sweaty palm and down into limbo.

The second time my brother demanded to know why. He was tolerant for an older brother—when I became one, later, I was not nearly so tolerant—but now he was angry and bewildered. My sisters, like any nice girls, drew discreetly to a side; but what they thought of me was obvious. How, my brother said, could anybody, even you, keep doing such a nutty thing?

I really didn't know. I knew as well as he how terrible it was to lose that money—suppose Art Acord or Rod LaRocque was playing and we came late? (It never really struck me that I might miss going altogether.) The first time had, of course, been accidental; but I had prepared very carefully for this second Saturday, had gone through stern rehearsals on how to hold the nickel, steeled myself . . . I had been so confident that I had refused, haughtily, my brother's demand that he hold it. Then we had paused before that window. I had a death grip on the nickel. A dead fish and I stared and gaped at each other, hypnotically. It so absorbed and affected me that I did not notice, until too late, that my hand had relaxed and the coin was gone again.

The first time I dropped the nickel my brother told us to wait there and not move, and he went inside and argued a while with the proprietor. Then he spent almost half an hour grubbing in the ancient undisturbed dirt of that basement under the grate. Finally, hands dusty, he came out, and grimly took a nickel—his own, saved at goodness knows what personal sacrifice—put it in with the movie money, and we went on. I think he may have been tempted to sock me, but what can you do with a 6-year-old maniac? Besides, we had to hurry or we might not have seen this chapter of the serial from the beginning.

The next Saturday the fish merchant refused to let my brother search the basement once more. Maybe he felt he was taking in as much through the grate as across the counter. So we had to make the long trek from Franklin avenue back to Dayton street to get another nickel. When we finally reached the theater we found that the feature was one we had seen before, in one of our very rare mid-week movie goings.

Nevertheless we paid and went in and sat through every minute of it, plus the serial, the travelogue, the sportsreel, the comedy, the newsreel, the cartoon, the coming attractions and the advertising slides. When we got home the girls had trembly lips and teary eyes and we all looked so woebegone that even my father, who did not ordinarily concern himself with issues less weighty than the iniquities of the Coolidge Administration, asked us in a worried voice what the matter was. The story poured forth. It was awful! We had seen the "main" picture before and hadn't liked it then, and the serial was such a stinker! It was called "Ten Scars Make a Man," and concerned a young cowboy, contemptuously rejected by all because he was unscarred, who arranged to acquire a scar in each chapter until he had finally collected enough to win his manhood and the girl.

My father was astonished. Besides, he had trouble understanding our problem. Then why did we spend the money to go in?

We looked at him with amazement equal to his. But how, we chorused, could we miss the chapter?

My children, who will be television-bred, will someday ask me, much as my father did, what all the fuss was about. Except for the early, late, and perhaps late-late shows they will have seen relatively few movies and will simply not understand; and they will think the whole thing, and me, very peculiar. Were those movies really so good? I will never answer honestly, no — the features were almost always bad, and the serials varied only in the degree of horribleness. Well, they will repeat, "Did you really rave to go?" And I'll say, "Oh yes—but please don't ask me why. . . ."

How can you explain the Saturday matinee to heathen? The week's anticipation, the careful begging and counting of pennies so some might be set aside for candy, the long walk past children not as fortunate, past fascinating store windows, the marque, posters, the immense screen into which you immediately plunged and drowned?

How can you even explain the relatively simple idea that in those quaint days it was actually thought by some parents that more than three hours a week of staring at a screen was harmful to the eyes, and so Saturday, in addition to its other virtues, was the only time a child was allowed to watch the movies?

Gradually, probably helped by my nickel losing tendencies, our group disintegrated. My sisters sought feminine companionship, and my brother, relieved, went with other teen-agers. Only I was faithful. I even shot angles to go more often—in spite of the threatened damage to my eyes. One favorite stunt was to commiserate with my mother, after supper, about how hard she worked and how seldom she went out—wouldn't she like to take a walk with me? Pleased, she would agree. Naturally, we would head toward Franklin avenue, the center of life and light in that neighborhood! Sometimes I had to walk up and down before the theater three or four times before she would fish out her coin purse to see if she had enough for admission.

At this time I was growing very rapidly, all in one dimension, and as early as 7 I was having trouble getting by for child's fare. But the only time I took decisive counter action was when, at 9, the movie owner refused me. I immediately re-returned home and came back with my mother. The owner, a man grown tired and calloused from years of Saturday matinees, knew how to handle kids in an elemental sort of way, but had not reckoned with my mother. I could see he had trouble understanding how such a small, mild-looking woman could have begotten such a limp noodle—or would want to acknowledge him—but he didn't dare say so. He tried to explain, through an accent like an obstacle course: "Look, missus, how tall he is . . ." My mother regarded him coldly through her shiny rimless bifocals, and delivered the clincher in one sentence: "Were YOU there when he was born?" He gave me no further trouble.

By the time I would have had to pay adult fare, I had moved on to higher things. The St. Louis Theater had opened ("The Third Largest Movie Palace in the Nation!") and I was happy to take the mile and a half hike each way—arriving before the prices changed at 2 o'clock. Who can forget the great movie palaces? Those acres of marble lobbies, deep wine carpets, velvet ropes, Louis Quatorze seats on which no one ever sat, marble nymphs pouring faucet water into the drinking fountains! But even the St. Louis was not the ultimate—that had to be the lobby of the Fox—that combination of Angkor Vat and the Temple of Dagon, which so used to awe a cousin of mine that he never entered without bowing in worship.

My children may not be able to dig the craze—but I think they might be able to understand the decline and fall. Unlike most, I don't believe it started with TV—though that did clinch it. I believe it began when the popcorn machine and the candy stand were moved from the Siberia of outside into the main lobby next to the life-size cutouts of Lana Turner and Clark Gable. To theater managers this was logical—they earned as much money and so deserved equal honor and access to customers.

But the main attraction of the movies to many was as a special event—the promise, stir and whiff of wonder and excitement to come (no matter how often betrayed), and part of this hokum, which we all joined in willingly, was the fake crystal chandeliers, and the gilt balustrades, even if they only went down to the lounges.

It's possible, of course, that the theater owners considered themselves simply good business men who were trying to keep up with the times. They may have noticed the dominant post-war feeling that the hucksters are everywhere anyway.

But has anyone yet been able to bring the hucksters into the temple without offending and driving away the truly pious? And will there ever be anyone who will—undoubtedly with those velvet ropes—drive them out of the movie temple again?

Fix It Yourself

By Hubbard Cobb

IF YOU HAVE wood floors in your home, this is a pretty fair time of the year to get them back into good condition. A good starting point is to remove the old accumulations of wax and dirt and the best thing to use here is a prepared wood floor cleaner. Water should not be used for cleaning a wood floor because it can damage the finish and can also harm the floor itself.

After the floor is clean you may find spots where the finish needs a little touching up. This is pretty easy to do with a spot of shellac, varnish, or floor seal depending on which kind is used on the floor. In general the area must be clean and dry and then thin coats of the correct finish are applied to build up a patch the same color and thickness as the surrounding finish.

If there is a spot where the finish has become badly worn, the wood may be discolored and this must be fixed before a patch is applied. Often you can remove dirt and discoloration from the wood by sanding.

If the dirt is very deep in the wood it may be necessary to apply a commercial wood bleach and then apply a dab of stain. This calls for careful work so that you don't get this one area darker than the rest. Apply the stain in very light thin coats. It's a lot easier to apply several thin coats and get the right result than to apply one thick coat and have it come out too dark.

Once you've got a nice clean floor and have done any necessary patching, it's time for wax. The best kind of wax to use on a wood floor is a paste wax and this should be applied with an electric waxer.

What to Do About Tattletales

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

MYRTLE ELDRED

DEAR MRS. ELDRED: I would like your advice about tattling. I can't condone this in my children, but what should I do about other people's children who tattle on mine? If I scold or punish my children for what I am told they have done, yet refuse to listen to them when they tell me about other children—it breeds resentment. They get frustrated, pout and have chips on their shoulders.

But if I don't listen to other children, it would seem that I do not care what mine are doing. This would give them the impression that doing wrong is all right.

I always scold my children for tattling and scold and punish them for wrong-doing.

Am I treating this in the only possible way? There are many parents with this problem, I am sure, and I would appreciate a discussion of it in your column.

Mrs. T. S. U.

No one likes a talebearer because he or she always has the hope that the tale will bear some fruit—either punishment or a scolding or at least the mother s discomfort.

But there are two types of tales and you are not differentiating between them. Some things you should want to know. These have to do with any acts in which your children are engaged which are dangerous or immoral. But there are dozens of innocent happenings in a child's day which are well within the capacity of children to manage themselves. Children have to learn to handle their conflicts on the playground without resort to parents.

This is what you should explain to your children. Tell them you want to hear only what is important. When other children come to you, hear them out. But if the incident is one you do not need to know, suggest that you expect them to take care of this by themselves. You'll find that you'll be doing them all a favor and stifle this petty tattling.

A problem with a neighbor can spoil your whole outlook and adversely affect your family. Send for Mrs. Eldred's helpful booklet, "Neighborhood Problems." Inclose 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Mrs. Eldred in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

YOU ARE SOUTH, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	?

What would you now bid with each of the following hands?

1. ♠AQ74 ♥J6 ♦KQ10 ♣Q952
2. ♠Q8763 ♥752 ♦94 ♣AQ6
3. ♠AQJ72 ♥94 ♦953 ♣KJ8
4. ♠AQJ942 ♥K863 ♦74 ♣5
5. ♠KJ853 ♥Q6 ♦7 ♣KQ843

1. Three notrump. An opening bid facing an opening bid means game. There is no question that we belong in game with this hand, and the indications are strong that the best game contract is in notrump. If partner's hand is such that he prefers to play in a suit contract, he is welcome to bid again over three notrump.

The trap to avoid is a bid of two notrump or three clubs, neither of which is forcing, though both are encouraging. These bids would show about 11 points.

2. Two hearts. We have very little more than our first bid indicated, and we therefore show willingness to play at a part score contract by bidding two hearts. It is far better to bid two hearts than pass, since partner might have a hand big enough to produce a game, and it is also better to bid two hearts than three clubs which is a more forward step in the direction of game.

It is true that the quality of the clubs is better than the quality of the hearts, but this is a minor consideration in choosing the trump suit. There is a good chance that partner has greater length in hearts than clubs.

3. Three clubs. The raise in clubs shows a possibility of game if the opener has more than a minimum opening. It is not forcing. A two spade bid, while it would show a good suit, would not be as encouraging for game purposes as a raise in clubs. The three club bid just about represents the values held.

4. Three hearts. It is clear that a game must be undertaken, and the jump preference, forcing to game, tells the story. It is not necessary to rebid the spades, since a heart fit is already established.

5. Four clubs. The excellent club fit and fine distribution require that a game be undertaken. The jump raise is forcing. Our 11 high-card points opposite an opening bid put us close to the game zone, and the distributional values and club fit are more than ample to justify insistence on a game.

If partner becomes slam-minded after the jump raise, he has the opportunity to use Blackwood to learn how many aces we have. This weakness in our hand—no aces—is easily discoverable.

Sidewalk Art Show In Rural Setting

EVERYONE KNOWS what an artist's life is like and where it is lived. In Bohemian garrets and basement studios in the gaslighted squares of big cities.

Who would expect to find an artist in the rolling, rural hills around High Ridge, Mo.? More than that, who would expect to find 40 artists putting on a sidewalk art show there? Yet this is what the Jefferson County Artists Guild will do this weekend, Sept. 2-3-4, with its Sidewalk Exhibit and Auction on the main street—Highway 30 or Gravois road—in High Ridge.

CLARISSA START

Our friends, Joe and Pat Whealen, who are better known for another art form, politics (Joe ran for the nomination for Governor in 1956) invited us to their home, Hilltop, in High Ridge to meet some of the artists and learn about the fair.

This entire art movement, we learned, began through one artist, Joe Peek, a retired stage designer who looks like an artist should look, beard and all. One day last spring, Peek walked into the jewelry store owned by young Bob Lenhart and noticed that Lenhart had a wall covered with paintings.

"To tell the truth," Lenhart says a bit apologetically, "there was this big empty wall so I asked Roscoe Flint-Smith, the sign painter, to lend me some of his things for display."

Peek, who has specialized in Indian art in recent years, remarked that it would be nice to have a display, maybe even a show for other Sunday and hobby artists.

As things go in our organized world, soon a committee was formed. Only four or five attended the first meeting but on June 29 the Jefferson County Artists Guild was formed. Now there are 40 members and 33 patrons. Artists include professionals like Bob Moody, portrait painter and scenic artist for Volland Studios, who'll study in Munich next year; Arthur Fitzsimmons, who teaches at St. Louis University; Edward Lamprich of the First National Bank's display department; Charles Wentworth of McDonnell Aircraft. Some are self taught like Mrs. Lester Weber of Grubville. Some started for fun like Cora Marie Flint-Smith, who was kibitzing her daughter's work when the family dared her to try; her "Sycamores" won a blue ribbon.

Lenhart has had to push the jewelry back in the corners of his store to house the exhibit work. There are landscapes by Mrs. Robert Stoveson, leather work by Walter (Bud) Mueller, Emmett Kelly portraits by Darlene Hanson, gun carvings, mosaic work, watercolors, oils. The only common denominator of the group is the slogan which Peek introduced, "Les peinteurs sont fou"—Painters are crazy.

The show, which will feature food as well as art, is only the beginning. The group plans to sponsor classes, maybe bring a bookmobile and summer theater to High Ridge. Meetings are held each Monday night at Lenhart's to sketch and paint and anyone who wanders in may end up modeling. I "sat" for 15 minutes and the results were intriguing. Everything from an intriguing aquiline profile ("I've only painted horses," the artist explained) to flattering glamour girl portraits and one modernistic cubistic interpretation by nine-year-old Melinda Flint-Smith ("I recognize the blockhead," my husband said admiringly.)

I don't know a thing about art but I know what I like. I liked the ones that made me look 20 years younger.

Ann Landers

Old Wives' Tales

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I agree with you most of the time but you have a pet theory which makes me see red. I refer to your repeated advice that a man should not marry a woman older than himself.

ANN LANDERS

My husband is seven and a half years my junior and I make no secret of it. Doc and I have three lovely children and we get along beautifully. Although it seems unlikely that our romance will go down in history we are much happier than our more conventionally matched friends.

Perhaps this cockeyed notion that the "young" woman is the most desirable (and therefore the prize) has been pounded into our heads by the advertising agencies. The ideal is youth, youth and more youth. If women took it seriously we'd all shoot ourselves on our thirtieth birthday.

Please, Ann, take it easy when a man writes about a woman who is "a few years older." She could make him a wonderful wife for all you know. DOC'S OLD DOLL

Dear Doll: There are many exceptions and you and Doc are probably good examples, but as a general rule, marriages don't work out well if the woman is older. Some women age rapidly after 30. The wife who at 40 looks like 50, can make a younger husband run like 60.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read the letter from the husband who complained because his wife put the dish towels in with the wash clothes, I was stopped cold. A soul-mate!

I married the same type but let's face it, fellas, we are to blame. My girl's mother was a slob who didn't even set a table. They ate from the pan. The house was always a wreck. Nothing was ever mended, repaired or replaced.

My folks warned me that my own house would look the same way if I married the girl, but I paid no attention. Now I see the sadness in their eyes when I go to their home for a good dinner once a week. It's the only home-cooked meal I get. My wife doesn't want to ruin her fingernails.

It's too late for me, but watch out, gents, my wife has two sisters who are looking for husbands. DITTO

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?" inclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Try and Stop Me

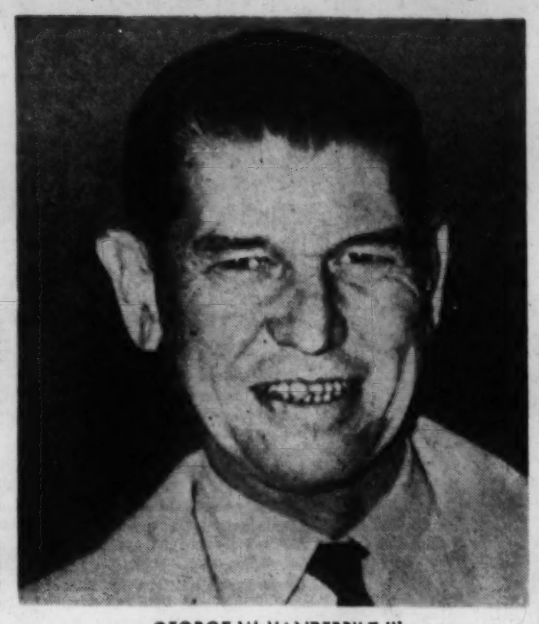
A PARTICULARLY CANNY Scotsman managed to cadge many a free drink with a riddle he found in a book intended for children. He would sidle up to bar and propose to a friend, "I'll bet ye a drink ye canna answer this riddle of me bairn's. I'm not Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday. What am I?"

"Okay," the friend would usually answer indulgently. "Are you Thursday?"

"I sure am," the Scotsman would declare heartily. "This hot weather makes a mon verra Thursday indeed. So I'll be having a whiskey and soda."

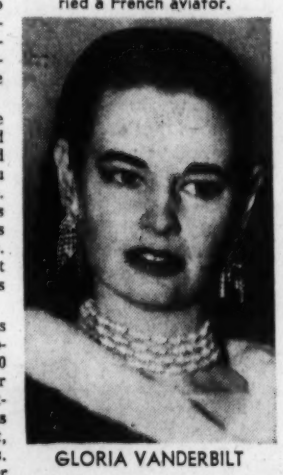
Tragic Chapters in Lives of the Vanderbilts

George III's Fatal Plunge Recalls Four-Generation History of Great Wealth, Domestic Misery

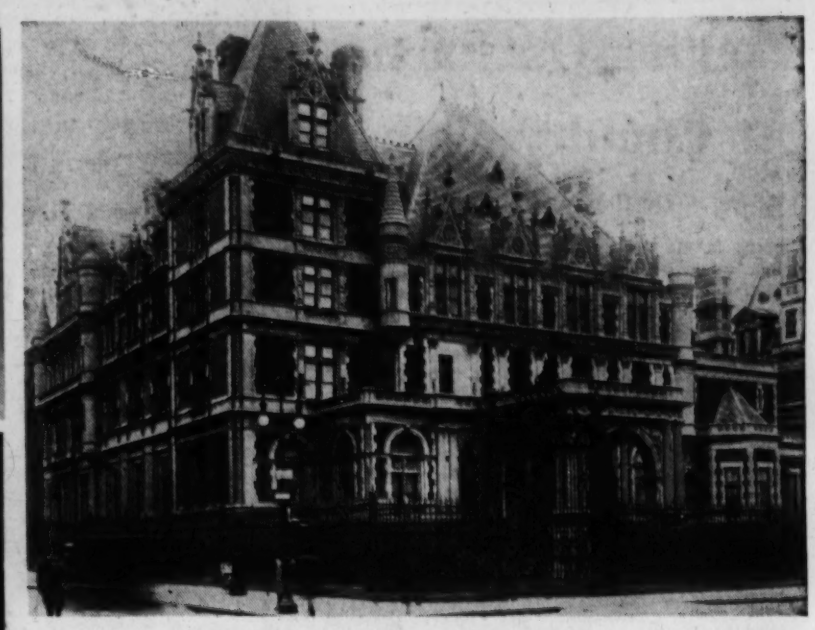


GEORGE W. VANDERBILT III

THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH, shortly after their marriage in 1895. The former Consuelo Vanderbilt, she divorced him in 1920, married a French aviator.



GLORIA VANDERBILT



Symbol of a way of life that has passed, the old Vanderbilt mansion on Fifth avenue, New York, was built in 1894, torn down in 1930.

By Olivia Skinner

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

WHEN George W. Vanderbilt III, 47-year-old multimillionaire, threw himself out of a tenth floor hotel room in San Francisco earlier this summer, it was but the latest tragic chapter in the annals of that fabled family. Domestic misery has marched hand in hand with money through Vanderbilt private life for four generations.

Until his death, multiple marriages were the only part of the family jinx to hit George and his older brother, racing enthusiast Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. They were the sons of the former Margaret Emerson, Baltimore Bromo-Seltzer heiress, and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who perished in 1915 on the torpedoed steamship Lusitania. Alfred, who could not swim, gave his life belt to a woman passenger and sent away his valet with the instructions: "Save all the kiddies you can, boy."

George W. Vanderbilt III was a quiet sort about whom his puzzled brother snorted: "He wouldn't walk across the street to see a horse race." But George made no bones about an itching foot. "I like to write, you know," he said. "I can write while I'm traveling. I see no sense pinning myself down to an office job."

His early hunting trips in search of "lions, tigers and fun" crystallized into a genuine love of natural history. He led two expeditions to Panama and two to Africa. One collecting trip to the south seas netted 5000 snakes, 15,000 insects and 10,000 birds for the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science.

Dedicated naturalists are among the most contented men in the world. For years George Vanderbilt cruised happily about in his yacht searching for animals like the exploding octopus he fished up from the bottom of the Pacific Ocean. The deep-water beast, said Vanderbilt, lived at such pressure that when he brought it to the surface it blew up in his face. He presented the two halves of the octopus to a museum in Honolulu. Later he endowed the George Vanderbuilt Foundation at Stanford University, for which he collected seven tons of rare fish in the Gulf of Thailand in 1958.

The thrice-divorced George was active not only in science but in philanthropy. A Navy veteran of World War II, he had won the Legion of Merit for heroism in Pacific combat.

On June 25, Vanderbilt and his fourth bride, the former Mrs. Louise Mitchell Paine, checked into the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco. He went out to buy theater tickets while his wife prepared to take a tub.

Later, when she emerged from the tub, the curtains were billowing through the large picture window, which had been closed when she entered the bathroom. Ten stories below, George Vanderbilt lay dead on the pavement.

Puzzled officials ruled the Vanderbilt tragedy "suicide because of ill health." A $40,000,000 inheritance, a respected scientific career and a new wife were not enough to save a great-grandson of "Commodore" Cornelius Vanderbilt from a violent death.

The tradition of unhappiness began with the Commodore himself, the founder of the fortune. According to a legend recounted by Cleveland Amory in "Who Killed Society?" tall, blond, 16-year-old Cornelius in 1810 wearied of chores on the family farm near Brooklyn, N. Y. His mother agreed to lend him $100 to buy a sailboat to tote freight and passengers between Staten Island and Manhattan. But at a price. Within one month Cornelius must first plow, harrow and plant with corn an eight-acre lot.

The boy made his first brilliant business deal then and there. He rounded up all his neighborhood chums and promised them sailboat rides in return for their labor to cultivate the eight acres. Seventy years later he had multiplied that original $100 capital a million times. The purchasing power of this sum today would be in the billions.

The Commodore was no doting father. He left his nine daughters $4,000,000. His favorite son, George Washington Vanderbilt, was killed in the Civil War. His second son Cornelius, epileptic, gambler and ne'er-do-well, was left $200 a week in trust. This, however, was understandable. According to Henry Chafetz in his "Beat the Devil, A History of Gambling in the United States," young Cornelius sponged on all his father's friends. Cornelius's penchant for gambling was so strong that when he had epileptic seizures at the faro table, his companions would go right on playing. They knew that when he recovered, he would resume gaming immediately.

Amory recounts that the Commodore labeled another son, William H. Vanderbilt, a "blatherskite, beetlehead and sucker" to his face. Only when young William bested his parent in a manure deal did the doughty financier begin to respect his son. He left $90,000,000 to William.

Old New York aristocracy like the Beekmans, the Schuylers and the Rhinelanders did not yield their scepters to the parvenu newcomers without a struggle. One Hyde Park (N. Y.) boy was allowed to play with Roosevelts but never with Vanderbilts. "You may be nice to them, but don't get involved," warned his mother.

In that era, $176,000,000 was sent abroad to purchase European noble husbands for 500 American heiresses. Mrs. Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont, recent-divorced from the Commodore's grandson, William K. Vanderbilt, smarted from Old Guard snubs. She recouped by finagling for her unwilling 18-year-old daughter, Consuelo Vanderbilt, the most aristocratic of all, Charles Spencer Churchill, ninth Duke of Marlborough.

But the dark, willowy bride was in love with another man. She consented to the match after an argument that, the daughter said, "drained all my youth away." At that, however, the mother had had to fake a heart-attack to bring about her daughter's capitulation. Lest Consuelo change her mind at the last moment, Mrs. Belmont set a guard at her daughter's door on her wedding day.

At the church, symphony orchestra conductor Walter Damroch waited with upraised baton for 20 minutes before playing the wedding march. Churchill delayed the ceremony while he signed last-minute documents "financial in nature" with his father-in-law's attorneys. In all, $2,500,000 worth of railway stock was made over to the duke that day in 1895.

At Blenheim, the Marlborough castle in England, Consuelo was instructed by her mother-in-law to have a son as quickly as she could. "It would be impossible," said the dowager, "to have that little upstart Winston Churchill become duke."

When Consuelo obediently produced the infant Blandford and the infant Ivor in quick succession, her mother-in-law sniffed condescendingly that "American women seem to have boys more easily than we do." In 1920, Consuelo had had it. Her marriage had cost the Vanderbilts $10,000,000. She divorced the duke, the walled ancestral castle of Blenheim and bought-and-paid for nobility. Her subsequent marriage in 1921 provides one of the few genuinely happy endings in the sad Vanderbilt saga. To this day, still beautiful, she is Mrs. Jacques Barzan, wife of a French aviator. He had fallen in love with her when she was 17.

Two years after the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding, a columnist wrote in a gossip magazine, "Where were the Vanderbilts socially even five years ago? . . . but I prophecy that they will eventually lead, partly because there is more gold on the young male, and more brass on the young female side of the house . . ."

The female who most mightily helped this prophecy come true was Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt III. It was a sad blow to the Commodore's grandson, Cornelius Vanderbilt II and his wife when their third son married Miss Grace Wilson in 1896 against their strenuous objections. A distant cousin, the etiquette authority Miss Amy Vanderbilt, this year neatly summed up the family attitude toward the former Miss Wilson. "The difference between me and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt," she said, "is that I was born a Vanderbilt and she was born a Wilson."

The two generations of Cornelius Vanderbilts were not reconciled for years. In diamond and emerald stomacher, dog collars, outsize brooches and pendant earrings, the younger Mrs. Vanderbilt tried energetically to outshine her mother-in-law. This took some doing. Mrs. Cornelius II lived in a $3,000,000 turreted Manhattan town house designed after the royal French chateau of Blois.

Mrs. Grace Wilson Vanderbilt's son Cornelius IV remarked: "All her life, Mother loved the limelight." Hostesses used to invite Mrs. Vanderbilt an hour earlier than other guests because, to make an effective entrance, she always arrived 60 minutes late. A contemporary commented: "She was without conversation." True enough; except about herself. Her colossal ego seemed unpuncturable. In a letter from England she wrote: "As soon as the King entered he looked around . . . pointed me out to some other royalties and said how charming I was . . . they all said I had the most beautiful jewels in the house."

The relentless pursuit of social prominence does not breed a cozy home life. Women in society in those days generally saw their children not more than a few minutes a day.

Cornelius Vanderbilt III arrived at his office earlier than any of his clerks and spent as much time there as possible. His son Cornelius IV wrote: "I can't say that I think my parents had very happy lives . . . Their marriage deteriorated seriously over the years . . . I asked them why they didn't get a divorce. 'People in our situation do not get divorces', my father said."

Six-times-wed Cornelius IV has had no such scruples. Though he now lives chiefly by describing the foibles of his friends and forbears in print, at his first marriage, to Rachel Littleton, the newlyweds received $1,000,000 worth of wedding gifts.

Five wives and 26 years later, his fifth ex-wife, Mrs. Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt, applied for public relief in New York. She was destitute, she said, except for her mink coat and two pawn tickets for jewelry. Her former husband soon afterwards declared in court that his entire fortune consisted of $120, remains of a $250 fee he'd earned judging a beauty contest.

MRS. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, as she appeared before her death in 1953.

Cornelius's first cousin, Gloria Vanderbilt di Cicco Stokowski, now married to television director Sidney Lumet, broke into the news as a thoroughly unhappy 10-year-old. In 1934, the dark-eyed granddaughter of Cornelius II sat like an impassive, well-mannered doll through one of the most famous American court battles in history.

Her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, widow of Reginald C. Vanderbilt, slugged out a no-holds-barred custody fight with the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. For Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, little Gloria's custody was a simple matter of bread and butter.

The profligate Reginald had left her only $82,000. At the left of the trial she was attempting to live on $112 a week. Her offspring was worth $3,500,000.

Privately, however, Gloria told Justice John F. Carew that she hated her mother and preferred living with Mrs. Whitney. There she had a pony and several cousins her own age. In 1941, at her first marriage, to actor's agent Pasquale di Cicco, she allowed a glimpse of her early emotions. "I am proud of being Mrs. di Cicco," said the 17-year-old bride. "I was never proud of being a Vanderbilt."

Five years later she cut off her mother's allowance and distributed the money to international children's relief. Said the Poor Little Rich Girl: "Mother can work."

These days from her rooms on the top floor of the last large Vanderbilt mansion in Newport, R. I., Gloria's aunt, the former Gladys Vanderbilt, now Countess Laszlo Szechenyi, surveys hordes of visitors "viewing the remains" at $1.50 a head. For Amory she summed up the decline and fall of her world with sad accuracy.

"When all is said and done," she said, "the people who should have set the standards, didn't."

WOMEN

Coming-Out Parties At Country Clubs

By Peggy Johnson

MISS MARIE ANNE BALDWIN will meet her parents' friends late this afternoon at a reception from 5 to 7 o'clock at St. Louis Country Club. The debutante is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Warrington Baldwin, 48 Glen Eagles drive, St. Louis Country Club Grounds. They will receive their guests in the middle lounge of the club, which is decorated for the occasion with myriads of pink carnations in silver wine coolers.

—Martin Schweig Photograph.
MISS BALDWIN . . . to be introduced.

The buffet table is covered with a white cloth and decorated with a large silver epergne holding more of the blossoms, and silver candelabra with pink tapers. Individual tables in the dining room and on the porch are surrounded with the pink blossoms and smilax.

Miss Baldwin, called Anne, will wear pink silk embroidered organza, with a fitted bodice, cap sleeves and portrait neckline. The bouffant skirt will be worn over crinolines. Her bouquet is an old-fashioned nosegay composed of pink sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Baldwin has chosen a navy blue sheath, with a peau de soie skirt and lace bodice, for her daughter's debut. Her flowers will be pink orchids.

Miss Baldwin will meet her contemporaries at a Christmas ball Dec. 27 at St. Louis Country Club where she will share honors with Miss Carolyn McCluney, Miss Ann Gillis and Miss Lucinda Pantaleoni.

A graduate of Mary Institute, Miss Baldwin attended Briarcliff College last year. She and her parents will spend the late winter months touring Europe.

Miss Moran to Bow at Tea.

OLD WARSON COUNTRY CLUB, the scene of a coming-out party yesterday, will be the setting for two other debuts today. Miss Elizabeth Ann Macheca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Macheca, was presented yesterday. Miss Sharon Lee Moran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Harrison Moran, will make her debut this afternoon at a tea, and Miss Katherine Phelan Kerckhoff, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Kerckhoff, will be introduced at a dance tonight.

—Martin Schweig Photograph.
MISS HORNSBY . . . to serve at tea.

Miss Moran and her mother will greet their guests before the living room fireplace at the club. A background will be provided by woodwardia fern and ivy trees, studded with lavender asters, pale blue chrysanthemums and white pompons.

The debutante will wear a pale blue organza gown with a white lace bodice and a full skirt. She will hold a nosegay of white carnations and pale blue pompons accented with deep lavender blossoms. Mrs. Moran will be in a simply fashioned amethyst chiffon gown. Her flowers will be white orchids.

In the dining room, the tea table will be covered with white organdy over pale blue. The centerpiece will be composed of pale blue and white pompons and white Fuji chrysanthemums.

Assisting will be Miss Noel Bosse, Miss Judith Schneithorst, Miss Susan Glaser, Miss Christy Hornsby, Miss Nancy Dameron and Miss Betty Brown.

Terrace Dance for Miss Kerckhoff.

GUESTS HAVE BEEN INVITED for 9 o'clock for Miss Kerckhoff's party. The debutante and her parents will receive before a background made up of greenery and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Bowls filled with chrysanthemums and golden roses will be arranged throughout the living room.

Miss Kerckhoff has chosen a champagne satin sheath lightly beaded both in back and front. She will hold a teardrop bouquet of apricot Fuji chrysanthemums, bronze pompons and croton foliage. Mrs. Kerckhoff will be in a satin gown, in a pale cream shade, embellished with beading. She will wear a brown cymbidium orchid.

The young guests will dance on the terrace to music by Russ David's orchestra which will be seated before manzanita trees ornamented with bronze and yellow chrysanthemums. Small tables will be decorated with gold hurricane lights and autumn flowers and the buffet table will have as a centerpiece large wicker cornucopias spilling chrysanthemums, green leaves and grapes.

Here for the party are Miss Terry Dammann of La Jolla, Calif., and Miss Jean Ponder of El Paso, Tex., former classmates of Miss Kerckhoff at San Diego (Calif.) College.

Miss Macheca Presented at Tea.

MISS MACHECA'S PARTY yesterday, a tea, was given in the library on the new second floor of the club. Aristocrat roses provided decoration.

The debutante was in pale pink organza embroidered with deep pink roses and green leaves. She held a thousand-petal rose. Mrs. Macheca chose a pale pink lace sheath and a green orchid corsage.

The tea table was set in the Warsonian Room and decorated with a crystal and gold epergne holding aristocrat roses and pink carnations. Assisting, were Miss Odille Thatcher, Miss Emily Simmons, Miss Nancy O'Brien, Miss Nancy Barker, Miss Susan Averill, Miss Susan Deckop of Buffalo and Miss Joan Flanigan of Pottsville, Pa.

To Study Ceramics at Brooklyn Museum.

GEORGE L. WULFF III, son of Dr. and Mrs. George J. L. Wulff Jr., 6 Graybridge lane, Ladue, has returned from Deer Isle, Me., where he spent the summer at the Haystack School of Crafts. He was a student in the ceramics department as recipient of a scholarship from the Chicago Art Institute where he received a degree in art and education in June. He is also a graduate of John Burroughs School.

In the fall Mr. Wulff will study ceramics at the Brooklyn Museum as winner of the Max Beckmann Competitive Scholarship. He will study with Hui Ka Kwong, noted ceramic artist.

Honeymooning in Jamaica

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT CAVE PETTUS, at the Half Moon Hotel in Montego Bay, Jamaica, where they spent their honeymoon. Before their marriage Aug. 13, Mrs. Pettus was Miss Sharon Anne Wright. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buford Wright.

Fall Rush Week In Columbia

FALL RUSH WEEK at the University of Missouri in Columbia will begin next Monday with registration of women students in the Student Union building. There will also be afternoon meetings for rushees and a separate meeting for parents at which faculty members will explain rushing procedure.

The fourteen national sororities will entertain new pledges at dinner that evening.

For many years rush week at the university has been conducted not by the college Panhellenic organization but by the City Panhellenic Association of Columbia. Rushing is limited to sophomore, junior and senior students with a required grade average. A registration fee for rush week is required and all rushees are housed for the week by the university in a women's dormitory.

Because no summer rushing by individual sororities is permitted, Panhellenic alumnae associations in St. Louis, Kansas City and other Missouri cities arranged series of parties for the purpose of giving information about national sororities. More than 200 girls attended the parties given in St. Louis in June.

Linda Vormehr Is Bride of R. M. Berkley II

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT McCOY BERKLEY II, whose wedding took place Aug. 26 at Mary Queen of Peace Church, Webster Groves, are spending their honeymoon in Colorado. They will return to St. Louis Sept 8 to make their home at 9126 Holiday Gardens drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Willian Anton Vormehr, parents of the bride, the former Miss Linda Claire Vormehr, gave a breakfast for the immediate families and members of the bridal party after the wedding and a reception in the evening at their home, 10 Deerfield road, Ladue.

The bride's attendants, three in pink organza dresses and two in lilac, were Miss Kathryn Becker, Miss Sharon Waller, Miss Patricia Ritchie of Centralia, Ill., and Miss Susan Magyar. Maid of honor was the bride's cousin, Miss Jeanette Cunningham. Claire Ann Magyar was flower girl and Berry Ahlemeier, ring bearer.

Attendants for Mr. Berkley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Berkley, were his brother, Charles Berkley, best man, and Jack Hartnagel, a cousin; David Mass, David Hatt, John Wright, of Farmington, Mo.; Norman Zimmerman and Robert Turner of Mexico, Md., ushers. The bridegroom lives at 756 Kent road, Ladue.

The bride's dress of white peau de soie was fashioned with a lace bodice and a full skirt which formed a chapel train. An orange blossom crown held her veil and she carried a cascade of white roses and white orchids.

Martha Carr's OPINION

His Mother Objected to Her.

Today's column is just for teen-agers. If you have a problem you would like to talk over with Martha, send it in.

Dear Martha:

I AM 17. I like a boy who is 18. We had been dating for three months but are no longer. My problem is his mother. She won't let him give me his ring or be with me in his spare time. He says he likes me and wants to be with me and I believe him. He works nights during the week and on Sundays his mother always has his day planned for him. If he rebels against what she wants she threatens to take his car away. She has already taken his rings away from him for fear he will give one to me. To top everything off, the other day he got a traffic ticket. So his parents grounded him for two months. What shall I do?

IN NEED OF ADVICE.

Where's your pride? If this boy's mother objects to his going out with you, forget him and look around for another interest. His parents are sensible to ground him for two months as a disciplinary measure following his getting that traffic ticket. He may have more appreciation now for being allowed to use his family's car.

Dear Martha:

I TOOK A JOB for the summer and met a very nice boy who works at the same place I do. I really like to be with him because we have so much in common. I am a senior in high school and he is a freshman in college and soon we will both be back in school. I would like to keep on seeing him after our summer jobs are finished but he has never mentioned a date although he does seem to like my company. Isn't there some way I could hint that I would like to go out with him? There must be some way. CONFUSED.

Girls don't hint to boys that they are anxious to be dated. Sometimes a little show of independence prompts a boy to ask for a date sooner than exhibiting too much interest. You have probably already allowed this boy to find out through your actions that you are interested in him. Be a little more reserved around him and his interest may be piqued to the point of asking you for a date.

Dear Martha:

I AM 14. I like this certain boy and he likes me. Every time I am at the show we sit together. He said he was going to get me a birthday gift. Should I accept it and if I do should I get him a birthday present too when his birthday comes up? J.J.

If the birthday gift is just some little remembrance of small value you can accept it but do not buy a gift in return for this boy. You are not special friends if you just sit together in the movie and it would be unseemly for a girl to give a gift to a boy she knows only on a casual basis.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's leaflets, "Care of the Hair," "Care of the Skin," "E for Etiquette," "Answer to the Petting Question" and "What Every Babysitter Should Know."

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Fingernail Problem

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I have two fingernails that have white spots underneath, and they are separating from the flesh. Could you tell what is causing this? I have not injured the nails to my knowledge. MRS. S.

In medical language this is onycholysis (ah-KNEE-coe-LY-sis) which means that the nail is coming loose from its anchorage. If people ask, "What's the matter with your nails?" you can reply that you have onycholysis.

There are multiple causes for this condition. Your letter pointed out that you have not, so far as you know, injured the nails, for injury can cause these white spots as well as loosening.

Another cause, and very common, is psoriasis—a skin condition about which, frankly, we don't know very much, although it is very common.

If psoriasis happens to be affecting the nails, the case is probably one in which you know that you have the problem. So if you've been chronically troubled with psoriasis, and then have some nail trouble, that could well be the reason.

If we can rule that out, what else? Well, being allergic to nail polish or to "clip-on" nails is a possibility. If that's it, the answer is obvious: Give your nails a chance to get along without their make-up.

Still another possible cause is some fungus, perhaps a form of ringworm, which has invaded the nail-bed.

These are the major causes.

I would be less than frank if I suggested that a doctor could look at such a case and say at once what is the cause of the trouble. Treatment sometimes (and sometimes not!) can be even harder than the diagnosis.

Some types of fungus may be the easiest to correct. Allergy, once it is identified, can be solved with reasonable readiness, too. If it's psoriasis, it becomes a trial-and-error matter, because there is no fixed treatment. With good luck you find an answer on the first or second try. With bad luck, you decide that there isn't any answer. It's that sort of a disease—not a dangerous ailment, but often as baffling as anything medicine has to tackle.

If somebody suddenly found a sure cure for psoriasis, he'd never save a life, because it isn't deadly; but he'd reap a fortune, because psoriasis is such a puzzling nuisance.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I have drunk warm water every morning before breakfast for several years. I heard it was healthy. Then a little while ago someone told me this would cause hardening of the liver. MRS. G.L.

A glass of water in the morning, whether before breakfast or after, whether warm, medium or cold, is a healthful habit. It will not cause hardening of the liver or anything else. All I can say is that "someone" is always trying to take the joy out of life. I can't think of anybody who is so full of wrong information as these "someones" who are forever trying to tell everybody else what they do wrong. Go ahead with that glass of water in the morning, at any temperature that suits you.

LADIES: Best way to remove chipped nail polish is to first rub nail with baby oil, then a thin layer of cold cream—and then scrape nail with flat end of a file. Comes off like magic. . . . A Macabre Merry-Go-Round

By Adele Starbird

ADELE STARBIRD

I WATCHED Charles Collingwood's recent television program, "Berlin: Act of War?" So much anguish in those faces! What does it mean? What is the deep underlying significance that we shall seize in retrospect, if at all?

By chance this week I came across a postcard I had mailed from Germany when I was a young girl. It says: "Since Adrianople has gone to the Bulgarians, the war talk gets very serious. For six months every enterprise in Austria has been closed, and the foot soldiers have been mobilized. There is real distress in Austria. In Lorraine the people are all stirred up by the coming and going of soldiers who watch the frontier day and night. Business is at a standstill in Germany. Everybody is holding on to his money in case of war. Frau Weber says that the traveling men who come here leave without a single order. They say that by March or April there is bound to be war or a revolution."

However I may smile at my simplicity in giving credence to all the hotel gossip — it is scarcely probable that every enterprise in Austria was closed down—the deep fear of war strikes me as important. The card is postmarked Jan. 22, 1913. Eighteen months later, plus a few days, Europe was at war. I do not mean to imply that the fear brought on the war; it merely presaged it.

Recently I have read the two volumes of Hanotaux on the events that led up to the First World War. Every telegram, every diplomatic exchange is recorded from Serbia, Austria, France, England and Germany, as well as President Wilson's offer to mediate. It recalled vividly all that we had experienced during those anxious years.

In 1930, I was again in Germany, this time in Berlin, not far from the Brandenburg Gate. One evening I went to the Markgrafenplatz to witness an outdoor Communist rally. It consisted entirely of solemn black-shirt young men who drilled and marched and stood rigid during the speeches.

Late that same evening I was at Femina, the most fashionable of the numerous Berlin night clubs, where there was a phone on every table, so that a man across the room could telephone a girl at another table and ask for a tango, where the floor was so congested that it was almost impossible to get through, where champagne flowed like water and lobster was as common as hot-dogs.

The Communist meeting and the Femina extravagance in a city where there was acute want formed an appalling picture. I wrote to a friend (who kept the letter) that I had seen that night blind Samson tugging at the pillars of the temple.

I had seen something worse than I could interpret; I had seen the groundwork for Hitler.

What am I trying to prove? Nothing at all. It is just that seeing the pictures of barbed wire and a wall at the Brandenburger Tor makes me feel dizzy, as if I had made too many trips on a macabre merry-go-round.

"For Heaven's sake, George, you're kneeling on my new McCall's!"

CHURCH NOTICES

WHERE IS THE CHURCH OF CHRIST?

WHERE IS THE CHURCH OF CHRIST? It is where congregations are known as "churches of Christ" (Rom. 16:16) and its members as "Christians (1 Pet. 4:16); refer to the church as the "body of Christ" (Col. 1:24); and recognize that the Kingdom of Christ is the church (Matt. 16:18-19).

WHERE IS THE CHURCH OF CHRIST? It is where people teach sinners to be saved: by believing in Christ (John 20:30-31); by repenting of sins (Acts 17:30); by confessing Christ (Matt. 10:32); and by being baptized into Christ (1 Pet. 3:21, Gal. 3:26, 27).

WHERE IS THE CHURCH OF CHRIST? It is where people worship in song without instrumental music (Col. 3:16, Heb. 2:12); where they offer prayer to God in no other name than that of Christ (1 Tim. 2:5); where the word of God is taught (Col. 4:16); where they observe the Lord's Supper each first day of the week (Acts 20:7); and make contributions weekly on the first day (1 Cor. 16:1-2).

WHERE IS THE CHURCH OF CHRIST? It is where people accept the Bible pattern of church organization: a plurality of elders or bishops over the local church (Titus 1:5); deacons to assist the elders (1 Tim. 3:8-13); evangelists to preach the word (Acts 21:8, 2 Tim. 4:1-5); teachers to teach the word (Heb. 5:12); and all members are part of the body of Christ (1 Cor. 12:27).

WHERE IS THE CHURCH OF CHRIST? It is where people are taught that Christians must live godly lives and be steadfast in the work of the Lord (1 Cor. 15:58); that they must add the Christian graces to their faith (2 Peter 1:5-11); and that they must be faithful unto death (Rev. 2:10).

Wife, Mother and Volunteer Worker

By Lydia Bickford

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. (AP).

PLAN A MASS MEETING of all the women volunteers in the United States and you'd have to rent several hundred football stadiums.

You'd find enough talent, too, to run a king-size corporation—and still have ability left over. You can find women who fill every post from switchboard operator to chairman of the board.

Women talk, walk, plan, collect, create, cook, implore, phone, write, enlist, solicit for hundreds of causes that couldn't exist without their efforts.

Is volunteering a satisfying way of life for the bazaar chairman, the door bell ringer, the hospital worker, the poster designer, the ticket seller?

For some it's therapy, for others creativity, or the feeling of being needed. But for a much smaller number it's a seemingly endless round of frenzied and inconclusive activity.

Women workers point out what they like about volunteer work:

There's its flexibility. "If the children have mumps, I don't feel guilty about canceling. I couldn't do that with a paid job," explains one woman.

Others like the freedom of choice "which I wouldn't get if I worked for a pay check. I can select the agencies in which I'm most interested."

They like to feel their voluntary activities are not conflicting with their husbands' careers. "If I'd kept on with my work as a fashion designer, I know my husband would have subconsciously resented my success. He has to be top dog to be happy."

Sometimes women who have never held jobs discover hidden abilities. These are the superb home managers who become volunteer chairmen, organizers and planners; the born clubwomen.

Other women given to self-scrutiny volunteer only where they can use their talents. "I'm a former social worker, I'd rather volunteer in a counseling agency and be in the environment where I belong—than do odd jobs any untrained woman can do."

Perhaps the strongest sense of satisfaction comes to women who have a binding emotional tie with the agency for which they work. A mother whose child is retarded throws herself heart and soul into the cause of retarded children, and will work tirelessly for their help.

But what about the worker who feels herself on a treadmill?

One woman, for example, is on the board of a woman's club, which means she attends two meetings a month; she models, prepares a dessert and arranges for delivery of 100 card tables for the annual fashion show; drags her protesting husband to three covered dish suppers annually; attends meetings for explorations into the needs of the community's senior citizens and performs liaison with county and state clubs.

She is also a member of the volunteer committee for mental health, for which she spends an hour a day at the telephone trying to recruit volunteers for work at the state hospital.

She is on the speakers' bureau of an anti-highway organization, although she hates to make speeches; makes door-to-door forays to raise money for it and keeps a clipping scrapbook for the group.

She is room mother for her daughter's class, works with the Junior Museum helping set up exhibits. When the local hospital has a fair to finance a new wing, she makes five pounds of potato salad and four quarts of chili.

How did this ball of activity ever get rolling?

"I guess I'm a victim of the soft sell," she says." Everybody tells you the job means no work at all—which is a laugh.

"My other gripe is about meetings, meetings, meetings. Calling a meeting is the chairman's solution for anything, no matter how trivial. People get way off the point, get very emotional, and hours go by. And nothing has been settled."

To such harried do-gooders, women who are able to keeep their volunteer work within reasonable bounds have advice.

"Walk with caution before saying yes," says one lady of experience. "I try to find out exactly what the work entails—meetings how often, how long, and what for. Telephoning, the same. How much help I can count on if it's a big planning job. Most of all, do I feel this organization is necessary? Is it doing a job? Or does it seem like made work?"

Dr. Larrey's 'Flying Ambulance'

IF YOU HEARD someone speak about a "flying ambulance," you would be correct, almost surely, if you assumed that it was some type of aircraft fitted up to serve as an ambulance.

Helicopters have come into widespread use to transport injured persons to distant hospitals. They also have played a part in rescuing the wounded during modern warfare.

Going back to the time of Napoleon, we find something very different that was called a "flying ambulance." It was a horse-drawn cart with a good covering to shield the wounded.

Dr. Larrey's Flying Ambulance.

That device was invented by Dr. J. D. Larrey, and people spoke of it as "Dr. Larrey's Flying Ambulance." It gave Napoleon's wounded soldiers quicker trips to hospitals than they had known before.

Dr. Larrey put in long hours in his work for the French general. In one 24-hour period, after a battle, he performed 200 amputations.

To perform that many operations in a day and night was a hard task, but it makes me think of the poor state of the medical art when doctors were quick to amputate.

Present-day surgeons have changed their general attitude toward amputation. In the past amputation was common, partly because of the danger of gangrene and blood poison. The operation took place so often that "sawbones" became a nickname for a doctor, especially an army doctor.

At present, improved methods of sanitation are used, also "miracle drugs." Competent surgeons do their utmost to avoid cutting off an arm or leg, or even a finger or toe.
